The Evolvement Of Castro And Cuba

4/11/92 #1 HATONN

With the nationalization of American businesses on the island, Castro was openly thumbing his nose at the United States. Eisenhower, with few options, could only sit still and take it. South America, as Eisenhower noted, judged Castro as “a champion of the downtrodden and the enemy of the privileged” and would be up in arms at the thought of United States interference with this new Latino hero. Castro’s seething revolutionary ideas, Ike feared, might spread through the economically parched nations south of America’s border.

In contrast to Castro’s popularity was the Vice President’s trip to Latin America. In Lima, Peru, Richard Nixon and his wife were greeted by rocks and spit. Even more unfriendly was Caracas, Venezuela, where the windows of Nixon’s limousine, stalled in the midst of an anti-American demonstration, were shattered by rioters carrying placards and heavy rocks.

Eisenhower’s concern over the safety of his Vice President led to the assemblage of a sizable invasion force to physically extract him if necessary. “We could get no reports from the outside,” the President explained at the time, “and not knowing whether the Venezuelan Government might not want some aid from us, we simply put it at the places where it would be available in reasonable amounts…” The “reasonable” force consisted of an aircraft carrier, a missile cruiser, six destroyers, and a helicopter detachment, assembled thirty miles off the Venezuelan coast, plus four companies of Army paratroopers and Marines, numbering some one thousand troops, which were rushed to quick-striking bases at Ramay Air Force base, Puerto Rico, and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Clearly Latin America was a volatile and unpredictable place, where the popularity and politics of a man like Castro might spread quickly. Something would have to be done; what was needed, as Eisenhower put it, was “a third force”, a solution other than Castro’s obvious Communist leanings or the brutal despotism of Batista. But what could be done? And who to do it?

Not surprisingly, Eisenhower in March 1960 turned to the CIA to formulate a plan to get rid of Castro. The CIA concocted a reprise of the plan that had worked so well in Guatemala. A small cadre of several dozen carefully chosen Cuban refugees from among the Cuban exile community in Miami would be trained at the U.S. Army’s Jungle Warfare School in Panama. These men would then train a larger group of approximately one hundred and fifty other Cubans, who would be infiltrated into Cuba in small groups to build up an anti-Castro underground that, with American aid, would rise up and dispose Castro. Meanwhile, as in Guatemala, an important component of the plan, a propaganda radio station, was set in place. Called Radio Swan, it was constructed in the spring of 1960 on Swan Island, an uninhabited speck ninety-seven miles off the Honduran coast.

RICHARD BISSELL

Radio Swan and the rest of the Cuban operation were under the command of one of the CIA’s most striking figures. Richard Bissell, chief of the agency’s covert operations. Standing over six feet tall, Bissell struck everyone as a dynamo of energy and ideas. An Ivy League economist and, later, government bureaucrat, he had never been a spy in his life but Allen Dulles sought him out in 1954 because he was known as a bureaucrat who actually got things done.

Bissell’s rise in the CIA was meteoric. Although he was not, like most in the agency’s hierarchy, a veteran of the OSS, he took to the craft of espionage like few others. The former academic showed no fear of taking risks; quite the contrary, the professor seemed to relish them. He had been the administrator in charge of the successful U-2 spy plane and the aura of the U-2’s success, combined with Bissell’s enormous energies and managerial skill, made Dulles think Bissell could run the CIA’s large-scale covert operations.

Bissell took the Cuban assignment with the same frenetic energy given to the building of spy planes, but quickly discovered the building of an underground movement would take longer than expected. “Their mission,” Bissell later recalled, “would have been to build a fairly professional underground such as existed in France under German occupation.” But the French underground’s enemy was a foreign occupying power; in Cuba, the opponent was a leader who was solidifying his position every day, building a large military force and a two-hundred-thousand-man militia with Soviet arms, making it much more difficult to overthrow him.

As Castro grew stronger, the CIA’s plan became larger and more varied. Much attention was focused on vari-

Introduction to Hatonn

1/13/92 #1 HATONN

I am Gyeogros Ceres Hatonn, Commander in Chief, Earth Project Transaction, Pleiades Sector Flight Command, Intergalactic Federation Fleet. You may call me Hatonn. I am in command service unto the ONE GOD of Lighted Creation, and as "Host" unto His people who will be brought into His places long prepared for you. My own "Captain" is Sananda, the Christed Being you have called by many names--now one totally with Creator/Creation. [Sananda: simply meaning of/with God]. We are not "mystical" nor even "mysteries" aliens. We are the "Hosts" sent in preparation for His return, bringers of Truth according to His promise and to reveal the lies foisted upon you to claim your souls for the physical evil Elite controllers. We come in total love and without intent of force, coercion or judgment. "Judging" is a state of evaluation of self in the presence of Creator in which actions in the physical experience are evaluated.

