As Crooks Stir Tensions In The Middle East Real Experts Warn “Don’t Bomb Iraq”

The following public statement from COME (Committee On The Middle East) deserves the publicity of our Front Page at this critical time. Once again we have the great news “relay team” of Calvin Burgin and Dr. Al Overholt to thank for this timely warning from those, many of whom are TRUE experts on the Middle East.

The only “negative” reaction to what is said below is likely to come from longtime CONTACT readers who are aware of our decade-long array of information on the background for the present Middle East unrest. There is no mention here about how the banksters (banking gangsters) have stolen many billions of Arabian oil dollars for decades, how such imperial impudence as British Petroleum’s slant drilling figured in the Gulf War, how the Bush family holdings and secret documents require “UN inspectors” in disguise, how the media is completely controlled by the fake (Khazarian Zionist) “Jews”, or a host of other factors which have direct bearing upon what is now so dangerously unfolding in the Middle East (imagine that: directly after a big media blitz “Peace Talks” conference).

Regardless of either the ignorance or the “political politeness” of the TRUE experts who formulated the document below, we are on the threshold of a dangerous situation which deserves the airing of what these ones have to say about the matter. Much of importance is “between the lines”, so read carefully for the clues.

SWISSAIR: TEMPS HIT 572° F IN COCKPIT BEFORE CRASH

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 11/6/98: [quoting]

Temperatures rose to 572 degrees without leaving traces of fire in the cockpit and part of the first-class section of Swissair Flight 111 before it crashed, an in-house publication of the airline said Thursday. There still is no indication of the source of the heat, said the publication, News. It described as “pure speculation” theories that a fire was caused by an electrical short that ignited insulation material. [End quoting]

CAR BOMB EXPLODED NEAR KREMLIN GATE

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 11/6/98: [quoting]

A Jew-hating Russian gunman detonated a car full of explosives near the main Kremlin gate Wednesday night, just hours after the Russian Parliament voted not to criticize one of its own members for proclaiming that the “Yids” should be sent “to the graveyard”.

Three Kremlin guards were injured, one of them seriously, in the spectacular blast, which officials said had the force of 13 dynamite sticks.

Moscow police have arrested 65-year-old Ivan Orlov, a correspondent of the anti-Semitic tabloid Russkaya Pravda (Russian Truth) and a sometime member of Vladimir Zhirinovskiy’s fascist Liberal Democratic Party, and charged him with terrorism.

According to the Los Angeles Times, Orlov crashed his rotten little Moskvich car through a metal barrier that keeps traffic off Red Square, then raced toward the gate at the Kremlin’s famous Spassky Tower. A cop car cut him off 20 yards before the gate, so Orlov got out, put an unloaded gun to his head and pulled the trigger, Russia’s NTV station reported.

The car then exploded, sending flames and smoke high above the Kremlin’s signature onion domes and rattling the structure’s windows.

“It seemed like fireworks,” 18-year-old Alexei Kukharenko told the Times. “We were trying to figure out what holiday it was.”

Orlov suffered minor injuries. Police later found a second, more powerful explosive device in his car.

The car bomb capped off a day of shame in Russia’s frigid capitol.

Earlier, the Russian Parliament, or Duma, voted 121-107 against condemning Communist MP Albert Makashov for his viciously anti-Semitic remarks at an Oct. 4 rally. Makashov ranted that Jews are blood-suckers who “rule the country”.

Makashov is one of the Communist generals who led the armed attack of the Ostankino television tower in 1993, provoking Yeltsin’s bloody storming of the Duma’s White House. After spending five months in jail for his deeds, the general was given amnesty and quickly reinstated to Parliament.

At various rallies and television appearances last month, Makashov blamed the country’s Jewish minority for ruining the military, stealing from “real Russians”, and “spitting” on the country that “saved them from the fires and gas chambers of fascism”, the London Telegraph reported.

After politicians and reasonable Russian humans criticized him and pondered possible prosecution (a consideration that has since been dropped), Makashov warned: “If anything happens to me, be sure that it was the Yids and also be sure that I will take at least ten of them with me.”

Duma deputies debated long over the wording of the proposed censure, eventually agreeing on a statement that failed even to directly criticize Makashov. Instead, it called the general’s insane remarks “harsh and bordering on the rude”, and noted that it “provoked concern in broad sectors of society”.

Such watering down was seen as an attempt to convince Communists to vote for censure, but in the end only one of 132 commie MPs—house speaker Gennady Seleznyov—voted yes.

After the vote, Makashov refused to apologize, except for using the word “Yid” instead of “Zionist”.

Several unrepentant Communist deputies came out in favor of anti-Semitism.

“Zionism is more frightening than fascism,” explained MP Gennady Benov.

“Because it operates from the flanks, clandestinely and secretly.”

Communist Party leader Gennady Zyuganov failed in several clumsy press conferences to criticize Makashov beyond remarking on the “impermissible form” of his remarks and saying that the party has “reprimanded” the general.

The country’s ranking commie did, however, take time out to complain that many of Russia’s national TV programs “do not show a single Russian face”—a direct reference to Jews, according to the Itar-Tass news agency. “This insults us,” he added.

Zyuganov further blamed the resurgence of the “Jewish question” on the Yeltsin administration’s “breaking of national representation” within its ranks, the Telegraph reported.

In other words, too many Jews.

In other Russian news on Wednesday, Economics Minister Yuri Maslyukov announced that the country couldn’t afford to pay back up to $21 billion in foreign debt over the next 13 months. Maslyukov will be meeting with senior Western bankers in the coming days to negotiate a rescheduling of the debt. <listserv@listserv.aol.com> [End quoting]

It seems like some of the Russians are waking up to the fact that many so-called “Jews” and especially those called Zionists are the ones who are doing the country in. Too bad all “Jews”—even the good ones—are lumped in with the bad. However, violence will never solve the problems.

YET ANOTHER VACCINATION RECOMMENDED FOR INFANTS

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 11/5/98: [quoting]

The American Academy of Pediatrics on Wednesday added another vaccine to the list of those it recommends be given to infants and children. The vaccine is designed to protect children from rotavirus, a common winter infectious disease that results in diarrhea and low-grade fever. The group said the vaccine should be given to children at ages 6 months, 2 and 4. In the United States alone, the infection is responsible, for 50,000 hospitalizations each year. [End quoting]

These bastard depopulationists will never let our children off of the needle. In ancient days they just outright murdered the children; now they’re trying to get away with using a doctor or nurse and a needle.

RONN JACKSON IS FREE OF PRISON!

From JOHN RAY, 11/8/98: [quoting]

I don’t know if anyone has heard that Ronn Jackson is now out of prison. He contacted one of my sources trying to locate Katherine Herman and may be renewing old acquaintances. It is not likely he will contact me since I previously made him well aware I don’t have the finances that he needs.

He claims he has been out prison for two weeks now and will not be going back.

He also claimed to have been in contact with Warren Christopher and that he will soon have access to funding. When I sarcastically asked my source if he has found another rich widow to get this funding I was told that Betty is still by his side. If he does get funding he should first repay those who trusted him enough to loan him money to finance his previous escapades.

I may be overly cautious but very little happens by accident and timing is not only important but essential in evaluating any given situation. I become suspicious when critical negotiations are now going on with GAIA and it seems both private business information and the crew has been compromised by outside infiltrators. Now Ronn Jackson is suddenly out of prison and trying to locate Katherine, who is enraged over the CONTRACT agreement. It could be significant if these two team up to try and block any deals. PRECAUTIONS and TO BE ALERT is what is needed at this time.

I hope I am wrong in my assumptions but these are critical times and our adversaries will attempt to utilize every person or means to block their competitors in this earthly chess game.

Forewarned is forearmed. Our prayers are with the GAIA team. In the LIGHT, John Ray [End quoting]

THE THIRD SOLUTION: THE BO GRITZ STORY

From NCBA REPORTS (The National Commodity And Barter Association Monthly Report), Oct. 1998: [quoting]

Bo Gritz Newsletter—Oct. 1998

It was at exactly this point at 1:00 P.M.,

Sunday, September 20, 1998 that I pushed the "save" button and allowed my straining mind to return to the only thing of importance to me. Claudia's (my wife) divorce was 10 days away. I was rapidly growing crazy not being able to talk things out with her.

Well-meaning friends had counseled that the only way she might respond was to see me as the same man she had first fallen in love with 25 years ago. My notes, calls and flowers were rejected with a legal warning that anything further would be met with a $10,000 fine per event. There had never been a clear explanation of what had happened and why. My mind ached for answers. Claudia being my only real friend didn't make matters any better—there just wasn't anyone for me to go to for a mind flushing. Claudia had become so much of me that her removal meant my demise. All I've ever wanted to do was come home to her. Every other time there had been my butyryl [sic] twin soul with her arms out, welcoming me home.

Sunday afternoon became fuzzy and narrow in focus. I showered, shaved, and put on my uniform. I would again be the man Claudia had married. Maybe she would have a single kind word that we could build on. Claudia had said she was "tired of making things OK for others", and wasn't going to do it anymore. She wanted her "freedom". I had finally said: "I don't have a life except for you and our children."

Claudia is very much her own person. She is the only Mother that my children will ever know. She is a woman adored, appreciated, and cherished by all. Claudia single-handedly saved our Covenant Community from financial disaster when Gillespie took off leaving a million dollars in debts due—he then illegally withdrew over $20,000 that Claudia had carefully collected to pay our road builders. Everyone in the entire area knows that Claudia is responsible for saving Almost Heaven. She is a business woman extraordinaire.

Claudia was clear that there would be no effort at reconciliation. She asked me for a list of assets and divided up what we had. The last words from Claudia were: "I need a final date when you will have all your things out so I'll know you are never coming back!" I wrote a note promising to be clear not later than October 15.

Removing my things seemed the same as trying to surgically remove my physical, emotional, and spiritual attachment to her. As I saw it, there were only TWO SOLUTIONS! Claudia would either recognize some spark of concern or memory of love for me, or I would make it easy for us both. I know that as long as I was alive, I would always be a bother and irritant to her. She could more easily get over a death than a life of having me always in her shadow.

I wrote letters to our children who are all adults. My whole SPIKE program and Almost Heaven had been designed to be self-contained without my leadership. I prayed long, hard and loud for God to please help me understand. I prayed that He would understand. I would rather watch over Claudia as a spirit than be tortured as a man with her rejection. He had always heard my prayers, but this time it was as if I were alone. I concluded that without Claudia, my life held no joy.

I checked that my .45 Auto was loaded with hydroshock ammunition. I drove down the hill to where Claudia had parked our motorhome. She wasn't there. I saw Claudia's jeep and parked to wait for her. Before long Claudia and Vida, our friend, approached. I presented myself as planned, and as if in a dream, said: "Shug, here is the man you married, won't you love me just a little?" The body was that of my beloved, but it wasn't her behind the eyes nor in the voice. I felt more than alone. All that remained was the Second Solution. It was about 4:30 in the afternoon, I drove my truck across the Orofino bridge, turned left and then right up the steep gravel road leading to Nez Perce. I headed a short distance down the hill. Without turning off the engine, I checked the chamber, it was loaded, opened the door and stepped out of the cab.

