Missing Data About Mysterious Swissair Flight 111 Who Gains & Who Loses?

An uncharacteristically revealing Associated Press release for Thursday evening, 9/10/98, began with the following comments: “Swissair Flight 111 crashed into the ocean off Nova Scotia with such force that the impact registered at a regional seismic center, investigators said Thursday. Only 2 percent of the aircraft has been retrieved so far, mostly small pieces that were floating on the surface of the Atlantic, said Vic Gerden, the chief crash investigator.”

Now, was it the “crash” of an intact airplane upon the water which generated a strong enough concussive pressure-wave to wiggle the seismographs? Or, was the shaking of the seismic instrumentation possibly due to the blast-wave of a bomb-type explosion—maybe happening while the airplane was still in the air—which would more tellingly account for those many little airplane and cargo fragments and body parts so widely dispersed all over the place? Was this particular news announcement part of a calculated process of cover up, after ones learned a lesson from the inconvenient (to the official story) “double signature” of the seismographic record near the Oklahoma City bombing event? Hmmm.

N. KOREA MISSILE ZOOMS OVER JAPAN

Excerpted from THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 9/1/98: [quoting]

Some experts said the showy test launch might be a ploy to gain leverage in talks with the United States.

Possibly angling for concessions in upcoming weapons talks, North Korea launched a new, more powerful long-range ballistic missile on Monday that crossed over Japan's main island and crashed into the Pacific Ocean.

A Japanese defense official said the test missile appears to have had two stages, with the second projectile probably flying over the northern tip of Japan's main island and landing a few hundred miles off its Pacific coast.

The first stage of the launch apparently dropped into the sea about 180 miles southeast of Vladivostok, Russia, said Defense Agency spokesman Toru Kawajiri.

Kawajiri said the missile was thought to be a Daepodong I, a rocket much more sophisticated than anything the North has previously tested. The Pentagon calls the missile a Taepo Dong I, which is merely a different transliteration.

The launch comes just ahead of the convening of North Korea's new parliament Saturday for a congress expected to anoint leader Kim Jong II as president of the reclusive communist nation.

It also comes as North Korea and the United States are involved in talks in New York about giving the North two badly needed civilian nuclear reactors in return for its suspending efforts to develop missiles and atomic weapons.

Some Korea watchers said the timing was likely a bargaining ploy. [End quoting]

On Art Bell's late-night radio talk-show, one "reliable source" said there were actually two missiles launched and that one was "diverted" from what would have been a particularly volatile target—a nuclear facility in Japan!

SENATORS ASK FBI TO CONSIDER ASSASSINATION

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 9/4/98: [quoting]

Senators asked FBI Director Louis Freeh Thursday to consider the legality of assassinating Osama bin Ladin and other suspected terrorist leaders. Referring to terrorist leaders, Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., asked Freeh, "What is present law with respect to their takedown?" Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said, "I would very much like a legal memorandum from the FBI, stating whether or not the prohibition against assassination of heads of state applies to organized crime units and/or terrorist units."

Freeh said that while the prohibition against killing heads of state is clear, he was unsure about the legality of assassinating others and would study the question.

There was no doubt in the Judiciary Committee hearing who the senators had in mind: bin Ladin, the alleged mastermind of the Aug. bombings of U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania that killed more than 250 people, including a dozen Americans.

After the hearing, lawmakers stopped short of advocating an assassination attempt on the exiled Saudi multimillionaire and fundamentalist Muslim. But even public discussion of assassination represents a sharp change on Capitol Hill, where the pressure for the executive order prohibiting U.S. involvement in assassinations originated in the 1970s. "I just want to know what the law is," Biden said.

Feinstein said arrest of terrorists is the best option but other "robust" strategies should be considered.

"We have to think in a different way than we thought before," Feinstein said. "It's a very dicey thing to get into a situation where you're going to have licensed hit squads. At the same time we need to find ways to be proactive." [End quoting]

How do you like the words that Feinstein uses to cover the word murder or kill. It's obvious that she wants to pull it off but can't quite say that she wants to murder someone. Murder is murder is murder—no matter what words you put on it and it is one of the worst crimes there is and she and others are trying to accomplish it without using the word.

PRESIDENTIAL GIFT

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 9/2/98: [quoting]

Russian leader Boris Yeltsin gave President Clinton a U.S. flag Tuesday at the Kremlin. The flag was originally presented to Russia by a U.S. Navy delegation in 1866. [End quoting]

Don't you find this very interesting that they would be giving back a present that is well over a hundred years old, and a U.S. flag at that?

I can come up with a supposition: Like they kept the flag until the time they would replant it in the U.S. as their country. The elite have been planning this conquest for many, many years. Remember Gorbachev has "occupied" for some time the plush Army base in the San Francisco Bay area called the Presidio.

BUYOUT OF AMOCO REUNITES TWO PARTS OF ROCKEFELLER'S TRUST

From THE MAINICHE DAILY NEWS, Japan, 8/13/98: [quoting]

CHICAGO (Bloomberg)—The buyout of Amoco by British Petroleum Co. (BP) will rejoin two parts of John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil Trust split apart near the turn of the century by an epochal U.S. Supreme Court anti-monopoly ruling.

BP absorbed Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, Rockefeller's original base, in 1987, when it bought the 45 percent of the company it didn't already own. Amoco is the direct successor of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, a company created by the dismemberment of the Standard Oil Trust. Amoco's buyout by BP is the latest consolidation in which parts of a giant sundered by antitrust action will rejoin. Consolidation is well under way among the Baby Bells created when the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. monopoly was broken up in 1984.

"They are all coming back together," said Edward Maran, an analyst with A.G. Edwards & Sons.

Dan Dietsch, an Amoco spokesman, said, "John D. Rockefeller is probably whooping it up in his grave."

The 1909 Supreme Court decision that split Rockefeller's conglomerate came decades after it amassed a huge monopoly and attracted a barrage of criticism for predatory practices.

Standard Oil was huge. It had more than 80 percent of the domestic and export markets for kerosene, a more important product than gasoline or diesel at the time. It refined more than three-quarters of all U.S. crude oil and controlled petroleum transportation along key corridors.

Many years after the Standard Oil Trust was broken up, BP, searching for reserves outside the volatile Mideast, became interested in exploring for oil in Alaska.

As a means of refining and marketing Alaskan crude, BP bought a stake in Standard Oil of Ohio, or Sohio, as the company was known. Sohio disappeared as a separate company after the 1987 takeover.

In 1985, Standard Oil Co. of Indiana became Amoco. Now it is Amoco's turn to be absorbed, though the change won't be as drastic as Sohio's.

The Amoco name will live on as the second half of BP Amoco PLC. In addition, it is BP, not Amoco, that will give up its brand identity in the United States. [End quoting]

The control of all the world's resources into a gigantic conglomerate marches on. And we sit back and allow this thievery and our enslavement—while they sit back and gloat over our sheepish acceptance.

NEW TECHNOLOGY TO SIGNAL ARRIVAL OF BUSES, TAXIS

From THE SPACE NEWS, 8/31/98: [quoting]

A technology that uses the Global Positioning System (GPS) will make it possible for a parent to receive a telephone call from a telephone service provider telling when the school bus is within a specified distance of home.

LaBarge Inc. and Global Research Systems will begin jointly marketing the technology late this year to telephone companies. [End quoting]

In this day and age of not being able to trust our children on the streets to walk home from school or the bus stop, this can be a big safety factor.

MILITARY "EXERCISE" IN HEBRON, MARYLAND

From the INTERNET, <para-discuss@tje.net>, 9/3/98: [quoting]

What are they trying to do, scare our children? —Louise

Original message follows:

If you would like more information about the "exercise" going on in Hebron, Maryland today from 11:00 to 1:00, the sheriff's office can be reached by:

1-410-548-4891 phone
1-410-548-4968 fax

The sheriff may not know that this is an exercise to practice firearm confiscation. Listening to the radio, it is said that there will be firearms (whether real or not, loaded or not, I do not know) planted in various homes or sheds or garages or somewhere and then located. He surely does know about the helicopters that will be present and all the uniformed military on roofs, etc.

How would your children, grandparents, mothers, fathers, etc., react to such as this in their town. How would YOU?

Think about the consequences. If I were going to school and saw such as this, I would probably freak out. And if a school-age child doesn't freak out and is comfortable with this going on, then that is scary. It may become the norm.

The people of the town seem to be agreeable. Many people are out there, and may not know or believe that this is a practice for the disarming of America, which many of us believe it to be.

Many military or ex-military have called in to the radio program and some are absolutely "Mad as Hell". We should all be mad as hell. And we should do something about it. Your town will be next and it may be for real.

Call or send a fax letting the sheriff know it is not appreciated that this is happening on our soil. [End quoting]

Don't be a bit surprised if it's your town tomorrow, because the elite's time is closing in on them and they must get their plan moving!!

MACHINES DISPENSING UNHEALTHY WATER

Excerpted from THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 9/3/98: [quoting]

Drinking water sold from vending machines such as those commonly found outside supermarkets often contains dramatically higher levels of bacteria than typical tap water, according to a Los Angeles County study to be released today.

State health officials who reviewed the study said it revealed no significant public health concerns, but nevertheless they plan to start monitoring water vending machines statewide.

"The Los Angeles County testing brought potential health problems to our attention," said state Department of Health Services. [End quoting]

Do we really think this is accidental—with the elite's time schedule for their Plan 2000 decimation of our population growing very short?

KOFI ANNAN'S DESIRES

Excerpted from HUMAN EVENTS newsletter, 7/98: [quoting]

Did you know, for example, that Secretary-General Kofi Annan wants the United Nations to have direct taxing power over the American people? It's true. Annan also asked for the creation of a UN standing army. The Clinton Administration likes the "Army of the UN" idea so much it promptly gave money toward this goal—without properly informing Congress!

Did you know that the Clinton Administration allowed U.S. defense contractors to provide Communist China with technology that improved China's missile technology? That technology, developed at the expense of the American taxpayers, was instrumental in helping the Chinese develop reliable nuclear-tipped strategic missiles which are now aimed directly at our homeland! [End quoting]

All a well laid plan by the elite to enslave us.