The information within the documents revealing Truth, THE PHOENIX JOURNALS and LIBERATOR, are the outlays of lies and hidden facts for which you can find confirmation. If you don't know the problems and the source of the problems, you can have no solutions.

I do not "channel"; I transmit on a frequency attuned to my "receiver" who is simply a translator of the pulses into English. This is true of all receivers who receive from any of this Command come forth with God for this transition of species and planet.

The receivers mostly have no reference for material given until after the giving and then, only for their own confirmation and yours. My petition is that you pay no attention to this resource if it is confusing and uncertain unto you--LET TRUTH STAND ALONE IN ITS PRESENTATION--THE REST WILL FOLLOW IN PROPER SEQUENCE.

uous schemes to undermine Castro's authority, or make him look ridiculous. The schemes were hatched by the CIA's spy lab, the Technical Services Division. One idea, designed to disrupt Castro's long-winded television speeches, was to spray the broadcasting studio with a poison. An LSD-like hallucinogenic drug. [H: Yes indeed, this is the same CIA and, actually, some of those same people who are fighting the "War on Drugs" and overthrowing foreign nations--like today, Peru. These people remain above the law and the law is totally controlled by them so you have no justice--just blatant miscarriage of justice. Plea-bargaining is typical--plead guilty to something you "didn't" do and you can get off for that which you "did" do. Is this "JUSTICE"? For instance, look at Keating, who was sentenced to ten years in prison--do you realize that Keating did NOTHING ILLEGAL? He was totally and completely immoral even if he did finally plead for leniency on the basis of being a "Godly Christian family man", but as to the actual "laws of the land"--he was totally within those laws. The Elite even helped him--remember the Senators and Representatives? It actually went all the way to the Governor of California and the Presidency. Keating simply "took the rap for the bigger fish who again got away and, furthermore, got away WITH ALL THE PROPERTY IN POINT--AND ARE NOW BUYING AND SELLING THROUGH THE KTC AT CENTS ON THE DOLLAR--YOU--THE PEOPLE ARE PICKING UP THE TAB.] Another plan was to inject a similar drug in a box of Castro's favorite Cuban cigars, and still another was to cause his beard to fall out by exposing him to a strong depilatory chemical. All of these comic plots were eventually abandoned, but they set a train of thought in motion: once the CIA began thinking about ways to make Castro's beard fall out, it was but a short step to their next question--why not kill him and solve the whole problem?

[H: Ah indeed, this Intelligence Service is made up of ones like Oliver North who can look like a cowering patriot with tears in his eyes at the mere mention of your flag and country while off the stand his book is being written FOR him; and he continues to LEAD the nation deeper into the black pit--using the name of Jesus, Christ and God all the way to the slaughter house. Do you ones not hear the messages? You were told just yesterday as a formal report that you were deceived and set-up in deceitful lies via the media in the Gulf War--and still you defend your ignorance like a banner of justice. THERE IS NO JUSTICE IN AMERICA ANY LONGER! So, where do you go from here? I suggest you get RIGHT with GOD because the future is bleak indeed!

By July of 1960, Allen Dulles and others were now wondering aloud about what would happen if Fidel, his brother, Raul, and Che Guevara all suddenly disappeared. The agency approved a payment of ten thousand dollars to a Cuban to arrange an "accident to neutralize" Raul. The attempt was never made. By mid-August the CIA had focused again on Castro's ubiquitous cigar; what had been fraternity house pranks dreamed up by the Technical Services people became serious; instead of soaking the cigars with LSD derivative to temporarily disorient Castro, the new plan called for dipping them with a deadly toxin that would kill Castro the minute he took a puff.

CIA HIRE THE MAFIA

However exotic these gambits, Richard Bissell was not satisfied. He wanted more options, more ways to get at Castro. The CIA now reached out in another direction, one that led to one of the most bizarre alliances in U.S. history: the agency went into business with the Mafia.

So, going back to that nice money we spoke about before? It had been flown out of Cuba aboard several planes the day before--all of it. Whatever the CIA might have thought of Castro, the president American mobsters who ran the casinos knew enough about Castro to realize that Cuba's casino business was about to end. Castro fully intended to take the money and secure the Cuban National Bank.