Strange that I placed the muzzle against the bottom of my decorations instead of my head. I really wasn't thinking. I can only imagine that it was the pain in my heart I wanted to extinguish. I saw clearly the barrel pressed firmly on my chest. I saw clearly my finger on the trigger. It was so easy to complete the action. I heard the discharge, saw clearly a large hole in the line of ribbons, felt myself groan and fall in a long black hole.

The next thing I was aware of was crying. It was Vida. I thought what a shame it was that she was sad. I felt my body being jostled. People were rushing around, a breathing mask was shoved over my nose and mouth, blood pressure readings that seemed much too high, then low were called out. I felt an explosion of pain in my chest as the doctor cut a tube entrance to my lung. Needles pricked my feet, arms, and hands. It wasn't until 0100-hours, that my eyes opened and I could see—disappointed to still be breathing. The last recollection before slipping deeper into the abyss was hearing an agitated voice demanding my Social Security number.

The next morning brought a barrage of X-rays, pills, more morphine, O₂ exercises, social workers, blood tests, and you. Somehow you had found out that something bad had happened. You began phoning, sending cards, and flowers, the flow never ceased. As usual, the news reporters got the story all wrong. AP wire had me shot in the head, while another source reported me dead.

Confused that I had carefully shot myself pointblank in the left chest with .45 caliber hydroshock ammunition and was still alive, the doctor explained that at least two things contributed to my survival. Being large of frame, bringing the pistol in line with my left side left the barrel at a slight outside angle as I squeezed the trigger. Second, the projectile went through the medals, into my chest cavity, glanced off my ribs and exited out the side. There's an ugly tunnel with two large holes, but otherwise I'm as sound as ever.

My sons, Micheil and Jim, daughters, Melody and Vicci, brother Mike, mom—Samantha, friends Sheldon, Brad, his wife, and baby, joined me for dinner the day the doctor released me. Micheil offered the following toast: "Surely, the most common comment heard at funerals is; 'If I only had a chance to see him one more time, or talk just once more, or hold him for a moment, just a final kiss...'. If we were gathered today at Dad's funeral we all would have been saying and wishing for these things. God has answered our prayer, and we now have that chance.

The chance to tell our feelings, live our promises, and stand for truth, not only with Dad, but everyone else who is dear to us. Life is fragile and we may not always have a second chance, let us live the love we too often hide in our heart." Mike is right. Please learn from my lessons—love those NOW and in the way you would if you had a second chance. I love you; I know that together we can, through our Savior Jesus Christ, return Home as God's Eternal Family.

My challenge now is to discover a Third Solution. I want nothing more than to grow old with my bride providing her with the loving husband she deserves, but I must consider the fact that Claudia may never come back. Solution Two is no solution. I thought in a state of exhausted confusion that it would be easier for my family to bury me at Arlington and go on with their lives. No doubt Solution Three will provide me with sufficient vision to see a future in my life without Claudia, but I'm having difficulty seeing anything but her at the moment.

God Bless America!—Bo [End quoting]

Bo certainly needs our prayers, as well as his family and friends. I suggest that your prayers be that God's Will be done in all of their lives! It's hard to tell what Bo has left to do in this world. From what Hatonn has said in the past, nothing that happens with him in the future would surprise me.

SEEDS OF DESTRUCTION

Excerpted from the INTERNET, <paradiscuss@tje.net>, 10/29/98: [quoting]

The nation's food safety authority—the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA)—does not require genetically-engineered food crops to be labeled as such, so none of us can know whether the food we are eating is genetically engineered or not. Chances are pretty good that if you eat french fries at McDonald's, or if you eat Frito-Lay potato chips, you've eaten a genetically-engineered potato patented by Monsanto, the St. Louis chemical giant. The TIMES story focuses on Monsanto's New Leaf Superior potato, a thin-skinned white spud found fresh in your supermarket.

Monsanto's New Leaf Superior potato is, itself, legally registered as a pesticide with U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) because it has been genetically engineered to poison any Colorado potato beetle that might eat even a tiny portion of it. Every cell of Monsanto's New Leaf Superior contains a gene snipped from a bacteria called BACILLUS THURIENGENSIS, or Bt for short, which produces a protein that is highly toxic to Colorado potato beetles. The Bt gene is present in every cell of a Monsanto New Leaf Superior, which is why the potato itself is registered as a pesticide.

U.S. EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) has responsibility for licensing new pesticides. EPA pesticide officials believe that the New Leaf Superior potato is reasonably safe for humans.

As a test, EPA fed pure Bt to mice without harming them. Because humans have eaten old-style New Leaf potatoes for a long time, and because mice are not visibly harmed by eating pure Bt, potatoes containing Bt genes must be safe for humans, EPA reasoned. The TIMES reported, "Some geneticists believe this reasoning is flawed" because inserting foreign genes into plants may cause subtle changes that are difficult to recognize. Only time will tell.

The label on a bag of Monsanto's pesticidal potatoes in the supermarket lists all of the nutrients and micronutrients in the potato, but fails to mention that the potatoes have been genetically-engineered or that they are legally a pesticide.

Food labeling is ordinarily the responsibility of FDA.

An FDA official told the NEW YORK TIMES that FDA does not regulate Monsanto's potato because FDA does not have the authority to regulate pesticides. That is EPA's job.

EPA-approved pesticides normally carry an EPA-approved warning label. For example, a bottle of Bt bears a label that warns people to avoid inhaling Bt and to avoid getting Bt in an open wound. However, in the case of Monsanto's pesticidal potato, EPA says FDA has responsibility for requiring a label because the potato is a food. However, FDA told the TIMES that it only requires genetically-engineered foods to be labeled if they contain allergens or have been "materially changed" and FDA has determined that Monsanto did not "materially change" the New Leaf potato by turning it into a pesticide. Therefore no FDA label is required. Furthermore, the law that empowers the FDA (the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act) forbids FDA from including any information about pesticides on food labels. Pesticide labels are EPA's responsibility, says FDA, and we come full circle.

Some genetically-engineered food crops are NOT registered as pesticides, and FDA DOES have the authority to regulate those.

However, according to the TIMES, FDA maintains a list of foods that need no regulation because they are "generally recognized as safe" (or "GRAS"). Since 1992 FDA has allowed companies like Monsanto to decide for themselves whether their new genetically-engineered foods should be added to the GRAS list and thus escape regulation. In other words, FDA regulation of genetically-engineered foods is voluntary, not mandatory.

A Monsanto official told the NEW YORK TIMES that the corporation should not have to take responsibility for the safety of its food products. "Monsanto should not have to vouchsafe the safety of biotech food," said Phil Angell, Monsanto's director of corporate communications. "Our interest is in selling as much of it as possible. Assuring its safety is the FDA's job," Angell said.

In sum, biotech is an industry in the grip of a frontier mentality. Anything goes. Government is a willing and servile participant. If it turns out worse than the chemical debacles of the last 50 years, will anyone be surprised?

Monsanto's New Leaf Superior potatoes will have major effects on U.S. agriculture, regardless of their human health consequences (if any).

Organic farmers—those who try to avoid synthetic chemical pesticides and fertilizers to the extent possible—apply powdered Bt sparingly to their crops from time to time, a natural pesticide of last resort. In this powdered form, Bt is neither present in high concentrations nor for very long because it degrades in sunlight. Therefore, insects have not developed "resistance" to Bt.

But now that Bt is continuously present in whole fields of Monsanto potatoes, the insects in those fields will be continuously exposed to Bt. Therefore it is only a matter of time before they develop "resistance" and become immune to Bt's toxic effects. [End quoting]

Hopefully the elite's time will run out before they can cause too much more genetic damage.

THOUGHTS

From the INTERNET, <<http://caus.org/feedback.htm>>, 11/1/98: [quoting]

We have taller buildings, but shorter tempers; wider freeways, but narrower viewpoints; we spend more, but have less; we buy more, but enjoy it less.

We have bigger houses and smaller families; more conveniences, but less time; we have more degrees, but less sense; more knowledge, but less judgment; more experts, but more problems; more medicine, but less wellness.

We spend too recklessly, laugh too little, drive too fast, get too angry too quickly, stay up too late, get up too tired, read too seldom, watch TV too much, and pray too seldom. We have multiplied our possessions, but reduced our values.

We talk too much, love too seldom and lie too often. We've learned how to make a living, but not a life; we've added years to life, not life to years.

We've been all the way to the Moon and back, but have trouble crossing the street to meet the new neighbor.

We've conquered outer space, but not inner space; we've done larger things, but not better things; we've cleaned up the air, but polluted the soul; we've split the atom, but not our prejudice; we write more, but learn less; plan more, but accomplish less.

We've learned to rush, but not to wait; we have higher incomes; but lower morals; more food but less appeasement; more acquaintances, but fewer friends; more effort but less success.

We build more computers to hold more information, to produce more copies than ever, but have less communication; we've become long on quantity, but short on quality.

These are the times of fast foods and slow digestion; tall men, and short character; steep profits, and shallow relationships.

These are the times of world peace, but domestic warfare; more leisure and less fun; more kinds of food, but less nutrition.

These are days of two incomes, but more divorce; of fancier houses, but broken homes. These are days of quick trips, disposable diapers, throwaway morality, one-night stands, overweight bodies, and pills that do everything from cheer, to quiet, to kill. It is a time when there is much in the show window, and nothing in the stockroom. [End quoting]

Does any of this "ring a bell" for us—personally?

WHAT IS A CULTIST?

Pay Close Attention!

From NCBA REPORTS (The National Commodity And Barter Association Monthly Report), Oct. 1998: [quoting]

"A cultist is one who has a strong belief in the Bible and the Second Coming of Christ; who frequently attends Bible studies, who has a high level of financial giving to a Christian cause; who home-schools for their children, who has accumulated survival foods and has a strong belief in the Second Amendment; and who distrusts big government.

"Any of these may qualify a person as a cultist but certainly more than one of these would cause us to look at this person as a threat, and his family as being in a risk situation that qualified for government interference."

$1.03 BILLION TO SETTLE NASDAQ PRICE-FIX SUIT

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 11/10/98: [quoting]

A federal judge Monday approved a record $1.03 billion settlement of a class-action lawsuit by investors who accused 37 brokerages of overcharging them for Nasdaq-listed stocks in a price-rigging conspiracy that resulted in a government crackdown.

"There can be no doubt that this class action would be enormously expensive to continue, extraordinarily complex to try and ultimately uncertain of result," U.S. District Judge Robert W. Sweet wrote, estimating the trial alone could last more than a year.

He described in his 66-page ruling how an article written by two professors had led to more than two dozen investor lawsuits and a federal investigation that ultimately changed the computerized market.

The article, "Why do Nasdaq Market Makers Avoid Odd Eighth Quotes", by professors William G. Christie and Paul H. Schultz, was published in The Journal of Finance.

The price-fixing allegations caught the interest of the federal government, leading to an April 22, 1996 consent decree that forced permanent changes in the operation of the Nasdaq, the nation's second-largest stock market.