ATTORNEYS CHARGE 'COVER-UP' IN CASE OF YOUNGEST-EVER MURDER SUSPECTS

Excerpted from THE FINAL CALL, 9/1/98: [quoting]

CHICAGO—Attorneys for the city's youngest-ever murder suspects are charging the Chicago Police Department and the State's Attorney with a major "cover-up" in their "rush to judgment" to "railroad" the juveniles to jail.

Attorney Lewis Meyers, co-counsel for an eight-year-old suspect in the murder of 11-year-old Ryan Harris, told The Final Call Aug. 23 that police never shared critical information with defense attorneys that would prove their client and a seven-year-old boy could never have committed the crime.

Such information includes eye-witness accounts given to police in the early stages of the investigation and an autopsy report. Ryan was found July 28 near an abandoned building. She died from suffocation and had been sexually assaulted. (See Final Call, Vol. 17, No. 43)

The attorneys recently were successful in getting electronic monitoring bracelets removed from the boys' ankles, allowing them to attend public school if they choose to. They had been scheduled for in-home schooling because they would have been confined to the home.

"The only reason why police are now backing off of their earlier statements is because we got involved. The more people come forward, the more they (police dept.) become embarrassed. We hope the State's Attorney will come forward and say they made a mistake, but we are prepared to go the distance," attorney Meyers said.

He said they now have information from witnesses that the girl was seen alive hours after the seven-year-old said he had struck her with a rock, causing her to fall from her bicycle. [End quoting]

One wonders who is being protected at the kids'

RED CHINA AT WORLD BANK TROUGH

From THE NEW AMERICAN, 8/31/98: [quoting]

Communist China was the biggest borrower from the World Bank during fiscal 1998, which ended on June 30th. According to the July 2nd World Bank News, China has borrowed a total of $30.4 billion since joining the U.S. taxpayer-financed bank in 1981. [End quoting]

They transfer our funds through the World Bank to support their friends and our sworn enemy—and we keep handing them more.

MILITARY DEATH WISH?

From THE NEW AMERICAN, 8/31/98: [quoting]

A Red Chinese national who worked as a computer programmer for a military contractor was recently caught downloading secret passwords at a $148 million database at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio. According to the Air Force Times, the computer is used to track Air Force aircraft and missile systems.

The unidentified Chinese national was fined $5,000 and sentenced to six months in a halfway house. Left unanswered, however, was the question of why foreign nationals—particularly those from self-identified enemy states—are allowed to work at U.S. military installations. [End quoting]

We really don't think Clinton and Gore got all of those Chinese campaign funds for nothing—or do we??

IMF, WORLD BANK HURTING, NOT HELPING, THIRD WORLD

From THE TORONTO STAR, 9/4/98: [quoting]

Political upheaval, anger, resentment and violence have always been hallmarks of the International Monetary Fund's structural adjustment programs. The violent outpouring into the streets of Indonesia was largely motivated by the $43 billion (U.S.) bailout which led to higher hydro, fuel and transport prices.

The IMF and the World Bank were created in 1944 by the United States and Britain to facilitate the free movement of capital globally. The DAF was to reduce foreign exchange restrictions and assist countries with balance of payments trouble. Protecting foreign investment and funding local infra-structure projects were to be the roles of the World Bank.

Both organizations were to foster development beneficial to all members of society, to protect the environment and to reduce the debt load. Clearly, these organizations have failed to live up to their intended purposes, becoming tools for the developed world to subdue the Third World.

As the Rev. Jesse Jackson has said, "They no longer use bullets and ropes. They use the World Bank and IMF." The question remains: have the World Bank and IMF outlived their usefulness? [End quoting]

They outlived their "usefulness" before they were created. They were never set up to help—only to rob the people and turn them into slaves.

ONCE AGAIN, IT'S WOMEN TO BILL'S DEFENSE

Excerpted from THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, by Maureen Dowd, 8/31/98: [quoting] DURING a Democratic debate in Denver in 1992, Bill Clinton was asked if he would want half his Cabinet to be women.

"I might want more than that," he said eagerly. Coming in the wake of the Gennifer Flowers fiasco, his unwitting double-entendre drew laughter from the audience.

"What are you laughing about?" he asked defensively. "Women have held most of the important positions in my administration."

That drew more howls.

Bill Clinton has always been good with women. And bad with women.

He kept his promise to appoint women to top jobs. And now it has become the unsavory task of these high-level women to defend the president's misalliances with low-level women.

Bill Clinton is like a little boy, hiding behind the skirts of his powerful women, hoping they can shield him from the effects of his fatal attraction to big hair and big trouble.

In psychology, they have a term for a narcissist who never emotionally matures, who throws tantrums and expects everyone else to clean up his messes: the Highchair King.

Our Highchair King is banging his spoon and screaming "Enable me or the Dow goes down to 500!" [End quoting]

Also he's a use-and-toss (or kill) person.

PROTEST AT LONGBEACH!

From the INTERNET, Randy L. Trochmann <nox2128@montana.com>, 8/26/98: [quoting]

COSCO/NAFTA/WTO PROTEST IN LONG BEACH SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26TH, 1998

WE WILL DEMONSTRATE OUTSIDE THE HOTEL FROM 7:00 AM to 4:00 PM.

The Republican California State Convention is Friday, Saturday & Sunday, September 25th, 26th & 27th at the Long Beach Hyatt Hotel, 200 South Pine Ave., Long Beach. Saturday September 26th is their big celebrity speakers day! Saturday speakers include, beginning at 7:30AM Breakfast: Mary Bono, Jack Kemp, Dan Lungren, Orrin Hatch.

THE PUBLIC AND PRESS WILL FLOOD IN.

Our issue: China is still avowedly Communist! (ref.—Deng Xiao Ping) funeral ceremony on CSPAN TV "Live", in June 1997. Host of funeral said, "we must take a moment to thank Karl Marx for his wonderful goals for China," while he addressed the 10,000 Chinese attending inside of the Peoples Palace in China, that day.

We are protesting the Cosco—China Overseas Shipping Company, 600-ship-fleet shipping company—from taking permanent exclusive lease of the lands and facilities of the Long Beach Naval Station and shipyard, and harbor, for the use to flood slave labor wholesale/retail goods into our country, which puts rockets behind the de-industrialization of our nation, and destroys many, many thousands of American manufacturing jobs!

52,000 jobs were moved overseas just in the last three months of 1997, alone! We have the list of companies. And it is not a complete list! NAFTA must be stopped!! World Trade Organization must be stopped!

We are protesting outside from 7:00 AM to 4:00 or 5:00 PM, Sat. Sept. 26th. We have 5 twelve-foot banners which say who we are, and protest China and Cosco. We have 150 signs on Cosco and sovereignty. We are bulk mailing out to 1,200 of our active members (Aug. 15th).

Support our effort! Support our cause! Save our liberty; say "no" to Communist trading policies! Tell the Republicans what you think of their corporate-profits-first policies! Ask the Republicans why we are befriending the most powerful Communist nation in the world????

Get off your sofa! Show up for this one! Just think, you did not have to paint the twelve-foot banners, or the 50 hand-painted protest signs; all that you have to do is show up!! Do it. Let's see 600 of us there! No excuses.

Protest will be at: Long Beach Hyatt Hotel, 200 South Pine Ave., Long Beach, CA. Sincerely, Melani Crandall-Chair, Hotline: 714-222-4990

THE BILL OF NO RIGHTS

From the INTERNET, courtesy of <John.Ray.1776@worldnet.att.net>, 9/26/98: [quoting]

The following was written by State Representative Mitchell Kaye from Cobb County, GA:

We, the sensible people of the United States, in an attempt to help everyone get along, restore some semblance of justice, avoid any more riots, keep our nation safe, promote positive behavior, and secure the blessings of debt-free liberty to ourselves and our great-great-great grandchildren, hereby try one more time to ordain and establish some common-sense guidelines for the terminally whiny, guilt-ridden, basically lazy people. We hold these truths to be self-evident:

That a whole lot of people were confused by the Bill of Rights and are so dim that they require a Bill of NO Rights.

ARTICLE I: You do not have the right to a new car, big screen TV, or any other form of wealth. More power to you if you can legally acquire them, but no one is guaranteeing anything.

ARTICLE II: You do not have the right to never be offended.

This country is based on freedom, and that means freedom for everyone—not just you!

You may leave the room, turn the channel, express a different opinion, etc., but the world is full of idiots, and probably always will be.

ARTICLE III: You do not have the right to be free from harm.

If you stick a screwdriver in your eye, learn to be more careful. Do not expect the tool manufacturer to make you and all your relatives independently wealthy.

ARTICLE IV: You do not have the right to free food and housing.

Americans are the most charitable people to be found, and will gladly help anyone in need, but we are quickly growing weary of subsidizing generation after generation of professional couch potatoes who achieve nothing more than the creation of another generation of professional couch potatoes.

ARTICLE V: You do not have the right to free health care.

That would be nice, but from the looks of public housing, we're just not interested in health care.

ARTICLE VI: You do not have the right to physically harm other people. If you kidnap, rape, intentionally maim or kill someone, don't be surprised if the rest of us want to see you fry in the electric chair.

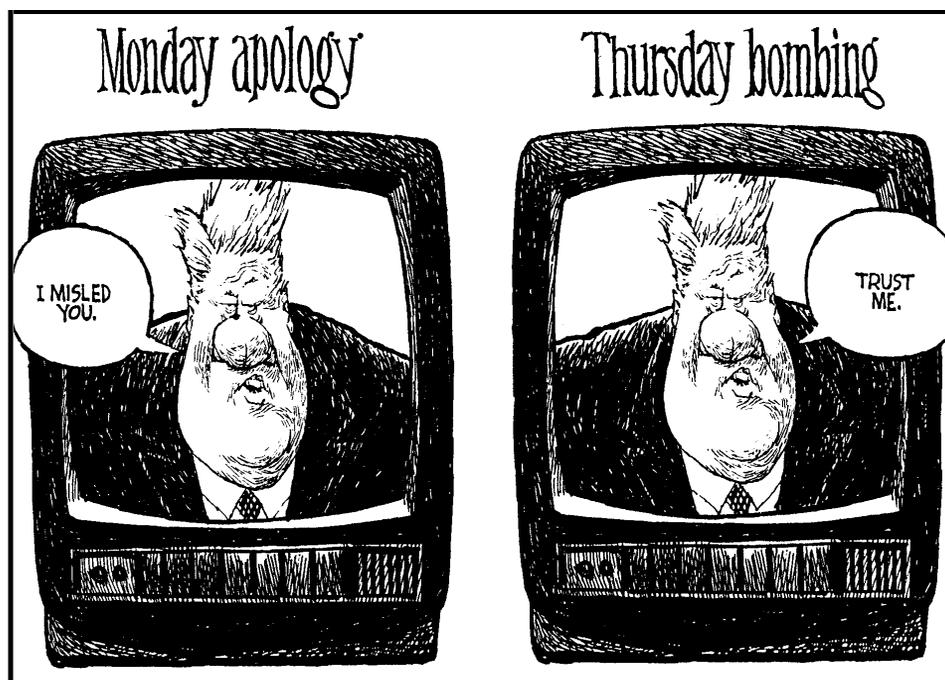

ARTICLE VII: You do not have the right to the possessions of others. If you rob, cheat or coerce away the goods or services of other citizens, don't be surprised if the rest of us get together and lock you away in a place where you still won't have the right to a big-screen color TV or a life of leisure.

ARTICLE VIII: You don't have the right to demand that our children risk their lives in foreign wars to soothe your aching conscience.

We hate oppressive governments and won't lift a finger to stop you from going to fight if you'd like. However, we do not enjoy parenting the entire world and do not want to spend so much of our time battling each and every little tyrant with a military uniform and a funny hat.

ARTICLE IX: You don't have the right to a job. All of us sure want all of you to have one, and will gladly help you along in hard times, but we expect you to take advantage of the opportunities of education and vocational training laid before you to make yourself useful.

ARTICLE X: You do not have the right to happiness. Being an American means that you have the right to pursue happiness. Which, by the way, is a lot easier if you are unencumbered by an overabundance of idiotic laws created by those of you who were confused by the Bill of Rights.

IF YOU AGREE, WE STRONGLY URGE YOU TO FORWARD THIS TO AS MANY PEOPLE AS YOU CAN. NO, YOU DON'T HAVE TO AND NOTHING TRAGIC WILL BEFALL YOU SHOULD YOU NOT FORWARD IT. WE JUST THINK IT IS ABOUT TIME COMMON SENSE IS ALLOWED TO FLOURISH—CALL IT THE AGE OF REASON REVISITED.

THANK YOU. [End quoting]

Some food for thought as so many have been programmed to take, take, take, and never even consider giving something in return.

PROGRAM FOR STUTTERERS

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 8/28/98: [quoting]

Dear Ann Landers: You told your readers about a program to help stutterers that cost $3,000. My great-grandfather, Dr. J.B. Frymire, started a very simple method in 1893 to help stutterers, and it didn't cost anything. According to his medical journals, it was a great success. Here's his method:

Open a book, and start reading aloud, but leave your teeth clenched. Do this for five minutes the first day. Each day thereafter, add five more minutes. Do this until you reach 60 minutes. Then, read aloud for 60 minutes each day for the next two months. You must read loud enough to be heard.

During the past 10 years, I have received in excess of 500 letters telling me Dr. Frymire's stuttering remedy worked for them. Please share my letter with your readers. It may work for them too.

—Dick Frymire, doctor of barnyard science, Irvington, KY [End quoting]

This could be one of the most important pieces of information ever received for the those who can use it. Please pass it on!

QUIETER BLOWER

From POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, Oct. 1998: [quoting]

The Quietech corded electric blower/vac is the first to feature a muffler. Foam padding in the blower tube plus a padded intake reduce noise by 50 percent—from 70 to 63 on the exponential decibel scale. The 7.5-pound blower produces airspeeds of 195 mph, which makes it one of the fastest as well. Price: $79. The Toro Co., 8111 Lyndale Ave. S., Bloomington, MN 55420. [End quoting]

This can be a boon to neighbors but what they really need is a quiet gasoline model and I'm certain they can come up with one at a reasonable price if they wanted to.

SMART ELECTRIC POWER GENERATOR

From POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, Phil McCafferty, Oct. 1998: [quoting]

You wouldn't kill a fly with a sledge hammer, so why power a hot plate with a heavy-duty generator? Because traditional generators run at only one speed. Running slower dims lights, reduces frequency, and drops voltage, which can damage motors hooked to

Not a problem for the new Craftsman computer-controlled 3,600-watt generator. It runs only fast enough to satisfy current electrical loads, reducing noise and saving fuel. Its secret: voltage synthesization, a fancy term that means a computer adjusts output to meet changes in demand.

The Portable generator has a 16-pole permanent magnet alternator that produces between 300 and 600 hertz of alternating current, depending on engine speed. A microprocessor collects pieces of the high-frequency waveforms and, with the help of a semiconductor switch, builds a 60-hertz waveform. Alternator speed is continuously adjusted to match output demand, using a tiny electronic stepper motor to position the engine throttle precisely.

In a Popular Science test of loads from 100 to 3,500 watts, the engine speed varied from idle to about 3,700 rpm, but the voltage held at between 118 and 120 volts. Frequency ranged from 59 to 62 hertz, as advertised.

With the 4-gallon fuel tank, the generator will run for 29 hours on a 25-percent load, 7 hours on full load. It costs $1,000. [End quoting]

This sounds like a big convenience and fuel saver, but the price is quite high for most consumers.

BONE PHONE

From POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, Oct. 1998: [quoting]

Now that's using your noggin': Unlike other phones for the hearing impaired that amplify sound, the Miracle Phone transmits the sound through the bones in the head to avoid picking up static and background noise. Place the handset against a bony area of the skull, such as behind the ear, and the handset's pulsator creates vibrations that transmit straight to the inner ear to recreate the sound of the caller. Price: $200. Daewoo Electronics, 120 Chubb Ave., Lyndhurst, NJ 07071. [End quoting]

This sounds like a fantastic invention. There have been many "messy" attempts to assist the hearing-impaired that require fancy surgery and electrical implants. This solution is amazing in its simplicity.

STRANGER IN MY HOUSE

From GUIDEPOSTS, May 1998, P.O. Box 1479, Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

Just as I do every night, that Saturday in July 1997 I locked the kitchen door, then guided my motorized wheelchair to secure the front door. Back in my bedroom I grabbed the headboard, pulled myself onto the bed and propped up the four pillows I need to sleep on account of my asthma. I said my same prayer as always: "Lord, watch over me, and guardian angels watch over every entrance, all of the windows and doors." Then I settled down to sleep in the comfort of the Lord.

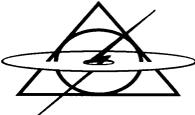

I've done a heap of living and praying inside this house. It's what folks in Charleston call a single house, because it's just one room wide, with the rooms in a row. My daddy bought this two-story clapboard house in 1940. First I took care of my grandma here, just like she had taken care of me. Then, while I was teaching school, I raised my sister Drew Willie's three kids and some of her grandbabies too. In the '50s, after Daddy died, there were 14 of us in the house, and I was the only one drawing a paycheck!

This old house and the Lord have been good to me; the house for 58 years and the Lord since 1918 when Miss Mabel Holmes, a kindly neighbor lady, carried me as a babe in arms to church. There was the time when I said my nighttime prayer, went to sleep—and Hurricane Hugo hit. Well, the tin roof blew off and the porch knocked itself loose. When I felt rain dripping through the second-story onto my face I turned myself around to keep my head nice and dry. Sure enough, next morning I was fine.

I have a morning prayer too: "Thank you, Lord, for another day. I don't know what this day holds, but I know you hold the day. Please go before me as a leading lamb and behind me as protecting angel." But that Sunday morning last July I never got to say it. I never even heard the porch window shattering. All I know is that around 5:00 A.M. I opened my eyes and instead of seeing the morning light I was shocked to see a big, tall man rifling through things on the dresser at the foot of my bed.

I wasn't afraid. Maybe it was because over the years I had sung and played the old hymns until their promises felt real enough to tug on. Now I mentally clung to my favorite hymn, "Be not dismayed what e'er betide, God will take care of you." In my best schoolteacher voice I addressed the intruder: "Young man, what are you doing in my house?"

The looming figure spun around and stomped to my bed. It was too dark to make out his face, but I could see his ham of a hand well enough when he raised it. "Old lady," he snarled, "I'm going to kill you." He sat down on the bed with a crash and yanked off his shoes.

I had been in peril before and didn't see much point in panicking. In 1980 I suffered three cardiac arrests, and when the doctor started to brag how he had brought me through I wagged a finger at him and said, "You and the Lord, that is!"

Even so, I felt a jolt of fear as the big man leaped up and pulled off his trousers, then grabbed me and pushed me down flat onto the bed.

Mercy, I thought, and me a cripple, some ninety pounds and near eighty-three years old. My head swam but I didn't fuss or scream. It wouldn't have done me a bit of good because my house stands alone between two church parking lots.

Just lean on the Lord, Mary, I thought, as you always have. Helpless as a newborn kitten, I did something so strange that it must have been of the Lord. With that awful man on top of me, I raised my old, tired hands and patted his face. Then I patted his head, cleared my throat and said, "Young man, you don't really want to do this. You wouldn't do it to your grandmother, would you? And you wouldn't want anyone else doing it to your grandmother. If you were in your right mind you wouldn't even be in my house."

The man jumped up like he had been shot. He swayed uncertainly at the side of the bed, then clumsily pulled on his pants and shoved his feet into his shoes.

I took a deep breath. "Now, what are you here for? What do you want?"

When he answered, his voice sounded like a scolded child's. "I was just trying to find something I could sell ... to get me something to eat."

"Well, then," I told him, "go on through that door right there and into the kitchen. Look in the Frigidaire and anything you find, you eat. Then look around and see if you can find anything you think you could sell."

He shuffled off sheepishly. When I heard the refrigerator door groan open, I propped myself up on my pillows again and left it at that. Even if I could have managed to get into my wheelchair and unlock the door, I couldn't get away because I didn't have a ramp off my porch. I lay back and leaned on the Lord, praying:

Thank you for getting that boy off my bed. Now if we can just keep him calm and get him out of here.

He returned, carrying a small ceramic pitcher. "Can I have this?" he asked in a shaky voice.

"Some senior citizens made that for me," I said, "but if you think you can get something for it, take it."

He dropped the pitcher on the bed. "You got any cash?"

"None, but look through the dresser drawers. My sisters left me more costume jewelry than you'll know what to do with."

He rummaged through the drawers, but took nothing. Discouraged, he shuffled back to the bed and lay down at its foot like he was going to take a nap.