The companies making payouts in the deal approved Monday include the biggest names in the securities world—Merrill Lynch & Co., Goldman Sachs & Co., and Salomon Smith Barney Inc. The firms denied any wrongdoing. [End quoting]

PULLOUT MAY WAIT, ISRAEL OFFICIAL SAYS

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 11/10/98: [quoting]

Israel likely will miss the new Mideast peace accord's Monday date for beginning a phased withdrawal of its soldiers from 13 percent of the West Bank, a key adviser to the prime minister said Monday.

The peace accord was to have taken effect Nov. 2 and be implemented over 12 weeks. It has been held up by Israel, which seeks to clarify the Palestinians' obligations. After a suicide-bombing in Jerusalem on Friday, Israel's Cabinet suspended debate on the deal until the Palestinians do more to fight Islamic militants. [End quoting]

We didn't really think that signing the peace agreement meant we were going to have peace—did we? Certainly we've learned by now that the "elite" only sign peace agreements to gain some benefit from their adversaries, certainly not for peace because there is no desire for peace in them.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS SCHOOL VOUCHER PROGRAM

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 11/10/98: [quoting]

The Supreme Court on Monday side-stepped for now a national debate over whether taxpayer-financed vouchers may be used to educate children in parochial schools. The justices, in their decision, let stand a state court ruling upholding the constitutionality of such a program in Milwaukee.

The decision set no precedent, but its effect was to let the Milwaukee program continue unhindered, a fact that advocates of school choice and vouchers were quick to hail, saying it will encourage other cities and states to adopt similar programs.

The court's decision to avoid getting involved means that there is still no national constitutional standard to judge such efforts, leaving the issue to be fought out at the state level where several legislatures are grappling with similar proposals. [End quoting]

FBI AGENTS QUESTION CLINTON IN CONNECTION WITH 1996 ADS

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 11/10/98: [quoting]

In legal woes on a new front, President Clinton was questioned by FBI agents and Justice Department lawyers Monday in an investigation of whether he benefited illegally from Democratic Party advertisements during the 1996 campaign.

The questioning came in a 90-day inquiry begun in September to determine whether an independent counsel should be appointed to conduct a full investigation.

Attorney General Janet Reno has until Dec. 7 [Editor's note: See Ray Bilger's article on p.9 and then look again at Reno's Dec.7 deadline!?!] to decide whether to ask a special three-judge panel to name a special prosecutor.

Clinton, through his attorneys, has denied any wrongdoing.

If Reno proceeds, Clinton would be the first president to be investigated by two independent counsels.

The ongoing investigation by Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr into Clinton's relationship with Monica Lewinsky already has triggered allegations of presidential misconduct and an impeachment inquiry by the House. [End quoting]

It looks as though certain ones are going to keep Clinton's feet in the fire. It's going to be interesting to see how this all plays out.

PHILIPPINES PLANS TO MOVE 850,000 POOR FAMILIES

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 11/9/98: [quoting]

MANILA, Philippines—The Philippines plans to relocate about 850,000 families from shantytowns into government housing projects within six years, an official said Sunday. Within two years, President Joseph Estrada wants to move 450,000 families, mostly people living along Manila's drainage canals, said Karina

David, chief of the government's Housing and Urban Development Coordinating Council. [End quoting]

3 FREEMEN SENTENCED—ONE CLAIMS NO JURISDICTION

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 11/8/98: [quoting]

BILLINGS, Mont.—Three members of the anti-government Montana Freeman were sentenced by a federal judge Friday after one of them said the court had no jurisdiction over him. Russell Dean Landers was sentenced to 11 years, three months for conspiracy, bank fraud, threatening a federal judge and being a fugitive in possession of a firearm. He got the stiffest of the sentences imposed Friday for involvement with illegal operations of the Freeman. Also sentenced were Emmett Clark and Dana Dudley. [End quoting]

HENRY KISSINGER CAUGHT COMMITTING NEW TREASON AGAINST U.S.

From UNKNOWN, 1998: [quoting]

In a lengthy article published in Newsweek, the Los Angeles Times, and the London Daily Telegraph, Henry Kissinger has called for the formation of a special "inner group" within the U.S. government to conduct foreign policy, while President Bill Clinton faces his "impeachment crisis".

Kissinger's "proposal" is nothing short of a full-scale effort to consolidate a cold coup d'etat against President Clinton, against the Office of the Presidency, and against the American electorate, which twice voted Clinton into office, and is overwhelmingly opposed to the impeachment charade being run by treasonous Congressional Republicans, on behalf of the very foreign power that has owned Kissinger throughout his political incarnation.

Since May 10, 1982, when the Fat One delivered a public confession in front of the Royal Institute for International Affairs at London's Chatham House, he has been known as a British agent. In that lecture, which amounted to a vicious assault against the policy legacy of President Franklin Roosevelt and an unabashed embrace of Britain's Winston Churchill, Dr. Kissinger boasted that he never made a major policy decision, as Secretary of State or National Security Adviser, without first clearing it with the British Foreign Office. [End quoting]

Don't you think it's about time we enforced our treason laws in this country? We still have Pollard in prison and Kissinger is a far worse traitor than Pollard.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]
This year marks the 17th annual Wizard of Oz festival. A teacher in Pebble Beach, Calif, has studied the tale and concluded that the story is rife with populist allegory. In the teacher's interpretation of the original book, the yellow brick road and Dorothy's silver slippers (later changed to ruby in the movie) represent the gold standard and silver coinage. The title Oz is an abbreviation for ounce. And the Wizard symbolizes presidents and bankers who are merely men ruling through deception, mystery, bombast and fear. [End quoting]

Very interesting interpretation.

FASCIST SERVICE

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

A mother in Salt Lake City, Utah, who slapped her 14-year-old daughter's face for lying about being sexually active, is now on a state database for child abusers and child molesters. Even though she has not been charged with a crime, she has been placed on the list because, according to social services, "her case was substantiated". The "proof" consisted entirely of her admission to a doctor when she took her daughter for a checkup that she had slapped her daughter in an argument. The list is primarily used to screen applicants for jobs in health-care and child-care industries. [End quoting]

Do we still think we have freedom in this country? How many examples do we have to have before we stop this Gestapo gang?

BUSH AND "TRUST"

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

"Every time Bush talks about trust, it makes chills run up and down my spine. The very idea that the word 'trust' could come out of Mr. Bush's mouth after what he's done to this country and the way he's trampled on the truth is a travesty of the American political system." — Bill Clinton in a 1992 campaign speech. [End quoting]

It takes one to know one—doesn't it?? What a prime example of "the pot calling the kettle black"!

MAKING HEADWAY

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

According to a National Law Journal poll, by a margin of 75 percent, Americans eligible to serve on a jury said they would act on their own beliefs of right or wrong regardless of what a judge might instruct them. [End quoting]

Well, I don't believe this poll because I don't think there are that many people with the guts to buck the judges. If there were, our country wouldn't be in the mess it is.

ANOTHER "HATE" MEETING

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

Los Angeles politicians acted decisively to shut down the Claremont Institute and National Association for Research and Therapy of Homosexuality when they planned a conference to deal with the curing of the mental illness of homosexuality. "Hundreds" of telephone calls were received by the Beverly Hilton, which immediately canceled the event in spite of accepting a $5,000 advance payment. All 15 members of the Los Angeles City Council signed a denunciation of the event. "We believe that homosexuality is a developmental disorder and have evidence," commented the executive director of the group. "We have a right to our views." L.A. politicians and the Beverly Hilton think otherwise. [End quoting]

Yeah—and most educated people know that the "Holocaust" didn't happen as the same above "elite" have been lying to us about, but they can hold all of the deceitful meetings they want.

BOGUS "HATE" CRIME

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

In early October, several swastikas, a "Heil Hitler" slogan and derogatory words about Blacks were found spray painted on the walls of Fulton Elementary School in San Diego, Calif. Police, after pursuing leads provided by residents of the area, arrested four Black youths aged 11 to 16 for the crime. [End quoting]

Probably some more paid youth terrorists—paid by the "elite" to do their own people in. Similar to the Nazi youth gangs.

REPRESENTATION?

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 11/9/98: [quoting]

The Center for Immigration Studies released a report indicating six states have lost seats in the House of Representatives in 1990 due to immigration. This, while states overwhelmed by immigration like California, New York, Florida and Texas gained seats. The purpose of the study was to promote an anti-growth agenda and to show how people in certain states not affected by immigration are losing their representation in government. [End quoting]

All planned by the "elite" to control with divide-and-conquer.

TRUCKLOAD OF ANGELS

From ANGELS ON EARTH, Sep/Oct 1998, Guideposts, 39 Seminary Hill Rd., Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

Back in 1985, I'd been a widow for two years and it seemed my 17-year-old twins, Jon and Jeremy, and I fought daily. Many nights when I'd cooked a good supper they wouldn't bother to show up or even call. On weekends they didn't come home until way past their midnight curfew. No matter how late it was, I managed to stay up to interrogate them. Had they been drinking? Sometimes I smelled beer beneath the wads of gum they chewed. And what kinds of girls were calling at two or three in the morning, refusing to give their names if I answered the phone? When the twins missed meals, I'd sit at the old oak kitchen table alone without an appetite, wondering what trouble they might be getting into.

Tonight I'd prepared their favorite foods: roast beef with potatoes, carrots and fresh green beans, rolls and gingerbread. I stood at the stove, stirring the gravy. Not one lump! I congratulated myself, and set down the wooden spoon when the phone rang.

"Hi, Mom," Jeremy said. "Brian's mom invited me to stay for dinner." (Brian lived down the street.) "They're grilling burgers—the way we ..."

The way we used to do when we were a real family, I filled in silently. "Okay, Jeremy. I'm glad you called." As I hung up, I heard Jon's truck thunder into the driveway. Maybe he'll walk in smiling. Maybe we'll even get along, like family. I decided to do my part and be calm, cheerful, interested in whatever he talked about.

Jon marched into the kitchen, his face grim and determined. Here we go, I thought. I looked down at the green beans. "Hi, supper's almost ready." The words weren't hostile, but my tone wasn't exactly "mother-of-the-year". "I'm not hungry," Jon said. I'm going to a party. And don't hassle me, okay?" Thoughts of one of those parties with beer, fast girls and who-knows-what-else, made my mouth go dry. I kept my voice steady, though. "I'd hoped you would stay home tonight." "I said I'm going out." "Look, I cooked a roast," I announced, lifting the lid. Jon bellowed, "Mom, I'm going!"

I slammed the top back on the pot nearly knocking it off the stove, and glared at him. "No! No! No!" I screamed. "You are not!"

"How are you going to stop me?" he taunted.

I glanced around. It looked like a kitchen. It smelled like a kitchen. But it had become an ugly battleground—again. I beat Jon to the door and blocked it, facing him with my arms folded across my chest. I planted my feet firmly, wishing I weren't wearing my apron.

Jon looked stunned for a second, all six feet, two inches of him. He was nearly two hundred pounds, an athlete in top physical shape. He gently slipped his hands under my elbows and picked me up, moving me out of the doorway. Then he set me down again.