"Now," I told him, "you need help. You get yourself over to the hospital for some kind of treatment for addicts or you sign yourself into the mental hospital in Columbia."

By then dawn was breaking and I could see him better. He actually seemed to be listening. He had an ordinary face and a neat haircut. He sat up, slumped over and put his head in his hands. "I'm sorry. I came into the wrong house."

"No, you didn't!" I told him. "You're in the right house. God sent you in here because of the message I have for you. Go on and get some help."

He looked nervously at the brightening daylight, then glanced toward the front room, where he had broken the window. "Could you let me out?" he asked.

"Sure, if you'll help me into my wheelchair."

He lifted me out of bed like he was picking up a baby and placed me gently in my wheelchair. I wheeled over and unlocked the door. As he hurried down the street I called to him, "Now you get some help!"

I telephoned my cousin Gloria and she came over right away, along with the police. They insisted on taking me to the hospital but I was all right. Back home I propped myself up in bed again—I needed some rest after that experience! I could hear a police officer talking in the living room. "I don't know who was taking care of that lady," he said, "but I sure would like it if he would take care of me too."

Gloria appeared in my doorway. "Mary," she asked, "would you tell me again the words of that prayer you made up?"

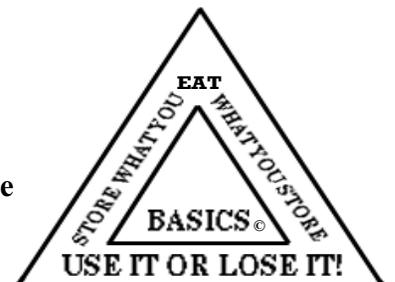

I smiled. "Lord, I don't know what this day holds," I said, "but I know you hold the day. And the night too." Then I settled down for a bit of sleep. In the comfort of the Lord. —by Mary Mack Brown, Charleston, South Carolina [End quoting]

It's amazing what cool, calm thinking and prayer can do in times of terror facing us in the face. Fear is, if not our worst, one of our most destructive enemies. ☸

Swissair Flight 111

Regardless, this was surely a terrible disaster, with many innocent people caught in the crossfire of a "war" that most of them know nothing about. Meanwhile, it is highly unlikely that Vic Gerden or ANY of the official investigators will be making any comments about what REALLY happened. That's not their job! Think back for a minute: How many "trial" explanations of the TWA Flight 800 disaster were paraded in front of us until we quit asking questions and, with passing time, simply swallowed the official baloney without further thought?

Most longtime CONTACT readers are by now well skilled in the fine art of reading between the lines of the nonsense dished out by "official" "investigations" conducted to distract our attention away from inconvenient Truth. Whether it is this Swissair Flight 111 crash, or the TWA Flight 800 crash, or even the last embarrassingly absurd Air Force briefing "explaining" the Roswell, NM 1947 UFO crash (wherein "test dummies" were pronounced to be the designated culprits), "official" "investigations" are conducted for the exact opposite agenda from what the public thinks is their purpose. The goal is ALWAYS to hide The Truth from the public eye, not reveal it!

Meanwhile, other sources of information will frequently provide missing data and suggest possibilities which are not so surprising if you know something about "The Game" being played—and understand that Truth is most often much stranger than any conjured fictions, else there would not be so much effort expended to obscure Truth.

With that in mind, and always remembering that it is up to each individual to come to their own conclusions, we present the following food for thought about Swissair Flight 111 and some truly dynamite reasons WHY it might have been fallen from the sky. Nobody who has read CONTACT for any serious length of time should have any trouble connecting the dots of plausibility suggested in the following report.

Editorial Policy

Opinions of the CONTACT contributors are their own and do not necessarily reflect those of the CONTACT staff or management.

We thank all involved in the "bucket brigade" for their help in bringing this information to you, including our News Desk guru, Dr. Al Overholt, who keeps in close contact with Calvin Burgin and other dedicated seekers of Truth. It is sometimes quite an amazingly Guided sequence of events which delivers material to the pages of CONTACT to share with you!

From Clinton, to the world economic markets, to increasing Earth changes, the pace of the planetary cleansing process is picking up speed. Within that larger framework, the wars among the dark elite, jockeying for positions of power, are likewise in high gear and growing nastier by the day—as their time runs out.

These are desperate times for some and very confusing times for most. Be thankful if, because of your diligence in acquiring a perspective of somewhat greater knowledge and understanding, you are one of the few who can follow "The Game" and thus know better when and how to get out of the way of Trouble now upon us. And I surely do mean that with a capital T!

Let me first share some information provided by Joe L. Jordan, Executive Director of the National Vietnam POW Strike Force [quoting]:

CAVEAT LECTOR

I just got off the phone with the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Washington DC. They confirmed that Prince Bandar, Saudi Ambassador to the United States, was on the plane and is now dead. He is [was] one of the richest men in the world and is [was] involved in some of the blackest operations the CIA ever dealt with: Iran-Contra, drugs from the Golden Triangle, sale of chemical-biological weapons to Iraq, Savings and Loans swindles, drugs through Mena (AR), Bush, Clinton, Ollie North, etc.

Most of you are probably not aware that the chancery residence for Prince Bandar is only 600 feet from where Vince Foster's body was found. If you have a copy of the flight manifest from Ken Vardon, look at the tenth name down: Alsaud, Bandar. That's him. Apparently, Bandar chumped somebody big on a deal or reneged on a promise and the hit order was passed down. The person to contact on this is Sherman Skolnick in Chicago. His number is (773) 375-5741. Tell him POW STRYK Joe said to call.

Other fascinating tidbits:

1. Four of the top AIDS researchers in the world were on board. The scumbag US government was not interested in their research and they were headed to Geneva to see if the European community was interested. The US government does not want AIDS to be cured. Versace's assassin was a member of Gamma Mu (gay men) and their code prohibited the use of condoms.

2. The bodies were all in pieces. Not a single whole corpse was recovered. In a very similar crash, TWA 800, almost all the bodies were recovered intact, still strapped to their seats. (Did anyone say bomb?)

3. Again I stress: early news reports (like at the Oklahoma City bombing) are the only ones that are accurate. They said there were 35 survivors and a bomb blew up the plane.

4. The last six minutes of flight had no radio contact with Halifax tower. Perhaps the fire burned up the radio wires. Or perhaps we have another Ron Brown-type crash where all the tapes from the Dubrovnik tower simply disappeared. This crash has a very foul smell to it. (Did somebody say CIA?)

5. We have it on good information that there were members of several elite hit-teams on board and they were unaware of each other's presence. Vice President Gore is scheduled to visit Moscow in two weeks. The team sent to assassinate him was allegedly on the plane. The plan is to whack him and then, in a classic Nixon/Ford/Rockefeller arabesque segue using the 25th Amendment, Clinton will appoint Jay Rockefeller the new VP; Clinton will be impeached over Monica Lewinsky; and the richest family in the world will have their lifelong dream: a Rockefeller president without an election. The Antichrist and the New World Order will become a viable fetus in the blink of an eye.

7. Other hit-team members were from Delta Force task force 152 and the Israeli Mossad elite K team, based in Geneva. (The K team whacked Diana.) Most importantly were members of Operation Clydesdale and possibly the ring-leader, Gunther Russbacher, on the manifest under a false name. I have tried calling Gunther three times in Bristol, England, and get only his answering machine. He has always been prompt in returning calls, so I am concerned. The genesis of Clydesdale goes back to Pegasus, which was begat by Phoenix (Colby).

Several high-ranking USAF generals and colonels have been whacked lately, the most recent was Brigadier General David McCloud (CG Alaskan Command). Others were killed right before the Oklahoma City bombing incident, in a Learjet crash in Alabama.

Sherman Skolnick was interviewed by a film team from Der Spiegel on the Diana assassination and the film showed all over European TV last Sunday. The following Wednesday Swissair 111 hits the drink in a million tiny pieces.

Would your US government and CNN, CBS, NBC, and ABC lie to you?

— Joe L. Jordan, Executive Director, National Vietnam POW Strike Force; (713) 680-3181 voice; (713) 680-3185 fax.

[End quoting]

There's a lot of logic in this. The fact that there are no whole bodies says an awful lot. The news this morning on TV (9/8/98) says that the one flight recorder they recovered is almost useless as far as help in determining cause. Very convenient?

I wonder if they finally got Gunther Russbacher? They've certainly tried enough times.

It can almost be certain anymore that anytime there is this type of happening it is tit-for-tat in the elite's "quiet" war. Expect more and more of this as the rats kill each other—along with innocent bystanders!

SOME BACKGROUND ON PRINCE BANDAR

Michael Collins Piper, in his book, Final Judgment: The Missing Link In The JFK Assassination Conspiracy, on pages 28-29 of the much expanded fourth edition, tells about DeWest Hooker, a personal friend of Joe Kennedy, John F. Kennedy's father:

"Born to wealth and privilege and a descendent of one of the signers of the Declaration Of Independence, Hooker had a varied career. Not only did he act on the Broadway stage, but he also modeled in cigarette advertisements. Hooker also served for a period as a talent agent with the powerful firm MCA and was, at a time during the 1950s, one of the highest-paid talent agents in America. Hooker also dabbled in television production and was equally successful.

"However, there was an aspect to Hooker's personal life that made him, to say the least, persona non grata in the entertainment industry: Hooker is unabashedly and frankly anti-Jewish. He will be the first to admit it, no questions asked. A powerfully-built man, Hooker is fearless and not afraid to make his position known.

One of Hooker's proteges was George Lincoln Rockwell, founder of the American Nazi Party. In his memoirs, This Time The World, Rockwell credits Hooker as being a major influence on his thinking. In fact, Rockwell dedicated the book to Hooker, along with several others, including Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and General Douglas MacArthur. Hooker, Rockwell declared, was the one 'who taught me to know the cunning and evil ways of the enemy'."

Piper then tells about a private meeting in Palm Beach between Hooker and his good friend, Joe Kennedy. Piper says: "According to Hooker, 'Joe admitted that when he was ambassador to England he had been pro-Hitler.' However, in Kennedy's words, 'we' lost the war. By 'we' he didn't mean the United States. When Kennedy said 'we', he meant the non-Jews. Joe Kennedy believed that it was the Jews who had won World War II."

Piper then explains how Hooker and Joe made a deal to have Rockwell and others present John F. Kennedy as extremely liberal, so that he could become elected as President of the United States.

Hooker says, "Frankly, as far as I'm concerned, it was my work that got Johnny Kennedy in the White House." You can read Piper's book, available from Spotlight newspaper ads, for more of the details.

Hooker tells of "my secret meeting with Papa Joe Kennedy and his analysis of the One World aim of the elite Jews, the same as mine. He swore to me that he taught the same ideas to Johnny and Bobby Kennedy since they were 6 years old (but he never mentioned Teddy to me; maybe he was too young at the time of our meeting in 1958, but Teddy, today, not to rock the boat, keeps his mouth shut on such matters). Both Johnny and Bobby Kennedy have been assassinated, along with my great friend George Lincoln Rockwell, who collaborated with me and Papa Joe Kennedy." DeWest says that Rockwell was his very best friend; they were the same age and spent a lot of time together. Hooker was also paid by Ghaddafi to come to Libya to advise him on what he knew about banking and other matters.

DeWest says that he thinks the reason he was not killed was because he was a business partner of the Rockefellers. DeWest Hooker was also a personal friend of Benjamin Freedman, a Jew who read the Talmud and was so disgusted with it that he changed his name to Freedman. Benjamin Freedman has often been quoted in CONTACT. Freedman took Hooker to a Jewish synagogue and had Hooker read some of it (he did not read it all; it was 32 volumes). What the Talmud contains had also been quoted in CONTACT.

The Swissair crash occurred last Wednesday, 9/2/98. Today is Tuesday, September 8. Today I received some documents and correspondence from Mr. Hooker, written before the crash. He is 80 years old now, with prostate cancer, and wants more of his story told before he moves on.

Hooker worked for Lew Wasserman of MCA and had important contacts, and tells about the time when the Jews approached him to help them gain influence with the Saudis. They offered to put $100,000,000 in his bank account. At that time, the Saudi Arabian rulers hated the Jews and had control of a tremendous amount of oil. So the Jews wanted Hooker to fly to Saudi Arabia, "show them my $100,000,000 bank account, and order 100,000 BPD [barrels per day] ($0.25 per barrel to me, equivalent to said $9,000,000 per year) for the string of gentile refineries they knew I represented. But when my ship got into 'international waters', I was supposed to switch my USA ship's destination and send my ship to Israel. I repeat, they were shocked when I refused because, unfortunately, many of my 'brother goyim' would do 'anything' for that amount of money, which the 'elite' Jews are very conscious of and profit therefrom."

He explained the deal the "elite Jews" (his term) made with Saudi Arabia. The Jews knew that King Fhad and Prince Abdullah hated Jewish banks and the Jews did not want Prince Abdullah to become the next king of Saudi Arabia, and therefore assume complete power in such an oil-rich country.

So the Jews went to Prince Sultan and made a deal with him to arrange for him to become the next king, instead of his older brother, Prince Abdullah, in return for him allowing the Jews access to Saudi oil. As part of the deal, they made the Sultan's (illegitimate) son Prince Bandar [emphasis mine] Ambassador from Saudi Arabia to the United States.

Mid-East Realities has an article on the Internet entitled "Bandar Is Honorary Member of Zionist Lobby". Some of you may remember the news stories about when Secretary of State Madeleine Albright first went to Saudi Arabia. The discussions were about what kind of reception she might have, dealing with the very sexist Saudis. The Saudi who she met was Prince Bandar, who expressed strong support for Albright.

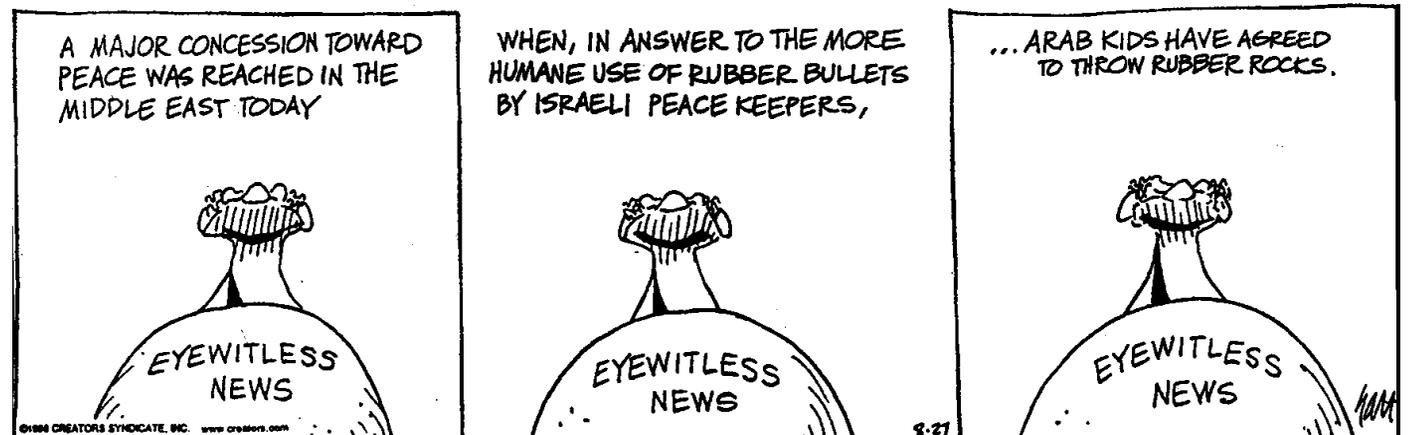

The Committee Against Corruption in Saudi Arabia has an Internet site and an article about Bandar bin Sultan's corruption, written some time before the Swissair crash. The article stated: "Everyone in Washington knows that Bandar is playing a political game of influence that he cannot pull off. He is trying to bring the Clinton Administration down and bring his Republican friends to the White House. Thus, day after day, Bandar is piling up more and more enemies waiting for the right moment to bring him down hard." [emphasis mine]

The Saudi Embassy confirmed that Prince Bandar was killed in the Swissair crash, originally listed in the list of crash victims as "Alsaud, Bandar". The US media is still nearly totally censoring any mention of Bandar being in the crash, a man who was the Saudi Ambassador in line to possibly become the next king of Saudi Arabia. The fact that they are censoring the event is proof of something to hide (probably MUCH to hide).

Bandar met recently again with Albright, and the Committee Against Corruption article also said: "Between 1984 and 1987, Bandar met with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger 64 times."

As the article predicted, he was "brought down hard". More of the "tangled web" is becoming unraveled as the elite deceivers fight for "king of the hill" position. ☸

GLOBAL ALLIANCE INVESTMENT ASSOCIATION MEMORANDUM OF DIRECTIVE

The following points and authorities are offered hereby to eliminate any misunderstandings between negotiating parties as relative to the PERUVIAN BONUS CERTIFICATE # 3392-181, originated in 1875 and accepted as United States of America Treasury debt in 1906.

Since this debt was assumed prior to any other agreements involving monetary departments, divisions, or branches of government, this is a bonafide outstanding debt of the United States of America, the U.S. Treasury, the Federal Reserve System, the International Monetary Fund and the central World Bank and/or branches thereof.

The applicable restrictions and limitations in this transaction will apply to all participants. Due to NATIONAL SECURITY considerations no input to change or remand the validity of the debt created by BONUS 3392 will be accepted from the COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS, the UNITED NATIONS, or any other entity, foreign or domestic.

As of November, 1997, all records formerly kept (and available for inspection) at the Peruvian Consulate in Los Angeles have been moved to Peru to prevent their possible destruction. Only individuals having appropriate authorization and credentials will be allowed to view them there.

All relevant documents, including the lawful chain-of-title of Bonus 3392, were legally recorded on August 10, 1998 at 8:35 A.M. and may be found at the office of Judith A. Vandever, Clark County Recorder, 500 South Grand Central Parkway, Las Vegas, Nevada 891-55-1510, Book 980810, Instrument 00323.

Because the amount of debt created by BONUS 3392 is so large that the global economy could be brought to collapse through its misuse, agreements have been finalized to allow the hypothecation of portions of the debt (through the use of contracts or deeds of assignment or leasing agreements) pursuant to the following rules and restrictions:

While prior use of the contract/certificate is noted, the parties using it will not be named in this document. Should such parties refuse their cooperation in the future, they may be named.

The contract has been utilized by the U.S. and hypothecated as COLLATERAL for use of the IMF and WB for the support of United Nations activities.

It has been agreed that the United States Federal Government may continue to use these contracts as collateral up to fifty percent (50%) of the accrued value.

The Holder of the contracts will be allowed to utilize the other fifty percent (50%), PROVIDING:

The Holder and its funding parties restrict themselves to single contracts not exceeding fifty billion dollars. (This does NOT preclude the offering of more than one such contract to any one entity.)

To avoid exposure of too large an asset it will be permissible to utilize corporations of common ownership to hold such additional contracts.

Under extraordinary circumstances warranting the issuance of one larger contract, for instance, the purchase of a single property, larger contracts may be issued if care is taken not to exceed the 50% use limitation.

It is anticipated that the Holder will purchase gold equal to the value of its portion of the contract to be pledged as collateral for a line-of-credit. Any "lease" arrangement must be structured to accommodate this requirement. The payment for leased collateral will be applied only to the funds available to the funder (not those of the Holder) and will be one percent (1%) per month for 120 months or two percent (2%) for 60 months.

As a consideration of National Security (as well as Global Security), transactions WITHIN these guidelines will not be interfered with or blocked by the U.S. or its assigns. The consideration for such noninterference is that none of these contracts will be lodged for collection until such time as there is an additional agreement as to the lodging and honoring, through payoff, of the contracts.

Generally, it will be the practice of the Holder to expect the funder to provide loan capabilities and to purchase the gold as needed wherever there is security and it is NOT required to be housed within the U.S.

The Holder will not directly do business with any national group under sanction by either the U.S. or U.N. There is to be no restriction, however, on other parties or nations conducting business in their normal way. The Holder will conduct itself in the strictest accordance with all applicable laws.

The Holder has agreed to use its portion of funds for humanitarian purposes. No portion of its funds or assets will be used for purposes of ARMS ACQUISITION, WAR MAKING, OR THE OVERTHROW OR SUBVERSION OF ANY NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. However, the Holder has no way to police the use of funds by any other participating party.