I fought the panic welling up inside me. I would have to lie awake alone in the dark, still house, waiting, wondering, listening. I wasn't sure I could do it tonight. Jon stood in the doorway, hesitating. His huge frame filled it entirely. He was even taller than his father.

Then Jon was gone.

I didn't run ahead of him and grab the keys from his beloved green truck as I'd done once before when he headed out for a party. That time I'd gotten them and thrown them into a field behind our house.

Jon settled into the driver's seat. I'm not going to become a begging, sniffing wimp of a mother again! Help me, Lord. You promised to be a companion to widows. Be mine now. Jon raced the motor victoriously. He wore that cocky, nobody-can-stop-me-now expression I hated.

A scripture popped into my mind: "Are there not ministering angels?" A surge of excitement ran through me. "Jon," I called out, smiling as darkness closed in and the streetlights blinked on.

Still in the driveway, he hit the brakes and leaned out the window. "Yeah?" He was sure he'd won.

"I just wanted to say 'bye, Son. And one more thing: I'm putting angels in the back of your truck." I turned quickly to go inside, rather than wringing my hands on the front porch and crying into my apron as usual. As I stepped through the door, I heard the squeal of his brakes again. What a beautiful sound!

"Mom! Mom!"

I turned slowly, casually. The ball was in my court now. "Yes, Jon?"

"Can you ... do that?"

"Yes, of course. Hebrews one-fourteen. Bye."

Inside I observed Jon from behind a curtain. He sat in the driveway, then ever so slowly he backed the truck toward the street. Twice he stopped, turned around and looked long and hard into the bed of the truck.

I rejoiced and did a little dance. The kitchen overflowed with the aroma of roast beef and gingerbread and an unmistakable sense of the glory of God. In about 15 minutes the phone rang.

"Mom, it's Jon."

For once I didn't bombard him with questions. "Hi, Jon." I held the phone calmly and waited to see what he had to say.

"I had a flat and wound up in a ditch. I'm okay, though. I'm at a pay phone. Some man appeared from nowhere and together we got my truck back on the road. Listen, after we change the tire, can I ... ? I mean ... I don't think I'm going to the party, after all."

"I made a delicious gravy."

"I'm coming home."

"I'll wait."

After all these years I still recall vividly that moment as one of my sweetest memories of motherhood. I was putting ice in the glasses when I heard the roar of Jon's truck. I didn't run out to meet him, except in my heart. I wiped my eyes quickly on my apron and said aloud, "Oh, thank you, Lord."

Jon came bounding in looking remarkably like his father. "Supper sure smells good," he said. "But first, I wonder if ... well, that is, I'm probably the only boy in the state of Georgia with a truck full of angels. Could you ... get 'em out?"

I flashed a confident smile. "Of course." I marched to the front door with Jon close behind and stepped onto the porch in the twilight. "Thanks so much, fellows," I said, as though I dismissed angels routinely. "You all can leave now. But don't go too far."

Jon and I sat down at the table with a feast before us. Jon talked, going on about his truck's engine. I had no idea what a fuel pump was, but I leaned forward, listening intently, feeling a bit like mother of the year. We had the best conversation in heaven knows how long. "I have to tell you, Mom," Jon said over the gingerbread, "you're pretty good company—for a mom, I mean."

A mom with a company of angels in her camp. —by Marion Bond, West Watkinsville, Georgia [End quoting]

It's fascinating how many ways angels accomplish their jobs—especially when we ask with sincere (heart) intent.

While the United States clearly has the military power to further devastate and prostrate Iraq, we strongly believe that the course the U.S. has chosen is not only grossly unjust, but also exceedingly hypocritical and duplicitous. We further believe that though the U.S. may be able to pursue its imperial policies without substantial opposition in the short term, the policies being pursued today, especially the new and massive military assault being prepared against Iraq, are likely to have tremendously negative historical ramifications.

As Middle East experts and scholars—many with close and personal ties to this long troubled and misunderstood region—we feel a political, a moral, and a historical responsibility to speak up in clear opposition at this critical time.

ORIGINS OF TODAY’S IMBROGLIO

Throughout this century Western countries, primarily the United States and Great Britain, have continually interfered in and manipulated events in the Middle East. The origins of the Iraq/Kuwait conflict can be found in the unilateral British decision during the early years of this century to essentially cut off a piece of Iraq to suit British Empire desires of that now faded era.

Rather than agreeing to Arab self-determination at the end of World War I and the collapse of the Ottoman Empire, Western nations conspired to divide the Arab world into a number of artificial and barely viable entities; to install Arab “client regimes” throughout the region, to make these regimes dependent on Western economic and military power for survival; and then to impose an ongoing series of economic, cultural, and political arrangements seriously detrimental to the people of the area. This is the historical legacy that we live with today.

Throughout the 1930s and the 1940s the West further manipulated the affairs of the Middle East in order to control the resources of the region and then to create a Jewish homeland in an area long considered central to Arab nationalism and Muslim concerns. Playing off one regime against the other and one geopolitical interest against another became a major preoccupation for Western politicians and their closely associated business interests.

FOLLOWING WORLD WAR II

After World War II, and from these policy origins, the United States became the main Western power in the region, supplanting the key roles formerly played by Britain and France. In the 1960s Gamel Abdel Nasser was the target of Western condemnation for his attempt to reintegrate the Arab world and to pursue independent “non-aligned” policies. By the 1970s the CIA had established close working relationships with key Arab client regimes from Morocco and Jordan to Saudi Arabia and Iran—regimes that even then were among the most repressive and undemocratic in the world—in order to further American domination and to secure an ever-growing supply of inexpensive oil and the resultant flow of petrodollars.

By the late 1970s the counter-reaction of the Iranian revolution was met with a Western build-up of the very same Iraqi regime that is so condemned today in a vain attempt to use Iraq to crush the new Iranian regime. The result was millions of deaths coming on top of the terrible devastation of Lebanon, itself a country that had been severed from Greater Syria by Western intrigues, as had been the area of southern Syria, then known as Palestine. Additionally the Israelis were given the green light to invade Lebanon, further devastate the Palestinians, and install a puppet Lebanese government—an attempt which failed leading to an American and Israeli retreat but ongoing militarism to this day. Meanwhile, throughout all these years Western manipulation of oil supplies and pricing, coupled with arms sales policies, often seriously exacerbated tensions between countries in the region leading to the events of this decade.

THE GULF CONFLICT

It was precisely such American manipulations and intrigues that led to the Gulf War in 1990. Indeed, we would be remiss if we did not note that there is already much historical evidence that the U.S. actually maneuvered Iraq into the invasion of Kuwait, repeatedly suggesting to Iraq that it would become the pivotal military state of the area in coordination with the U.S. Whether true or not the U.S. subsequently did everything in its power to prevent a peaceful resolution of the conflict and for the first time intervened with massive and overwhelming military force in the region creating today’s dangerously unstable quagmire.

The initially-stated American goal was only to protect Saudi Arabia. Then after the unprecedented military build-up the goal became to expel Iraq from Kuwait. Then the goal evolved to toppling the Iraqi government. And from there the Americans began to impose various limits on Iraqi sovereignty; took over much of Iraq air space; sent the CIA to repeatedly attempt to topple the Iraqi government; and placed a near-total embargo on Iraq that many—including a former Attorney General of the United States—have termed near-genocidal. The overall result has been the subjugation and impoverishment of Iraq and the actual death of approximately 5% of the Iraqis as the direct result of American sanctions, plus the reallocation of oil quotas and petrodollars to American client-states.

With the Clinton Administration, the U.S. began to insist on the “dual containment” of both Iraq and Iran—both countries which just a few years ago the U.S. was working very closely with and providing considerable arms to.

With few in the press able to remember from one year to the next, or to connect one historic event with another, somehow Washington has come to insist on Iraqi disarmament and Iranian strangulation. Furthermore, these policies are being pursued even while Israel and key Arab client states are receiving American weapons in ever larger amounts, with Israel's weapons of mass destruction making her forces 7 to 8 times stronger than all Arab armies combined.

Furthermore still, the U.S. and Israeli strategic alliance has never been closer, the U.S. has repeatedly helped Israel defy the will of the international community and the United Nations, and the U.S. continues to champion a disingenuous Israeli "peace process" which in reality on the ground continues to dispossess the Palestinians and to corral them onto reservations in their own country!

THE FUTURE

In a future statement we will move on to the crucial subject of what alternative policies the United States should be pursuing. But at this critical moment we are compelled to come forward and urgently condemn the policies now being pursued by the United States and regional ally Israel. We call for an immediate cessation of the economic embargo against Iraq, an end to U.S.-imposed restrictions on Iraqi sovereignty and airspace, and most of all immediate suspension of all plans to attack Iraq using the overwhelming technological and military instruments available to the U.S.

If the U.S. continues to pursue its current policies then we conclude and predict it will not be unreasonable for many in the world to brand the U.S. itself as an arrogant and imperialist state, and if that becomes the historical paradigm it will be both understandable and justifiable if others pursue whatever means are available to them to oppose American domination and militarism. Such developments could quite possibly lead to still more decades of conflict, warfare, and terrorism throughout the region and beyond.

What's Happening On Dec. 7th?

The Story We're Not Being Told

11/14/98 RAY BILGER

If you follow the mainstream media these days you are not likely to hear anything at all about the possible incredible significance of this upcoming December the 7th. What little there might have been noted about that date appears to have just recently been surreptitiously removed, in England, from our potentially finding anything out about it, perhaps as part of an elaborate hoax to deceive the masses. Or maybe as part of an orchestrated "surprise" to usher in Martial Law in conjunction with Executive Orders that have just recently gone into effect.

Art Bell is back on the air with his late-night radio talk-show, and if you have been listening to him at all since Wednesday, October 28, 1998, this information will not be so new to you. On Friday night, October 30, Art's guest was none other than Richard C. Hoagland, currently one of the more prominent people to be revealing and exposing to the general public things that our government and the "elite" who run this planet do not want you and me to know anything about.

Richard's credentials have been listed on these pages before and include service as former Science Advisor to N.B.C. and to Walter Cronkite, former N.A.S.A. (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) scientist and recipient of the Angstrom Medal, etc.

What Richard revealed, or exposed, to the listening audience that evening was information regarding the recent reception of an anomalous radio signal appearing to be coming from the general direction of the constellation Pegasus, and more specifically from a pair of tiny dwarf stars called E Q Pegasi. So far this sounds a bit like the recent movie Contact, starring Jodie Foster, where an E.T. radio signal was received.

The first public interception of that anomalous signal was supposedly received on October 22, 1998 by a microwave engineer and amateur radio astronomer in England named Paul Dore (pronounced "door"). An MSNBC reporter did a story wherein he stated that Mr. Dore had announced he would be holding a press conference at the Scientific Societies Lecture Theatre in London, England, on November 4, and that he would be joined by two other astronomers. The signal Mr. Dore had supposedly detected was in the range of 1453 MHz, and he was calling it a "navigational signal".