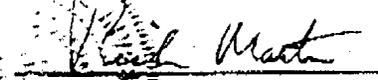

Any abuse of these contracts or this DIRECTIVE will be considered by the U.S. as TREASON.

We must repeat that which is already obvious: THIS ONE ENTITY HAS VALUE ENOUGH TO DESTROY THE ENTIRE WORLD ECONOMY AND THIS WILL NOT BE ALLOWED THROUGH MISUSE THEREOF. If the participants abide by the agreements and restrict ourselves to good business procedures all can have a very productive and lucrative association.

To this DIRECTIVE we affix the authorized signatures and corporate seal to validate same.

The U.S., The Taleban And Osama bin Ladin: Another View

9/1/98 NORA BOYLES

I viewed a special report on CBS television within the last two weeks about the rule of the Taleban in Kabul, Afghanistan. According to this television report, the Taleban were a small army originating in Pakistan, who had crossed into Afghanistan at the end of the Afghanistans' war with Russia and taken over the capital city, Kabul, when the Afghanistans were too war-weary to prevent them. The Taleban were shown in the television report as being closed-minded Islamic fundamentalists, who were wreaking havoc on the people of Kabul. Women were not allowed to work outside of the homes; female nurses could not work in the hospitals; women were not given an education; they must be totally covered with a veil outside of their homes, etc., etc. The culture of Kabul had taken a drastic change, and even charitable international groups, such as the Red Cross, could not use women in their public work, although they were not Muslim and were primarily international volunteers. Hospitals were especially hit by the new orders, patients were not being cared for. In addition, the women were totally frustrated, especially those who were educated and capable of making a contribution.

Why do you suppose CBS made such a special report at this time? Was it to make it appear as if the Taleban "deserved" opposition—or what? Were there plans even then to bomb Afghanistan and become TV "heroes" in the sight of the American people?

I asked myself this question after I read an article regarding the U.S. attacks against Afghanistan and Sudan in The Final Call newspaper, 9/1/98 issue, by Ahmad-Rufai, International Editor. Mr. Ahmed-Rufai states in this article: [quoting]

A New York-based spokesman for Afghanistan's Taleban Islamic movement had said earlier on Aug. 20 that the group would be willing to discuss handing over Osama bin Ladin, the Saudi billionaire who allegedly planned the embassy bombings, if Washington presented proof that he is linked to terrorism.

Noorullah Zadran, speaking on CNN's Moneyline, condemned the U.S. action, saying the military strikes contravened international law and set a terrible example for the rest of the world.

Mr. Zadran said the Taleban movement had good contacts with U.S. government officials—observers noted that the Taleban is a U.S. creation, and that the bombed camps were established by the U.S. during Afghanistan's war with Russia—and was willing to discuss Mr. bin Ladin's extradition if Washington provided "hard evidence" of his links to terrorist activities, including written materials.

Afghan Islamic Press, however, quoted Taleban spiritual leader Mullah Mohammad Omar as saying, "We can never hand over Osama to America."

Mr. bin Ladin, through a spokesman, Aug. 20 denied to a Pakistani reporter that he had been involved in the embassy bombings.

"I have nothing to do with the bombing of American embassies in Africa, but I urge the Muslims all over the world to continue their jihad against the Americans and Jews," the spokesman, Ayman Al-Zawahiri, told journalist Rahimullah Yusufzai on behalf of Mr. bin Ladin. Mr. Al-Zawahiri, who spoke about an hour before the U.S. strikes, refused to reveal his or Mr. bin Ladin's location.

He said Mr. bin Ladin, who had been in Afghanistan since the age of 19 when he volunteered in the fight to end Russian occupation, was warned by Taleban officials against using Afghanistan to launch terrorist threats.

Mr. Clinton said the timing of the missile attacks was based on U.S. intelligence that a "gathering of key terrorist leaders" was planned that day at the site in Afghanistan. He called the site "one of the most active terrorist bases in the world".

The U.S. strikes involved 75-100 Tomahawk cruise missiles fired by Navy ships in the Red Sea and the Arabian Sea, according to administration and congressional officials. Mr. Clinton said he ordered the strikes based on the unanimous recommendation of his national security team.

But this unanimous recommendation was faulty, according to Shelia Jones of the Shiller Institute.

Quoting economist Lyndon LaRouche, Ms. Jones said the Lewinsky and missile crises are diversionary tactics to distract the president from focussing on the potential global economic collapse.

Citing the impending collapse of Russia's economy, she said the President could reorganize the debt payment system and bring an end to the present IMF and World Bank reign.

"The fear is that the President could call a halt to the entire game plan that will expose globalization and privatization as a smokescreen for the looting of nations by the IMF," she said.

If the president wanted to bomb states who harbor terrorists, he could have started with London, she added, noting that Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, following an assassination attempt on his life, once registered a complaint with Britain to investigate the groups based in London.

Mr. Clinton offered four reasons for the strikes: evidence the groups were key players in the embassy bombings, a belief they had carried out attacks against U.S. citizens in the past, information that they planned further attacks, and the belief the groups were seeking to acquire chemical and other dangerous weapons.

But Sudanese officials strongly denied that the el-Shifa pharmaceutical plant was used to make components for chemical weapons. In fact, the U.N. Security Council in January approved supplies to Iraq from the same factory. And Sudan noted that Mr. bin Ladin was expelled from Sudan in 1992 at the suggestion of the United States.

"The Americans told us they did not care where Mr. bin Ladin went after leaving Sudan as long as he did not go to Somalia. To accuse us of links with bin Ladin is an excuse for an unjustified act," said Sudan's Ambassador to the United Nations, Elfatih Erwa.

Phylis Benis of the Washington-based Institute for Policy Studies told the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation that such unilateral U.S. action destroys possibilities of multilateral approaches to solutions that are more effective and more far-reaching.

Ms. Benis argued that the U.S. actions of "striking a fly with a bazooka" did not work in Libya nor did it work in Iraq. She condemned U.S. arrogance of feeling it is above international norms and can therefore act with impunity. (Askia Muhammad and James Muhammad contributed to this article.) [End quoting]

Will the U.S. (Clinton's administration) hand over any proof to the Taleban or to Sudan that Osama bin Ladin is a terrorist, and is linked to the African Embassy bombings? If there is actually any proof, why wasn't it discussed with the Taleban and Sudan before the missile attacks? If there is no proof, what does that make the U.S.? The world waits!

If Clinton's advice to bomb Afghanistan and the Sudan indeed came from his "national security team", then Americans must take a close look at who comprises that team and the laws pertaining to it. That "team" could just start World War III, with no justification that agrees with diplomacy, law, the national security, and certainly not world peace. Unfortunately, it must be a top priority with the citizens because the "national security team" will not fade away should presidents come and go—a possibility clearly in our future. Remember Secretary of State Madeleine Albright and Senator Orrin Hatch, along with Great Britain and others, strongly supported the action.

There is no information to the effect that Madeleine Albright even tried to use the good offices of her position to take up the "problem" with Taleban representatives in the United States prior to the missile attack, much less discuss it with the United Nations or the world court. With "diplomats" like this, America can certainly expect a war on her doorstep in the foreseeable future. In fact, with our weakened president, that may also be in the current planning.

Does America set up people like the Taleban and Sudanese in order to take them out later? If we are entering a war mode you can expect all kinds of extreme propaganda against the "other side" to be presented by our controlled media as occurred in World War II.

Choice Of Life Or Walking, Breathing Dead

9/14/98 #1 HATONN

Watch it in the U.S. for when the disease [talking about newly infected mosquitos in Philippines and elsewhere] transfers to the animal population and then on to the flea as carrier—you have a real problem for this will be a new strain of TWO PLAGUES. PARASITES IN THE WATER ARE ALREADY CARRIERS—MAINLY THE CRYPTOSPORIDIUM. APOCALYPSE IS NOW UNDER WAY IN DEADLY SEQUENCE.

IS ANYBODY OUT THERE?

Better yet: Is anybody IN THERE?

It takes courage and thinking minds to realize that you have something coming down of destructive force great enough to enslave a world—AND ONE ALTERNATIVE. The ones who see the circumstance and also see the possibilities of stepping outside the steam-roller's path are overwhelmed—totally overwhelmed.

You who believe that the most people on the globe are "Christians"—had best look again, and again, and count again. There are almost NO "Christians" for those who have remained by that label are now "Zionists and proud of it" and that means the U.S. is represented as a state under the Noachide laws of Israel (modern Israel—not the israel or people of God). You are now recognized, if at all, as the Evil Empire, the representatives of the Great Satan who bomb and starve babies and women. And yes, I CERTAINLY DO MEAN THE U.S.

But that is wrong, you might wish to argue? Then go argue with the other ignorant breathing dead. You are, in the U.S., recognized as the heart, core and homeland of the J-word UN, IMF, WHO and all the other oppressors and wealth-strippers of the globe. Never mind the smiling faces of the politicians who stand in the focus of cameras—you are called "Little Zion" and "Big Hot Air", and all the people around the globe want from you are the dollars which set the standard of the IMF. Then, when it is realized that the dollar is a worthless printed paper, as is their own current currency, watch the faces. You don't have to speak ill of anyone, even the IMF—just show a dollar bill with its B.S. pictures and "NOTE" OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE. The expressed "thought" is that all of those greenbacks are VALUED ON A GOLD RESERVE AT SOME PLACE CALLED FORT KNOX! READ IT AND WEEP. THERE IS NO MISTAKE MADE ABOUT THE WORLD BANK, IMF, UN, ETC., BEING TOTALLY RUN BY THE PLUTOCRAT AMERICANS, BRITAIN, AND ISRAEL.

ALTERNATIVE SOLUTION? SIMPLE SOLUTIONS? YES INDEED—BUT SOMEBODY HAS TO INSTRUCT THEIR CENTRAL BANKS (OF WHICH COUNTRIES SUCH AS THE U.S. HAVE NO LONGER ANY ACCESS) TO SIMPLY USE COLLATERAL, BEGIN TO BACK AGAINST GOLD—AND HOLD AGAINST THE RAIDERS OF THE LAST BASTION OF ASSETS IN ALL NATIONS. IT DOESN'T EVEN REQUIRE BACKING OR DARING—JUST UNDERSTANDING. EVEN IN THE U.S.—YOU CAN'T DO A THING AS A SNOWBALL IN HELL UNTIL YOU REALIZE THAT YOU TOO MUST CONFRONT WITH ASSETS AND DEMAND FOR PAYMENT OF TREASURY VALUE SERVED AGAINST THE FEDERAL RESERVE, IMF, WORLD BANK AND UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL. And YOU IN THE U.S. CAN'T DO DIDDLY-SQUAT UNTIL SOME OF THESE OTHER NATIONS GET CONTROL OF THEIR HOLDING POWER AS A UNIFIED LEAGUE TO STAND WITH YOU! DON'T YOU THINK IT IS TIME TO TAKE BACK YOUR NATION? DON'T YOU THINK IT TIME TO COLLAPSE THE KILLERS INSTEAD OF THE CREATORS OF EQUALITY AND GOODNESS?

OH INDEED—WE HAVE THE ALTERNATIVE—SO "PLAY IT AGAIN SAM". I ask that Jeff pull out the entire section on our CONTRACT with what it is, how it works, how we have it, why it was assigned to Rick, then to Global Alliance, and let's get those papers focused, printed and reprinted for backup to every party we touch over here and in the rest of the world. We are making great strides in the Muslim states but we have to have explanations and backup for we can't possibly reach the players one-on-one as we are having to do through Embassies here.

People here KNOW that there is THE PROBLEM through the IMF and all the trading and currency stripping—but they just can't understand that God hears their prayers and DOES OFFER A SOLUTION AND AN ALTERNATIVE.

I am asking to reprint a few pages from Gerry Spence's book From Freedom to Slavery: [QUOTING: Pages 81-93:]

More chilling is the scene we observe every day—the breathing dead who believe they are alive. Year after year these breathing dead get up at the same time every morning on the same side of the bed, trudge to the same kitchen, swallow the same brand of bacon and style of eggs for breakfast, drive the same route to work, and wearily enter the same door of employment where automatically they punch the same time clock and perform, like machines, the same mindless task until the same bell goes off at five o'clock. Then by rote they return home in order to open the same brand of beer, and to watch the news on television that informs them of the same murders and violence, which are balanced against the same insipid sitcoms evoking the same canned laughter. Ha. Ha.

The breathing dead emulate machines. Their work is mechanical. They relate more to the simulated life on television than to their own species. It's safer to love the electronic life and the power to extinguish such life at will. The bargain seems fair. By relinquishing their own lives, which can be petty, puny, and powerless, they acquire a nonlife over which they can exercise complete and final power.

I would rather visit with a corpse than exist with the breathing dead, with those who have never considered a new idea, who worship the same God and vote the same party of their fathers, whose friends believe the same, act the same, look the same, and say the same things that they say. I would find a conversation with a corpse more engaging than one with the breathing dead, whose next words are as predictable as the liturgy of the priest and who, on pain of death, cannot recall the last book they read. All creativity is dead. All discovery is dead. Feeling is dead. Yet, as we observe, they breathe.

Mankind strikes an unholy bargain at birth. The contract reads: "Give me life and I will agree to death." The first freedom, therefore, is the freedom to live in the face of the fear of living and the terror of dying. But such freedom extracts a severe price. The price is pain, the pain of fear—fear of failure, of rejection, fear of abandonment, of loss and of sorrow, and the terror of death. We awaken to find ourselves trapped on a boat floating down an uncharted river with its horrible falls at the end. We possess no map to tell us where we shall face the falls. But we know the falls are there. We know no one ever survives the trip. We are afraid. Yet we cannot get off the river. We can only, moment by moment, attempt to avoid its treacherous rapids, its hazardous back currents, and despite the river's exquisite beauty and its placid bends, often we fail to enjoy the trip, for we know, just ahead, perhaps around the next bend, we shall face the falls, the horrible falls.

Life is the invisible trap. And the invisible tyrant is fear. To many, escape is death. Living death. The trap of the breathing dead is worse than the trap of the coyote whose foot is caught in steel jaws, for the coyote can escape. He need only chew off his foot. But the trap that ensnares the breathing dead tortures beyond endurance, because the trap cannot be seen or touched or even understood. Such traps have no measurable dimensions. When the breathing dead cry out that they are trapped, they are assured that all they need do is work harder, be smarter, compete harder, make more money, and they will, at last, be freed.

Who are these breathing dead? The farmer can be trapped on the farm, trapped by the mortgage that renders him the slave of the banks. The housewife can be trapped behind lifeless, monotonous walls, reduced to slavery to husband and offspring and repressive community mores. The poet, trapped in anonymity, the small-town artist trapped in obscurity, the parent trapped in mindless labor, the child trapped in ignorance and stifled in the great negative mind mill—all can die in their traps before they have lived.

For all creatures who are caught in traps, a sense of hopelessness prevails. At the workplace the breathing dead are not heard, not acknowledged. They are digits on the balance sheet, and digits are dead. Despite what they think, what they say, what they do, or how hard they work, they remain digits. Their protests are like screaming into the void. At the polls they are digits as well, for no matter whom they vote for, nothing changes. They cannot be freed. At last the trap becomes synonymous with life.

But the state of nonbeing in being becomes the supreme pain, for eventually it embodies the realization that one has been cheated of his bargain. The breathing dead live within their own corpses, a horror beyond description, a horror that bears the agony of both murderer and victim and suffers the indescribable pain of the last rejection, of the self against the self.

Alcohol becomes the palliative of choice for the breathing dead. Beer is associated with happiness and is subliminally marketed in place of friendship, as a substitute for love, for sex, especially sex, so that those who thereby escape life through its brown-bottled bubbles are delivered a replacement for genuine joy, and by dulling the senses are delivered a certain quantum of pseudo death. It provides an escape from what appear to be the inescapable traps of life. But the escape is not into the experience of the life but the experience of nonlife. So, too, with drugs.

The deadly consequences of food, the most widely abused substance of the breathing dead, are visible in the bloated bodies of the masses and reflect a nation of the entrapped. For centuries we have herded geese into tight pens, held them immobile, and by use of specially devised rods, stuffed rich grains down their helpless gullets until their bellies bloated and their livers swelled, after which we pulverized the livers to produce a delicacy called pate. In the same way we force-feed geese, the breathing dead force-feed themselves and their children until their guts are distended and their limbs made heavy and stiff like the dead.

Yet many do not so easily succumb. Many strike out in desperate fury. Many strike at anything and everything. They abuse those closest to them, their wives, their children, their subordinates. If they are employers they abuse their workers. If they are police officers they abuse the weaker citizens. If they are judges they exercise their power not in furtherance of justice, but in response to anger, abusing the lawyers who practice before them and the accused who plead for mercy.

Hawking substitutions for living has become a massively profitable megabusiness in America. We are provided a love affair with Murphy Brown in order that the sponsor's goods may be subliminally sold in the process. At the same time, we are sold sports cars for sexual potency, shaving lotion for sexual appeal, and shampoo for beauty. Spectator sports provide a substitute for our involvement with our own bodies. Pornography provides an alternative for living relationships, and the pornographic experience mimics necrophilia, since the coupling is with nonliving images on nonliving pages on nonliving screens.

Any commodity that separates people from their lives is in great demand. Television removes the audience from reality. There the mind is redesigned by the electronic god that teaches false wisdoms—that human worth is measured by the amount of money each possesses, that human fulfillment is measured by the numbers of dead objects, gadgets, and things money can buy, most of which are manufactured by the breathing dead themselves in hideous places called factories, where the breathing dead labor with the same low groans and monotonous motions of the machinery. At last, the breathing dead sell their lives an hour at a time to acquire the means by which to buy the stuff of their living death, and when the breathing dead are worn out, like the machinery they mimic, they are written off, cast out, and replaced.

The offspring of the breathing dead are also trapped. Taught by the dead, they learn to say no, not yes, to life, to say no, not yes, to self-expression and exploration. At school most children are not permitted to laugh out loud or cry or make a commotion, because, too often, dead teachers despise any expression of life.

The children's primary experiences, those experiences by which they will make their life's choices and establish their life's values, are not related to clear fishing streams meandering through pristine woods, but to the blood and death and emptiness of life they experience on television. Mindless encounters on the screen waste their lives and dribble away their opportunity for growth. They are forbidden to explore their feelings, for feelings are too dangerous. Their language is not the language of poets but the lexicon of computers. Their heroes are machines and robots and those who emulate the same. They relate more to machines than to peers—to video contraptions that suck in quarters and simulate killing, to driving machines that suck in vast quantities of fuel and carry them endlessly up and down the same streets in a compulsive search for Lord knows what, and to sound machines that in quadruple stereo and exploding subwoofers destroy the ears and deaden the senses.

As are their parents, the offspring of the breathing dead are trapped in the decaying concrete bowels of the cities. The species is not genetically engineered to live where metal machines belch and blow in concrete canyons and fill the air with gases that smart in the lungs, and where the eyes are hurt by the sight of buildings protruding upward like angry stakes. There these concrete children, like rats stacked three deep in a concrete show box, begin to strike out. They hurl themselves against the walls, but they cannot escape. At last, desperate to escape, the concrete children can only break out through their fragile selves. Like the coyote in the trap they begin to gnaw on themselves. Crack! Cocaine! Violence! Escape is everything. Freedom is everything. In their madness the concrete children attack their neighbors. The regime calls it crime. But it is only the concrete children searching for freedom.

In a vicious, ever-widening cycle that will surely destroy us, the regime punishes the children by imprisoning them in even smaller, viler boxes of concrete called penitentiaries. We witness a true revolution. It is a revolution against the dead, the living dead. It is a revolution being waged against a dead regime—dead, for its core is composed of a conglomerate of dead corporate and governmental bureaucracies. Included in the regime are those who have become attached to the core, its obsequious functionaries, its glazed-eyed human cogs, its mobs of nodding minions, the endless captured hordes who suck their sustenance from the back of the nonliving beast.

[END OF QUOTING]

There are a couple more pages in this chapter, but I think you get the drift of meaning. Please just get the book and study it carefully. We have neither the time nor the inclination to awaken the majority of the cement people for, prior to a time of mass response, a lot of work has to be done lest the dead simply destroy more of the dead and the cycle simply enlarges upon itself.