Mr. Hoagland made another appearance on Art's show on Monday night, November 2, to update listeners on this unfolding story, and within hours of that appearance Paul Dore suddenly cancelled his press conference. Mr. Dore put out an e-mail note outlining a story of threats and intimidation (reminiscences of Art's recent hiatus?). He claimed that three intelligence agents, including one from the National Security Agency (N.S.A.) of the United States, showed up at his home and told him that he had actually picked up a secret deep-space intelligence satellite. These "men in black" then coerced him into signing a document that threatened him with prosecution if he spoke further about what he found. It appears that the two astronomers who were to join Mr. Dore for the press conference were also gotten-to by the same type of intelligence officials. The press conference was, at this point, effectively stopped.

Richard Hoagland is the founder and chief researcher of an organization called The Enterprise Mission (T.E.M.), and it is well worth checking their Internet website at www.enterprisemission.com for continuous updates on this unfolding story. You may also want to check Art Bell's www.artbell.com website.

T.E.M.'s man in London then checked out the Lecture Theatre, as well as the British Interplanetary Society, the British National Space Center, and the editor of Astronomy Now magazine, and could find no confirmation that such a press conference had ever even been planned. He even spoke directly with the man who runs the Lecture Theatre and he "knew nothing" about it. The intrigue grows.

As of Wednesday, November 4, 1998, the Geocities webpage that had posted the images and e-mails from Paul Dore had suddenly been taken down (Art Bell still has them). The main page had been replaced with a black background with the logo of the N.S.A. Now, this is very interesting as misuse of the logo of a U.S. Government agency is a serious crime punishable by fines and imprisonment. Did the N.S.A. simply take over the website and put their stamp on it?

Back on Thursday, October 29th, on the Isle of Guernsey, in the United Kingdom, Mr. K. F. Benton, another amateur radio astronomer, used his own equipment and 4.5-meter dish antenna to find and confirm the signal apparently originating from the direction of E Q Pegasi.

Then, on Sunday, November 1st, a Japanese amateur radio astronomer named Mr. Oka, connected with a major communications firm in Japan, and using equipment with a spectrum analyzer, found the same signal coming from the direction of E Q Pegasi, except that now it was almost 2 MHz lower in frequency than the signal originally picked-up and reported by Paul Dore.

Richard Hoagland contends this is confirmation that there is some sort of interstellar probe or possibly some type of traveling craft that is decelerating in speed as it is approaching us. In physics, this phenomenon is called the Doppler Effect and the downshift in frequency suggests that the object emitting the radio waves is decelerating. This same Doppler Effect is what makes a train whistle appear to change pitch as the train approaches and then departs from a stationary listener.

Curiously, U.S. Secretary of Defense, William Cohen, was in the Far East as of October 30th, but was suddenly called back to Washington, D.C. over the weekend of November 1st coincident with the announcement of further independent amateur confirmations of the E Q Pegasi signal. He had a hurried meeting at the White House, and was then dispatched to London, where he arrived just about the time Paul Dore was cancelling his scheduled news conference.

This little trip by William Cohen takes on special significance when viewed in the context of the following information: Richard Hoagland said he has intelligence sources who have told him there is some kind of joint N.A.S.A. and D.O.D. (Department of Defense) project, code named Project Sampson, which is scheduled to come to fruition on December 7th! Now, Mr. William Cohen, would you please tell us just exactly what is planned for December 7th?

Richard also stated on Art's program on Monday night, November 2nd, that during Art's two-week hiatus off the air to deal with his "emergency family situation", a source had told Richard that one of the reasons Art was forced to go off was to prevent him from reporting about the December event, which neither Art nor Richard knew anything about at the time.

To back up in time a bit to September, an organization that is ostensibly looking for signals from outer space is S.E.T.I., or Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence. The name of their program of searching for such signals is called Project Phoenix, not to be confused with The Phoenix Project associated with this newspaper. (Isn't it interesting how much purposeful confusion is generated?) Up until a couple of years ago, S.E.T.I. received support from N.A.S.A., which ought to raise a large red flag in the minds of thoughtful CONTACT readers.

A computer hacker from Australia, who goes by the name of "The Fixer", claims to have gotten into a back door of S.E.T.I.'s website and found observations from September 17th showing anomalous signals obtained from the large radio telescope at Arecibo, in Puerto Rico, which originated from the direction of E Q Pegasi. Arecibo, which also receives support from N.A.S.A., is the 1,000-foot-diameter receiver supposedly listening out there, at least part of the time, for E.T.! S.E.T.I. thought they might have picked up signals from this star, but said they observed the same signal by pointing in a direction away from the star, "proving that it was terrestrial interference". The hacker claimed that the posting he uncovered showed that N.A.S.A.'s computers and S.E.T.I.'s observational machinery were directly linked. So much for S.E.T.I.'s claim that no such connection exists. As usual, you can usually take the opposite of any official pronouncement as the truth.

On Monday, November 2nd, Dr. Ray Norris of the Australia Telescope Compact Array (A.T.C.A.), located in New South Wales (consisting of six huge dish-antennas, each 22 meters in diameter), found a signal apparently originating from the general direction of E Q Pegasi, at a frequency of 1451 MHz, but several degrees away from E Q Pegasi. Because the signal was at a lower frequency and not from the exact direction of E Q Pegasi, it was dismissed by A.T.C.A. as "satellite interference". Now that, in itself, is a curiously revealing statement since "satellite interference" is a common signal source which professionals in the field of radio astronomy are quite capable of discerning and filtering.

Richard Hoagland points out that this is eerily consistent with the Japanese observation of an identical trend of frequency decrease, both indicating a decelerating interstellar probe. In addition, the fact that the A.T.C.A. signal was not in the same direction as E Q Pegasi indicates it is not coming from the star itself, but is coming from something in the direction of the star that is obviously moving.

Mr. Hoagland contends: "the signal has all the characteristics that S.E.T.I. should logically be looking for, if in fact they are ACTUALLY interested in finding E.T." Richard believes that the conclusion reached by A.T.C.A. seems clearly designed to deflect further investigation away from whatever is out there, and is a cover-up of the real interpretation of the data.

Mr. Hoagland has calculated that the available data shows this object is coming toward us at about 4,000 miles per second, and based on the current decelerating statistics, it should arrive here on December 7, 1998. Information too voluminous to contain here, but including information Richard has been receiving for several months from inside "Pentagon sources", indicate to Richard that the area of arrival here on Earth should be in the general vicinity of Phoenix, Arizona. (There's that word Phoenix again!)

On the night of November 2nd, after completing his appearance on Art's radio show, Richard Hoagland received a telephone message on his voice mail. It was a one-sentence communication from what Richard believes was an obvious intelligence source, revealing the exact location north of Phoenix, Arizona that is supposed to be the actual landing site that will be utilized on December 7th.

Richard revealed this information on an appearance on Art's show the following evening, November 3, with further updates, but he did not give the specifics of the location as he "doesn't want a million people standing out there like [in the movie] Independence Day, looking up". If this is true, the implications may be very telling. Richard himself is now investigating the sight, privately.

If true, this information confirms that intelligence sources within our government obviously know about what is planned to happen on December 7th. And, if those sources within the government know about this, then those who run our government from behind the scenes know all about it and are more than likely intimately involved with whatever will be taking place. They simply do not want us to know anything at all about it.

Why? Because they may have the intention of using this event as a surprise and an absolute tool for bringing the masses under total control, and they cannot do that if the masses are aware of the secret plans to be used against them! Remember the love affair that these "elite" crooks have with secret symbology, especially concerning time cycles and various satanic "power" days in the year. Thus harken back to December 7, 1941 and the engineered attack on Pearl Harbor which "caused" the puppet Roosevelt to sign the U.S. declaration of war the next day that finally got us hooked into the banksters' death-and-destruction trap called World War II.

Could this be part of the long-planned fake alien invasion? It has all the appearances of it. Could it be Wormwood, or a comet, or an asteroid on a collision course with Earth? Might it actually be friendly visitors from somewhere out there? Hold on, there's more to the story.

On Thursday, October 29th, Professor Nathan Cohen of Boston University denounced the alien signal as a hoax. He contended that the signal allegedly coming from the area of E Q Pegasi was, "A hacker gone wild. Too many Contact [the movie] reruns. Case closed." Sounds like a professor who knows how to maintain the cash flow of his government research support grants..

Back on Tuesday, November 3rd, the B.B.C. (British Broadcasting Company) News reported that "Alien Hoax Dismays Scientists". The article quoted Dr. Paul Shuch, Executive Director of S.E.T.I., as saying, "For the past 10 days we have been chasing a ghost." Again, from all appearances, if the information about the E.T. signal is true, then there is an elaborate cover-up in place. The establishment news and the scientific community seem to be supporting a carefully orchestrated agenda that cannot and will not acknowledge the signal being received, while the amateur observers, who are not controlled by the establishment and their money, are revealing to the public their intriguing findings.

When Jonathan Wolf of Harvard University's Billion-channel Extraterrestrial Assay—Project BETA—was asked to check out signals from E Q Pegasi, he detected only "anomalous signals" which were dismissed as noise. Richard Hoagland finds his comments very troubling, since it is just these "anomalous signals" we should be looking for! As Richard puts it: "It is now more important than ever that more observations be made."

As of Monday, November 9th, Art announced that he has been in communication with Paul Dore, who disclaims any knowledge whatsoever about any of this, and assumes that someone must have used his name without his knowing it. Art has even invited Dore onto the radio program, but it appears he won't show. In addition, the Japanese amateur radio astronomer, Mr. Oka, now also claims to know nothing about the signal coming from E Q Pegasi.

Richard Hoagland also appeared on Art's show on November 9th, and said there are more confirmations of the signal coming in from amateur astronomers, but he did not want to reveal their names at this time. Presumably, this was due to the fact that they also could, at any time, suddenly "not remember anything" about the signals they just reported.

Richard notices a definite pattern, where the major astronomers and astronomical facilities are

The Untold History Of America

by Ray Bilger

This book shatters the image that has traditionally been portrayed as American History, by exposing the high-level corruption that passes for business as usual in the Halls of Congress, the White House and throughout our entire Judicial system.

The Untold History of America* was written for the specific purpose of providing a high school textbook for all American schools that would educate students into the real nature of our national situation. With a clear understanding of things as they exist in reality, students will then be in a much better position to go on in life and do something to correct our current downhill course.

This book is for those who want to know why America is the way it is today, where we went wrong, who are the responsible parties, and what we can do to bring back the American Dream our forefathers and mothers fought so hard to establish and gave their very lives to defend.

Special emphasis is placed throughout the book on the original inhabitants of America, the Native Americans. They lived for thousands of years on this continent in complete harmony and balance with the Earth. With their help we may yet be able to turn things around so that our tomorrows will be something we will all be honored to pass on to the children who are our future generations.

The first 16 parts of Ray Bilger's ongoing series,

The Untold History Of America, have finally been compiled into a book,

The Untold History Of America, Vol. 1,

now available from Phoenix Source Distributors for $7.00 plus S/H denying this signal is real, while the amateurs are saying it is real. This is an often repeated pattern trying to execute damage control in science. It was nowhere more ridiculously obvious than during the Pons & Fleischman "Cold Fusion" controversy about 10 years ago. The laboratories with the most to lose (in terms of government contract money) all pronounced Cold Fusion as a hoax. The little labs with nothing to lose all found evidence for a real phenomenon going on. So where are Pons & Fleischman now? In a beautiful, custom-built laboratory in the south of France, paid for by Mr. Toyota of the Toyota Motor Corporation. (Wonder why Japan is being set to fall with the other Asian economies in the "squeeze-play" by the International Monetary Fund banking gangsters?)