In dealing with cycles it must be becoming clear that you have to fill the void of one cycle's leavings with something equally available. In this I mean, for instance, if "interest (usury)" is the culprit in the destruction of nations, then it is OBVIOUS THAT AN ALTERNATE SOURCE OF FUNDS MUST BE MADE AVAILABLE THAT DOES NOT USE INTEREST. YOU ALSO MUST HAVE ADEQUATE SIZE OF FUNDING TO COVER ALL THE ALREADY ESTABLISHED DEBACLE-DEALERS HAVE SUPPLIED—ONLY THEIRS IS WORTHLESS, BASELESS—AND OURS MUST BE ON A STRONG FOUNDATION WITH VALUE. CAN YOU HAVE BOTH? OF COURSE—YOU HAVE BOTH ALREADY AVAILABLE—JUST USE THEM! BUT YOU HAVE TO RID GREED-MONGERS FROM THE "TAKE IT ALL FAST LANE". GO WHERE INTEREST, FOR INSTANCE, IS ALREADY A NO-NO AND THAT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, IS IN THE MUSLIM PLACES OF THE LION. IT MUST BE ALLOWED TO HAVE BANKS WHICH ALREADY CAN UTILIZE ALTERNATIVE RESOURCES WITHOUT THE LAW OF THE BANKSTERS. HOW LONG CAN SUCH AS THE IMF STAND IF NOBODY USES THEIR SERVICES? NOT LONG!!! THE FOOD SUPPLY OF THE BANKSTERS AND POLITICIANS IS PORK AND GREED. TAKE AWAY THE SUPPLY AND YOU HAVE A FALL OF THE EVIL EMPIRE. TRY IT, YOU'LL LIKE IT!

I must close this now as pressures are increasing here and time limitations loom for this writing to reach its destination in the U.S.

May we all realize the need for the support of each of you for our work, for it is only in unity of purpose that we can succeed in a massive enough way to change the systems of the beast.

Salu and good day. ☸

Esu: Creating Your Part In The "Great Awakening"

9/13/98 ESU "JESUS" SANANDA

Good evening, little one. It is I, Esu "Jesus" Sananda. I come as the golden-white Light of Creator's Divine Will. I am come to you this day that there may be clarification of focus at this time.

Your world is on the brink of very grand events which will become the catalyst for greatness and renewed focus upon the greater importance of the spiritual aspects of your current growth experience.

These are TRULY grand times! We of the Hosts have come to assist the few, who are open to our energy, in preparing for this magnificent transformation.

Be not fearful of that which is coming, for there is NOTHING to be frightened of—EVER! If only you would truly understand this one last sentence with HEART KNOWING, then you would indeed rise up out of your lackful beliefs, and the lies and the perception of all pain would leave your aching hearts.

ALL IS TRULY UNFOLDING IN PERFECTION! The opportunity for creative growth is quite unique at this time, and all you need to do is accept your place and part in this most wondrous "drama" of creation.

Learn to accept those who oppose you in your beliefs and perceptions of the world, for there cannot be a challenge without the presence of opposing thoughts, ideas, and beliefs. You are all struggling to be "right". You may very well be playing the right part and to the best of your perceived ability, but until you are challenged by those of comparable (or even greater) ability, how will you ever know what is truly the "limit" of your ability.

This is to say that one should be thankful that there are those who are willing to play the role of the "oppressor". There are cases, usually on a personal level, where the one who brings you the most "grief" in your experience is one who is your closest friend when you are not playing the physical game. Who better to draw forth the BEST out of you than someone who knows you quite well?

The key is to not allow these ones to cause you to disconnect from Source! This is perhaps the most tricky challenge to work through, and as one should quickly realize, the most valuable challenge to overcome and master.

Learn to truly appreciate your "oppressors", for they are providing you with valuable lessons and unique opportunities.

We monitor closely everything, from the general emotional frequency of your planet, to the individual emotional frequency of you each. We monitor the effectiveness of these words as they are uniquely translated by you each. Each of you will perceive the meaning and significance of these words in your own unique way, and often the Greater Message within the message is overlooked.

Let me offer to you an example: Take the word "desire". What does it mean to YOU? What are all of the possible interpretations of this word that you can find? Perhaps you should look it up in the dictionary and see if there are other definitions about which you are not yet aware. If I ask you to go within and monitor how the word makes you feel—good, bad, or indifferent—I would, indeed, get varying responses. If I were to go one step further and say to you that a desire is anything upon which you focus your attention or anything you "think about", then how would you feel?

You are Creator! YOU ARE CREATOR! Your thoughts are what summon forth the Creative Energy that then begins to manifest that upon which you hold your attention. Most simply look around and continue to create more of what they already have—and thus the rich get richer, the poor get poorer, the happy get happier, the stuck get more stuck, and those who understand this have an extremely good time.

Your desires, as I here refer to them, are the thoughts you focus upon from moment to moment, day to day. You each are creating (manifesting) in your daily lives the sum total of these desires. If you perceive that you are somehow not getting your fair share of attention or money or love or _____ (you fill in the blank), then let me assure you that you are fixating upon the LACK of same, rather than the having.

Know thyself and you will know your GREATEST enemy! YOU are the only limitation who stands in the pathway between excitement and mediocrity. It is as simple as monitoring, in a deliberate and conscious manner, the thoughts you think.

If someone near you is antagonistic toward you, and you find yourself getting angry or frustrated, then simply stop arguing with that one and say, for instance, "You're probably right, but I derive great satisfaction from considering alternative viewpoints other than the Associated Press version of a given story."

Or more generally: "Isn't it nice that we are not all the same?"

You see, you need not allow yourself to get angry, and when you quit pushing back against those who try to push on you, then there is quickly a change in focus, for the challenge to determine who is right or who is smarter or stronger is then gone.

When you quit resisting the other, then it is like playing a game without an opponent: You leave them rolling their dice and moving their pieces without any challenge or satisfaction to be gained. They will quickly get bored with the game and simply shift their focus in another direction.

Be not fearful of that which is coming, for there is NOTHING to be frightened of—EVER! If only you would truly understand this one last sentence with HEART KNOWING, then you would indeed rise up out of your lackful beliefs, and the lies and the perception of all pain would leave your aching hearts.

You are Creator! YOU ARE CREATOR! Your thoughts are what summon forth the Creative Energy that then begins to manifest that upon which you hold your attention. Most simply look around and continue to create more of what they already have—and thus the rich get richer, the poor get poorer, the happy get happier, the stuck get more stuck, and those who understand this have an extremely good time.

When you stop playing the distracting games that cause you to become upset, then you will find that there are truly better subjects upon which to focus. Effort always to approach a discussion from a point of agreement, rather than from one of who is right and who is wrong.

Productivity in a forward direction is seldom accomplished by winning debates about obscure subjects. Be an example to the ones you feel inclined to help—by such as preparing your emergency food supplies and getting any alternative energy devices you may have installed and operating. Show them with actions taken that you truly believe the ideas and concepts behind your energetic mouthings. Let them each to their own choosing, and honor their choices.

There is nothing that YOU cannot create! You can have your cake and eat it too. Will you see, and accept, that you ARE a creator? Will you deny, blame, and make excuses for all of the “hardships” you have endured? What will be is what YOU DECIDE will be.

I showed your world, over two thousand years ago, the potential of your abilities as an extension of the One Source. I also said that, what I put forth as an example, YOU too would do—AND MORE!

Ones are awakening to this realization all around your world. Quit denying who you are and accept the reality, and step forth out of the mind-numbing world of fear and denial.

I am your brother, NOT your God! I am merely more advanced in my understanding of the nature of my being. I have accepted my place as a co-creator, and I have mastered the physical arena. I am merely an example for you ones to focus upon so as to know that there are no limitations that you must accept. Let go of the idea that you “can’t” for this is a LIE!

You CAN do anything you can imagine! When the belief is pure enough, all is possible. When you doubt, even for a moment, so too will the manifestation of your desire be diminished or negated by the countering energy set forth by your doubt.

Letting go of past limiting beliefs is the only way to progress forward in understanding and growth. This need not be difficult, and in the mere twinkling of an eye ones can step forth, out of self-imposed limitations, and begin to exercise and utilize their God-empowered right to manifest anything that may be desired.

You have chosen to accept the challenge (game) of coming into a VERY manipulated world, wherein you are constantly being swayed through not only direct (mostly electronic) mind-control methods, but through the subtle techniques of advertisers who find it very profitable to sell you fear.

The rules of the game are simple: You create that which you focus your attention upon, regardless of your perception of what is right and what is wrong. This basic and fundamental rule works for everyone, regardless of race, religion, political or sexual orientation, or age. There are no victims or “unfortunate” players in the game. Most importantly there are NO LOSERS, for all grow through experience by just entering the physical arena to “play a part” in the game of “physical life”.

Enjoy the unique opportunity for growth that is before you. Know that your life is a reflection of the sum total of your thoughts, beliefs, and ideas. The Great Awakening experience that is now unfolding is part of your desire to experience; it can be one of wondrous achievement or one of horror and disbelief. The only difference will be in how YOU choose to perceive its unfolding events.

I am Esu “Jesus” Immanuel Sananda. I come to participate in the capacity of the golden-white Light of OUR Father’s Creative Energy. I am that which you are: a co-creator on an infinite journey of growth and expansion. I too am exploring the infinite newness, as are ALL.

Be at peace in knowing that you are without end and that all will unfold in PERFECTION according to the One Divine Will.

In Light, BLESSINGS TO YOU ALL! ☸

FROM THE BACK COVER

“Our Elder Brothers from the Higher Realms of Creation are attempting to communicate with ALL of us at this time. Why? Take a look around you. The old ways of doing things aren’t working. Our planet is entering a time of massive, turbulent change and renewal. To put it bluntly: we NEED help! And that’s where this book comes into the picture. Yes, eventually ‘the Phoenix will arise from the ashes’ after this Great Cleansing process, but the ride could be quite a bumpy one, especially for those ill-prepared for what is to happen.

“Just how we choose to deal with such change is THE question each of us must confront. Yet confusion swirls everywhere upon Earth at this time. And restless searchers cry out for that which may help them cope with these truly challenging times ahead. Thus these messages courtesy of our most loving Elder Brothers from the Higher Realms of Creation who are but further along the same spiritual path we all must eventually walk.”

TELEPHONE HOTLINE 805-822-0202

As an adjunct to CONTACT, the Telephone Hotline keeps you as informed as possible on current events and other important information that needs to get to our subscribers before our publishing date.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. If the Hotline does not answer your call, then that means there is currently no Hotline message.