Richard believes the whole story with Paul Dore was an intentionally-created hoax to divert real interest and investigation away from whatever it is that is coming our way. And no one seems to know who put up the Geocities website with Paul Dore's information, or who removed it from the Internet. All we know is that it was replaced with the N.S.A. logo, with no explanation offered.

In conjunction with all of the above, there has recently been some controversy over a series of Executive Orders (E.O.s) issued under President Clinton. Those familiar with E.O.s know that they are unconstitutional directives directly from the King-President, that they are not subject to approval by Congress, that they have the power to suspend normal constitutional processes, and that they automatically become law. Executive Orders got their start under President Franklin D. Roosevelt on March 9, 1933 as he needed a way to immediately stop the engineered run on the banks and the impending collapse of the United States Government during the Great Depression. (Remember that the "elite" crooks create the problem so you'll accept an otherwise unacceptable solution!)

While President Clinton was in Birmingham, England on May 14, 1998 for the G-8 Summit, he quietly signed EO-13083. This E.O. removes restrictions that protect states from regulations imposed by federal agencies without the approval of Congress. It also cedes all powers not specifically mentioned in the Constitution to the federal government, in direct contravention of the Constitution.

The U.S. Congress responded by asking the President to revoke the E.O. Instead, President Clinton suspended EO-13083 on August 5th, 1998 for 90 days. Since Congress does not appear to have challenged the E.O., it just became law on Friday, November 6, 1998. Coincidentally, that was the same day a new Hollywood movie opened, called The Siege, about life in the United States under Martial Law!

Another Executive Order, known as the Defense Resources E.O., places incredible powers in the hands of F.E.M.A. (the Federal Emergency Management Agency) in the event of a declared national emergency. Under this E.O. the President can seize the nation's food supply, water resources, stop all travel, and confiscate private property, etc. Is there some connection we can draw from the fact that these E.O.s are being put in place prior to December 7th?

Regular readers of CONTACT will recall that the May 19, 1998 issue of this newspaper, at page 11, in an article by this reporter, listed a number of very disturbing E.O.s in place and ready to go, which will provide for the takeover of all communications, all electric power, petroleum, gas and other fuels, the takeover of all food resources and the nation's farms, the takeover of all transportation, highways, seaports, etc., the mobilization of all civilians into work brigades under government supervision, the takeover of all health, education and welfare functions, the takeover of all airports and aircraft, the relocation of communities into designated areas, the takeover of all railroads, inland waterways and public storage facilities, etc., etc., and provides for F.E.M.A. to coordinate it all.

Let's see now, did they forget anything? The stage has been set and now we wait to see what happens, unless, of course, we decide to act and demand some truth and accountability from our so-called leaders and those in the media and the scientific community. Haven't we put up with their lies long enough?

Let's look for a moment at the mythological implications of Pegasus from the ancient Greek and ancient Egyptian. Pegasus was the winged horse of Greek myth, symbol of the great king's or hero's journey to heaven. Pegasus was named for the Pagae, water-priestesses who tended the sacred spring of Pirene in Corinth. Pegasus represented divine inspiration as well as godlike apotheosis. A man who rode him could become a great poet. The rider of Pegasus could figuratively "fly through the air, to reach the heavens".

From the ancient Egyptian, Pegasus was born "at the springs of the ocean", and his father is Poseidon. Consider the following definitions from ancient Egypt: "pa" means to fly; "ga" means to see, to look; and "ses" means horse or mare. Put together, we have pagases (Pegasus). Richard, believes the word "ga" (to see, to look) seems most appropriate to the theory of a probe. Also, "pega" means a metal object.

The Book of Revelation in the Bible states that it is the white horse in the sky that will herald the return of Christ, and some contend the white horse is Pegasus. Also, it was in 1995 that a star within the Pegasus constellation was discovered to have an orbiting planet.

Now for some more about N.A.S.A.'s shenanigans: Richard Hoagland believes that the N.A.S.A. SOHO (SOLAR and Heliospheric Observatory) spacecraft, which beams back such incredible information about our Sun, was intentionally taken off-line on June 24, 1998 (and did not mysteriously go off-line as officially stated) and brought back on September 16, 1998 because it would have revealed something the "elite" at N.A.S.A. don't want us to see, and that is an incoming comet that appears to be on a collision course with Earth in the summer of 1999 as we pass through the Taurid meteor stream at that time.

Richard does point out that it has recently become N.A.S.A. policy to withhold any announcement of a possible collision (with a comet or asteroid) for at least 72 hours. Some scientists even suggest that such information should be withheld entirely, especially if the discovery was made "too late" (less than one year before impact) to do anything about it. Isn't it reassuring to know these are the kind of people we have "looking out" for our welfare?

Hoagland's Enterprise Mission has previously pointed out that we have literally been bombarded in the last 18 months with TV specials, news stories, and movies about the coming impact of an asteroid or comet. One of the latest is a TV commercial, now seen on all networks, hosted by the head of F.E.M.A. himself, James Lee Witt, personally selling disaster flood insurance—under the telegraphic title "Project Impact".

How many people know that Senator John Glenn, who was recently sent into orbit in the Space Shuttle, is himself a 33rd-degree Mason? It is common knowledge that many of the astronauts were Masons, including Alan B. Shepard and Edwin Aldrin. It is not well known, however, that most of the N.A.S.A. hierarchy are Masons, and that they seem to be pursuing an absolutely diabolical agenda laden with satanic symbolism, as Richard Hoagland has been revealing on Art Bell's radio show for several years now.

And now, suddenly, the situation with respect to Iraq is heating up to the boiling point, with war appearing imminent on the horizon. So, Secretary of Defense William Cohen is sending tens of thousands of American soldiers to the other side of the World. Is this "just" another major diversion and distraction to keep our minds off of December 7th? (Not to mention this would be a possible way to hold Clinton at home while the more IMF-compliant Gore is sent to the Asian Pacific Economic Conference in Kuala Lumpur.)

If that doesn't work, will we then have some event where the American people are terrorized by our own secret government blowing up yet another Federal Building, or maybe several of them? They could then blame that on Middle Eastern terrorists and, in conjunction with the situation with Iraq, or a possible chemical or biological terrorist (i.e., secret government) attack in the United States, it could provide a justification for instituting Martial Law in America!

Remember what William Cohen was quoted as saying in last week's CONTACT on page 2, "Terrorism is escalating to the point that Americans may soon have to choose between civil liberties and more intrusive means of protection." He just forgot to mention that our secret government is the one responsible for engineering making Martial Law necessary!

Consider this: Richard Hoagland said on November 3rd, "There is a lot of information converging that maybe what's going to happen between now and December is not going to be very nice or pretty." Remember, with each day that passes the New World Order of "elite" controllers has less and less time to put their Global Plan 2000 in place, so we should expect them to do anything at any time.

As of November 14th, C.N.N. Headline News announced that the Leonid Meteor Shower expected on November 17th could cause a major loss of satellites. When you realize how much of our modern life absolutely depends on the communications those satellites provide, the potential consequences appear to be vastly underestimated. Life as we know it could be greatly compromised after November 17th! If that happens, many people would welcome the "order" imposed by conditions of Martial Law.

What is happening on December 7th, anyway? At the very least ones can check out the Enterprise Mission website as things are starting to get complicated, with accusations of hoaxes about the hoaxes. It certainly makes it seem as though there is something to hide. Perhaps it really is time that we demand some accountability and some hard answers from those we have allowed to lead us—astray!

Which Way Is Up As World Falls Down?

11/10/98 #1 HATONN

IF IT'S GOING TO BE— IT'S UP TO WHO?

Who? Not me! THEE!! But we must realize that it depends on who is talking and who might be the reference. Obviously, if I want something done, I must see to it, so the “me” is “me”. If I need you to help me—then the “me” is “thee”.

Even with good “sayings” I prefer to use more comprehensive meanings than just to rhyme or give alphabets for remembering. Better that a thing be KNOWN than simply remembered. So I ask each of you, including Dharma, to sit for a minute and not just mouth words, but really impress upon self: If it is to be, it must be me. And please, refresh goals.

GOAL?

For each individual there will be a different goal or, at the least, a different perception of the goal. THINK what it is and WHY you might wish a thing, and more especially why you wish a thing for self. Why do people do the things they do, move to certain places, and search for comfort (and yes, all things are to seek comfort and happiness, security and peace)?

Some people climb cliffs or even buildings (up the outside walls). Why? Because it is there and the goal is simply to get attention and do what? Get to the top of the building? No, for getting to the top of a finished building is most rapidly and easily accomplished by TAKING THE ELEVATOR. Be careful that you aren't climbing inch by inch when an elevator would serve all of us far better.

Why would anyone come to Tehachapi, California? This is a little township that almost none of the world has even heard of. Is God only in that one little place? Have you seen a crystal or something that causes you to be drawn to that place? No, you are searching, and most searchers find that the acres of diamonds were actually in their own back yard! Ah, but there IS a goal established in the center of THIS little unit of human people and what is it? This is the kernel of truth you must find for self.

In each play there is a plot, or the play is no good. There IS a plot even if it is claimed there is none, for that becomes the plot in itself.

What is the plot in our immediate play? Why are parts of us across an ocean in a foreign land trying to support a failing social world? Do these people want us to come along to their nation and solve their problems and then walk out again, beating our chest and having replaced the wrong with more wrong? NO!

We have a solution to their problems in an economic jungle of already botched solutions. Their solution, however, is also the solution to OUR sad state of affairs. This is why we do not “butt into” the affairs of other people, nations, or take “control”. Our goal is FREEDOM and ability of God's people to live in that freedom, grow, learn and know truth, trust, be able to commune and communicate openly with equal opportunity to other brothers and sisters—but no, not all alike nor all doing robotically what everyone else is doing or experiencing. That is for robots and slaves—not HUMAN creators.

We can always remember that to begin a day most wonderfully is to simply find the first person you meet and do some random act of niceness, kindness—appreciation. If that happens to be your roommate, how much the better.

I neither wish to control nor assign anyone to anything or any place. This is why I don't want people rushing off haphazardly to come zinging to what might be considered my bedside. I have no bed, no “location”, and no right to charge anyone with other than their own guidance—but I expect the guidance to be LIGHTED and always in WISDOM. However, when thoughts are ONLY given to the rewards or desires of SELF, it will never work well for the ones already about their tasks are thwarted by what are mostly recognized as intruders. Wherever you ARE is the right place for you. It is the perfect choice of place for you for the NOW. You may well wish to be somewhere else and share something else—but why? Well, you had better look carefully at “why” because if you don't know your own goals—how expect ye to have others change their own path to attend thee?

I would share a few things with you and let you see into the massive task at hand right here. I will also allow you to see into how it got to here and perhaps the eagerness to be involved will be increased, decreased, or ceased.

We have now alerted the major news services to our situation. We have more than a dozen major things in “play”. We are working without staff, without funds—and yet still have to decide about spelt, the bills and payments back “home”, the farm (its lease is up in December) and we have to meet with Mr. Primakov of Russia and very likely Mr. Clinton of the U.S.—who, by the way, is not staying at the site for the conference—but somehow is placed in a hotel not half a block from this hotel—called the “New World”, yet!

Oh, everyone wants to “deal” but unfortunately the Adversary only “deals” with obscene ideas, greed and guns. And, brethren, if he gets THIS PRIZE, it is over for freedom in a world as you know it or think you want to realize it.

I will go back now to how we came by this wonderful opportunity and asset and why Russell Herman dumped the load onto us. HE THOUGHT WE COULD ACCOMPLISH AND UNDO SOME

OF THE TERRIBLE DAMAGES HE HAD HELPED BRING UPON HIS OWN SPECIES. You have to realize that young men find spying, lying, games, high-roller living, James Bond living, to be something it isn't—but it never dulls as day to day is lived on top of a razor's edge.

When a man is dying, it is usually then that he faces some serious considerations, and when he finds that he has played in a game which merits him a walk through “hell”, he often considers ways to amend those damages if possible. So, he seeks and finds, through God, the way that a thing might be accomplished to reverse some of the damages and turn the spiral into an upward cycle instead of allowing it to bury itself in the pits. Russell felt that if he could accomplish this reversal and give again unto people instead of take away—it would be us who might accomplish same.

This man didn't go out and, eenie-meenie-minie-mo, pick Rick. We had built a paper, a way, and HE PICKED ME, HATONN. I picked Rick and Dharma and, and, and. Russell ended up alone and dying in a most horrendous way while the vultures hovered over his carcass like flies trying to secure their own places and assets. There were true friends and loved ones, but mostly (almost entirely) there were the grabbers and takers. No one alone could accomplish reversing the mighty inroads made by the Elite. But Russell knew that God could do that task—if God could find a few good men and women to set forth on an odyssey into the unknown, unrecognized when they would arrive there, and spend a full decade in almost isolated learning and training. Most people have no idea whatsoever what has taken place.

People think only of a Hatonn giving a bit of a lesson on various Sunday afternoons, occasionally, and writing a few journals; hardly anyone save Al even knows how many. Some felt they would like to participate, and thus a paper was established—so that today we can walk into the Prime Minister's office and they are eager to grab that paper. Just to see the Editor-in-Chief of THE major Southeastern Asia publication start to read CONTACT before Rick ever let go of it was, at the least, gratifying.

Many contacts we make are for “later” with no expectation of doing anything, or expecting them to do anything. It is to make a recognition string of trails for security, shelter, and focus; it is called due diligence on our “lay the setting” while “they” do their due diligence. If we don't pass muster—say goodnight, John Boy.

Well, we pass muster, because the strongest of the Elite masterminds are at the task of bashing us, blocking us, and generally making life as miserable as possible for us to reach THROUGH. But I remind all of you: GOD IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER, AND IF YOU DON'T TAKE HIS GIFTS—HE WILL ALLOW THE ENEMY TO HAVE THEM—EVERY TIME. If you care so little for selves in actual reality—except to just have it a bit easier or nicer or more comfortable for self—just forget it because you have come not only a long way baby, but much too far indeed. Yes, you have to care deeply about the hungry in Honduras and the homeless in Manila. You have to care deeply about the babies in the streets in Brazil. But you have to FIX WHAT IS WRONG—RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE AND WITHIN SELF, AND ONLY THEN CAN WE HOPE TO HELP ELSEWHERE. WE MUST FIRST GET THAT WHICH WE NEED ESTABLISHED FOR THE JOB, BUILD A FOUNDATION AND THEN, ONLY THEN, CAN WE BUILD OUR CATHEDRAL.

God doesn't need any cathedrals, but you need shelters. God can build His own trees for air—you must breathe oxygen, so you must save the trees you have. The human body must, as well, have food to fuel its very existence and yet, man must have dignity lest he wither within, and just "being a living zombie" is hardly CREATOR's gift of LIFE.

My own team gets up over here with just about as blind a notion of the day as can be but, as with today, knowing it will be pressing.

We have appointments with people who say they are going to build the biggest city in all of Asia. Is this fact? Well, we have the appointment—how big a city is under question? We will find out, I suppose.

We have enjoyed intelligence agents, police officers—you name it, and we have been inspected by them and, wow, we passed inspection. Actually, we have passed to the point of now having to decide if we go forth with them to their homes for din-din and a bit of friendship. Is this WISE? YOU ARE PLEIADIAN ROUND-HEELS, CHELAS—IS THIS GOING OFF WITH UNKNOWN STRANGERS EVEN SOMETHING YOU WOULD ALLOW YOUR CHILDREN TO DO? Dharma—NO! I have to have someone left when the others have walked off the cliff and into a trap one of these days. And, no, I am not saying that anyone is dangerous or more troublesome than others—for those are for your discernments. I am telling you that you should be "too busy" to even consider such adventures. Familiarity often breeds too much contempt to be satisfying. Friendships will come and yes, they will be joyful, but the enemy comes always in disguise. My problem is watching you even consider such dangerous possibilities—WITH MY MISSION. If friends are to be "real" friends—they will still be there when the flak settles. And, they will be rewarded with whatever gift they have given—hope or hopelessness—in ABUNDANCE. Every participant in any scenario gives and receives lessons constantly—it is the mode of teaching in a physical universe of "action", perceived or in motion, as in pulsed waves in an electrical environment. You are "light" in a COALESCED form, dense enough to reflect greater light to source of vision—be it God or Devil. Mind is invisible and causes things to be reflected or created—but produces light instead of simply reflecting something or another. Minds are like GOD—they are creators, and through thoughts creation takes place. You are the thought of God manifest—now God waits for your thoughts to CREATE OUR OWN WAY THROUGH THE PERCEIVED DARKNESS COME UPON A WORLD OF HIS MAGNIFICENT CREATION. This means we have to start where man has fallen and begin to cut the strings that bind—one at a time, starting with that which holds him at the moment. His attention at the moment is based on his economy and self-survival—so there is where we can best serve in creating a way to reverse his oppression and suppression into expression and manifestation.

If you have this gift and capability and use it not—you lessen God for He has provided possibilities which you allow selves to toss aside to suit the convenience of your own moment of expression.

Do "I" have favored ones? Yes indeed, at any given moment I favor THE ONE doing the task WITH ME. I favor the one working to fulfill the WORTHY expression of Creator-Creation—for these are THE ONES WHO CALL ON ME. I FAVOR NOT THE ONES WHO TURN ME AWAY AND CLING TO THE ADVERSARY OF TRUTH AND FREEDOM. WHEN YOU CLING

TO THAT FALSE THING WHICH IS PERCEIVED, BUT IS NOT, SECURITY—YOU LOSE ALL SECURITY. NO, YOU CANNOT BE CARELESS—BUT YOU WILL NEVER REACH OUT UNTIL YOU CAN LET GO AND LET GOD—AND CONTRIBUTE SOME OF THAT "SECURITY" TO A PURPOSE GREATER THAN WHATEVER YOU WISH FROM WHICH TO BE SECURE.

Example: If you think you may need a winter coat next year and there will be no resource—perhaps you had best feed the lambs that will grow the wool. Ponder it!

What will you do with TODAY? Don't ask me what YOU need to do today—it is your life, your game—get on with it. Don't ask me if you should contact someone today for if you fail to contact that ONE who never knows of you—how can he solve YOUR PROBLEM? I set forth opportunities—but you have to take them. I repeat: don't ask me what you need to do before you tell me what you plan to do to possibly further our mission. Get on with Labuan, for instance, if that is pressing on your mind. Check out REASON and LOGIC and don't be pulled down by sarcasm, wet blankets or attitudes of another in a group that may appear to be somehow more "in charge". But, consider expenses for going on a lark of some kind. We have to be cautious, careful and diligent in our due diligence, contacts, introductions, etc. We do not run helter-skelter, flitting from flower to flower, without cause or preparations.

I do suggest that you begin to support your presentation with WHY YOU HAVE THE DOCUMENTS YOU HOLD AND THE POSSIBILITIES OF POTENTIAL. IN THAT I MEAN, HOW, WHY AND WHAT WAS RUSSELL HERMAN AND WHY YOU ENDED UP TAKING THE HARNESS. I WANT IT KNOWN THAT WE (YOU) ALREADY HAD BUSINESSES AND AN INSTITUTE—BUT GAVE IT UP TO KEEP A PROMISE TO A MAN WHO DARED BEYOND ALL OTHERS TO RECTIFY SOME NASTY THINGS COME UPON MANKIND THROUGH THE ELITE ONE-WORLD-ORDER OF CONTROLLERS IN HUMAN, PHYSICAL FORM.

You don't preach any religion or "goodie-two-shoes" false piousness. These people you meet want ANSWERS and FACT. They want to know why YOU have this and WHY IT IS GOOD and real and how to make it work. They are not interested in your idea of God or Man for they already have their own opinions of same and only through time, space and perception of presentation will they change those opinions. We offer something in such a way as to suit the needs of the moment at hand—logically, rationally and truthfully.

It is time to stop giving away half with no idea of how to manage it. Let us start strongly urging that, for "half", they do have to get gold to back their half. The only way we can make this work well is to insist that any users get full backing for their own share. If that means we only give 20 per cent so that we can demand 80% of the value be in gold, so be it. This is NOT something-for-nothing day at the fair. For instance, just to give a bunch of funds to a failing "thing" is going to simply get things into bigger and more dastardly circumstances. There has to be value EXCHANGE.

When man starts depopulation procedures on a globe—it is truly horrifying and that is exactly what is happening. This means slow and torturous death of body, consciousness and, finally, spirit. The "Elite" never plan to be depopulated right along with the "useless eaters", but look around you at other places where you have "experienced", just in your solar system. Oh indeed, you CAN AND HAVE wiped out whole planets before Earth. But you don't understand? Whose fault might that be?

You are in November, 1998. The Big Boys plan to have this thing operational as to your being taken over, totally, by News Year Day, 2000. Isn't that fun—the y2k "thing" is but the final EXCUSE that all records are lost. You will have everything you had somehow put into protection—GONE—FOR WHO CAN FIND IT IN LOST COMPUTERS? AND YOU DON'T HAVE GOLD TO COVER ASSETS. ONLY COMPUTER ENTRIES THAT ARE PLANNED TO HAVE VANISHED RIGHT ALONG WITH ALL YOUR OTHER ASSETS. BUT YOU WILL, OF COURSE, BE IN THE BIG COMPUTERS IN THE SKY AND SUBJECT TO YOUR MASTER'S VOICE.

I think it is time to remind the players, team, that with y2k they had best start on gold and get with some backup bookkeeping systems. Part of the Plan 2000 is to simply let everything "go down" without accountability possibilities. It all just goes away but you can count on the Elite having proof of "theirs". This is why the Elite will have their bindings on everything and you will have NOTHING.

Can you change anything in 13 months? Wow! You certainly have waited until the very last minute, haven't you? WORLD, YOU ARE IN SERIOUS TROUBLE! IF YOU DON'T USE THAT WHICH GOD OFFERS IN ORDER TO SHORTEN THE DAYS OF THE ADVERSARY AND HIS STRANGLE-HOLD ON YOU, IT IS GOING TO BE A BLEAK FEW CENTURIES IN THE NEW MILLENNIUM. And to you self-indulgent people—fat's where it's at as the days go by for you will be able to make it a bit further than your "model" skin-and-bones brethren. I just thought you would like to know. Further, you will be better equipped to retain self on much less.

God, let me change those things I can, let me accept what I can't, and please give me the wisdom to know the difference. PHOOEY. There is NOTHING you cannot change—absolutely NOTHING. Can't is the most terrible word in your life-stream for with it comes the cop-out. With God EVERYTHING is possible—so, confound it—CREATE A BETTER WAY AND CHANGE THAT WHICH "CAN'T" BE CHANGED AND, IF FOR THE BETTER—WAY TO GO! If you allow another "somebody", usually an "authority" or "expert", to tell you what is impossible for you—then you deserve the failure you achieve so successfully. Perhaps YOU hold the final key to open the doors to heaven itself. Where are you and where is that key? Certainly YOU HOLD THE ONE THAT LETS YOU pass through. You have to grow to move into heaven, but all you have to do to get into hell is fall into it. Think about it for the days grow short now. You can count as well as I as to your place on the calendars. AND YET, THERE WAS NEVER A MORE PERFECT TIME IN THE HISTORY OF TIME, AS NOW.

To you who thirst and hunger for peace and being at rest within, you must learn to use the gifts God offered at your birth and before—YOUR MIND! CREATE THE WAY FOR NO ONE ELSE SHALL OR WILL DO IT FOR YOU. JUST "SURVIVING" IS NEVER ENOUGH, GOOD FRIENDS—NEVER.

May the joy and creation of this day be the most wondrous of your journey(ies) thus far.

In love and realizing that (repeat after me): I Am shall make you whole and you shall make thee free. Salu.

Hilarion: A Look At Your Genetic Link To Well-being

11/15/98 HILARION

Good morning, old friend. It is I, Master Hilarion, come to commune once again with you in order to bring forth a much desired clarity on recent subjects.

Yes, I do come in and of The One Light. My intent is to fulfill Creator's promise to you ones for guidance and understanding. I represent the heart energy of Creator's infinite, One Body of Life.

There are many on your planet who can see the colors and other various aspects of the human energy fields associated with the human physical body. Many of these ones have also learned to correlate, and thus interpret, what they observe. And this is a good step toward true understanding.

But, observing a natural phenomenon does not always mean one understands HOW this phenomenon truly comes about and functions in the first place. Take, for example, you observe a person with blond hair. Because you see the color of the hair, does this mean you recognize automatically the reason WHY the person's hair color is blond? No, not usually.

Of course a lot of it has to do with physical genetic structure of the body, but what are these DNA strands in the first place? How do they function? Your scientists can take them apart and reassemble them in various sequences. They can tamper and manipulate them. But, how do they really function?

These "little" building blocks are in actuality tiny electromagnetic transmitters and receivers which are in phase synchronization with the human energy fields. (This is to say, in effect, that even your human body is a lot more than what appears solidly in the physical!) The exact sequence of one's DNA structure acts as a "tuning" device which an entity (the non-physical, essence of you) can associate with and influence. The exact frequency can be (and is) modified by the entity who inhabits a particular body.

Usually an entity is not concerned about manipulating the hair color of a body. For the most part, one's soul intent for the body is that there be a general sense of well being. While exquisite in design and function, the Higher (soul) Self is quite aware that the body is not anything more than a temporary (temporal) focusing mechanism for the entity to utilize and experience through. (I have often referred to the body as a "bio-electric sensing machine" in several earlier writings on this subject.) So, why put forth great energy to change one's hair color, eye color, height or such? There really is no need for such a distraction from the purpose-perspective of the Higher Self. Though any such physical alterations are quite possible, it is not generally the intent of an entity to do so.

Though your so-called scientists think they know what they are doing with their little

Learn to stay centered, balanced, and in good spirits, under any and all circumstances, and you will find that the revitalizing energy will once again be a common part of your daily experience.

experiments of manipulating physical tissues, they have little understanding of the true nature or intent of the DNA structures they are playing with. They can and are manufacturing animated "creatures" which have NO soul to guide or connect with, and thus are mere robotic animations, easily manipulated and programmed. If and when God deems it appropriate, He will give to these manufactured creatures a soul consciousness and, in effect, rewrite and fortify their programming. It is merely a matter of TRUE physics.

What, you may be asking at this point, does any of this have to do with clarifying recent subjects?

You each modify and influence the properties of your physical body on a constant basis. For instance, you ones will recognize the observable phenomena of "rapid aging" associated with stress. Some of you have witnessed ones who have been so frightened that their hair literally turns white over night. What are the reasons for such?

This is an example of an extreme condition of disconnect from The Source of well-being, a condition that is brought about by a lack of recognition and understanding of the true nature of your NON-physical self. When ones are upset, their emotional frequency alters (lowers) and there becomes a constrictive blockage in the communication between the energy of the Higher, life-giving soul-you and the physical body. Usually this is only a partial blockage of the flow of energy; a complete constriction would leave the body motionless and dead.

There would appear to be a contradiction in my explanation of the energy-flow physics. Some ones may ask: "Well, if what you say is so, then how can the non-souled, manufactured creatures exist at all, much less stay alive?"

The answer to this important question, in simple terms for the scope of this writing, is that each cell (cellular entity) has the capacity to draw basic energies to power itself (and run its electro-chemical metabolism) from the domain that your scientists have only recently come to recognize and label as the "zero-point" energies of free space. This is the same physics that allows for the operation of so-called "free energy" devices (or motors) of seeming perpetual motion. (There is much to this subject which we will not get into at this time, but you deeper thinkers may recognize the connection between the existence of such "zero-point" energies and God's divine will permeating All That Is.) Thus, manufactured cellular structures can "be alive" in purely physical terms, but not !BE ALIVE! as is possible with coupling between physical matter and a Higher-Dimensional soul essence.

Now, the "down side" of the coupling of soul essence with physical cellular matter (that can otherwise "run" on its own, in a "neutral" condition, so to speak) is that, from a state of fear, the coupled entity can cause stress constrictions in life-energy flows which the neutral, purely physical structure would not experience on its own. In a sense, YOU can "get in the way" of your physical self!

These kinds of energy-constricting phenomena can be observed in the various aspects or layers of the body's energy fields. And though most do not see these phenomena, most do feel the effects of disconnections. These are the ones who are "difficult" to stay around because of their "negativity". Actually, their "bad vibes" are due to their chronic disconnection state, which is a direct opposite to what feels pleasant.

This chronic disconnection state comes about from overly fixating upon fears and worries, and usually takes decades to manifest in the form of a "major" illness. Please KNOW that there is truly nothing to be afraid of—EVER! Likewise, there is nothing truly worth worrying about or getting upset over so as to cause you to disconnect from the only Source of Life that there is. Yet many, out of ignorance of true spiritual fact, will continually justify and rationalize the "need" to worry and get upset.

This is all fine as far as we of the Hosts are concerned. Whether you choose to paint the walls in your house white, brown, or pink, we don't care! These are your choices; why would we interfere? Likewise, if you choose to disconnect from Source, then why would we ever wish to stand in your way? We will not interfere with your choices—EVER!

However, many beg to be "healed" or beg to have someone come and rescue them from what they often perceive is a condition of being a victim of harsh luck or happenstance. Since we do NOT interfere with YOUR choices, this means that YOU must come to grips with the FACT that YOU generate the frequency vibration which causes an out-of-phase signal with the natural functioning of the physical body.

Some will say that they are "genetically" predisposed to having a heart attack or kidney trouble. We would say that more likely it is that you are "frequency"-disposed to having such illnesses—meaning that, because you are influenced by your parents' attitudes and emotional energy fields, you tend to pick-up the same frequency vibrations and thus manifest similar illnesses.

With the proper awareness of what has a greater effect on the overall well-being of a body, one can begin to deliberately modify conditions of the body. These are the tools you need to bring yourself back into balance when an out-of-balance condition exists. They are also the keys to preventative maintenance and continual well-being of the body.

You must realize that we are NOT going to come into your home and re-paint your walls because you are unhappy with the color. Likewise we are not going to "mystically" take over your body and rebalance the conditions that YOU HAVE CHOSEN FOR YOURSELF!

You may be saying: "But, I don't want to be sick and feel pain—so why am I sick?"

Do you worry over such things as money, survival, children, or grandchildren? Do you get overly upset over events and plans that don't go your way? Do you get frustrated regularly over the choices and decisions which others make—like the way they raise their children or won't listen to "reason"? Do you get angry on a regular basis with the manner in which other people drive their cars? Do you "put-up" with the perceived inadequacies of others on a regular basis? Do you find yourself getting upset on a regular basis for ANY reason?

If you can answer yes to any of these questions, then KNOW and SEE how you are creating your own illness. If you are "sick" and still deny that any of this applies to you, then ask a close friend or relative, someone who knows you well, what it is that THEY think you get upset about the most. Be prepared for startling revelations.

Again we get back to last week's topic of how the "little" things affect your overall well-being and your ability to function in a well-balanced manner. There is no need to ever feel chronically tired or sick. Learn to stay centered, balanced, and in good spirits, under any and all circumstances, and you will find that the revitalizing energy will once again be a common part of your daily experience.

The hardest concept that we observe you ones having trouble coming to grips with is the fact that you create your own inner illnesses. Though this writing is more focused on the cause behind the well-being of THE BODY, be assured that the same holds true for creating ANYTHING in the physical experience.

My intent is to bring a greater understanding of YOUR influence over the physical experience. From this recognition you will be one step closer to realizing the true nature and potential of your being. I can but offer to you these insightful tools so that you might realize that YOU indeed do have the ability to "re-paint" the walls of YOUR "house" and restore same to a level of freshness and newness.

I am Hilarion—Healer, Teacher, and more commonly known as the Ascended Master of the Emerald Ray. I leave you all in warmth and assurance that you will all find the balance you desire in your own way and in your own time.

Peace and well-being to you ALL! Salu. ☸

FROM THE BACK COVER

"Our Elder Brothers from the Higher Realms of Creation are attempting to communicate with ALL of us at this time. Why? Take a look around you. The old ways of doing things aren't working. Our planet is entering a time of massive, turbulent change and renewal. To put it bluntly: we NEED help! And that's where this book comes into the picture. Yes, eventually 'the Phoenix will arise from the ashes' after this Great Cleansing process, but the ride could be quite a bumpy one, especially for those ill-prepared for what is to happen.

"Just how we choose to deal with such change is THE question each of us must confront. Yet confusion swirls everywhere upon Earth at this time. And restless searchers cry out for that which may help them cope with these truly challenging times ahead. Thus these messages courtesy of our most loving Elder Brothers from the Higher Realms of Creation who are but further along the same spiritual path we all must eventually walk."