As with all intrigues a perceived convergence of interests was soon to occur: the CIA wanted to get rid of Castro; the agency assumed the American Mafia had their own grievances against Castro. The CIA's Director of the Office of Security, Colonel Sheffields Edwards, proposed that the CIA hire the Mafia to dispose of Castro. The CIA believed that the mob had the motivation and experience to get just such a nasty job done.

Edwards did not personally know of any gangsters, but he knew a man who did: Robert Maheu, an ex-FBI agent and occasional CIA asset. Maheu was chief aide to billionaire Howard Hughes and ran Hughes's operations in Las Vegas. Maheu agreed to help, and offered underworld figure Johnny Roselli $150,000 of the CIA's (yours) money to have Castro killed. Roselli, whose underworld connections dated all the way back to Al Capone, agreed to help. [H: I bet you didn't realize that you take out contracts and pay the criminals to do the jobs, did you?] According to Maheu, the deciding factor in Roselli's decision to cooperate was sudden surge of patriotism. "He said he felt that he had an obligation to his government," Maheu later recalled with a straight face, "and he finally agreed to participate."

Roselli, a small-time mobster, immediately informed his boss, Sam ("Momo") Giancana, the Mafia godfather of Chicago whose empire included Las Vegas. The involvement of Giancana was a serious mistake for the CIA, since he was the subject of an
The CIA first suggested a good old-fashioned gangland-style murder. Giancana, who had been behind bars some sixty-three times, declined the recommendation as too dangerous. Poison, Giancana argued, would be a much safer means of eliminating the Cuban leader. Soon a pattern emerged: various assassination attempts would be suggested or attempted, only to have Giancana regrettfully report that they had failed, for one reason or another.

It was a supreme con job, and Giancana played the game for more than a year. Meanwhile, Giancana would shout to puzzled FBI agents, "Hey, why don't you guys leave me alone? We're on the same side!" It was not long before the agents discovered what Giancana was up to, and J. Edgar Hoover prepared some of his famous masterfully prepared memos for the CIA, wondering if the agency was aware that a notorious Mafia leader was involved in an assassination plot against Fidel Castro.

Just how much specific knowledge Eisenhower had of this and other assassination activities remains unclear even today. Is it possible that the CIA would have carried out such an operation entirely on its own? It was the age of "plausible denial" and, as Allen Dulles and Richard Bissell had done, Kennedy briefing the President-elect on what was known as Operation Zapata. Bissell's classic underground World War II parachute drop operation against Castro had mushroomed. Now the plan looked more like a small version of the Normandy invasion.

The metamorphosis took place while Kennedy was still out on the campaign trail. During this time the CIA realized it had underestimated the strength of Castro's forces and overestimated the resistance to them. The few anti-Castro guerrillas still in Cuba, Bissell concluded, were starving in the mountains, with no experience or understanding in how to build an underground.

Cuba was not to be a repeat of the CIA's successful operation in Guatemala. The quicker recourse was rather large and noisy: an invasion force consisting of a small navy and air force, an army brigade of fifteen hundred Cuban exiles, and supporting roles provided by the CIA and the U.S. Navy.

The invasion plan called for the Navy to transport the brigade from Nicaragua to the shores of Cuba where a beachhead would be established and a new government proclaimed. As with the Normandy invasion, the key to success, the CIA planners realized, was controlling the skies. Sixteen World War II vintage B-26 bombers, flown by Cuban pilots from Guatemala, would strike first, without warning, to destroy Castro's planes on the ground. With the skies belonging to the rebels and a toehold firmly secured, the fifteen hundred exiles would then engage Castro's militia of two hundred thousand.

For the scheme to really work, there would have to follow very shortly an uprising by the Cubans throughout the island. The hope was to create, in Bissell's words, a "fluid situation." E. Howard Hunt, the CIA's political officer on Zapata, tells a different story. According to him, once the beachhead was secured, a provisional Cuban government (with Hunt as the U.S. representative) was to be flown in from Miami. Shortly thereafter, fifteen thousand U.S. Marines would come ashore in support of the new government.

Either way, the invasion operation was an extraordinary inheritance from Eisenhowe... planes suddenly carrying out bombing runs on Cuba would surely point the invading force might land with less noise, but now it had no options.

The guerrilla air force was another problem. A whole flock of the B-26's suddenly carrying out bombing runs on Cuba would Surely point in the event the invasion failed, the survivors to scatter into the beach, pounded by Castro's planes and brand-new Soviet artillery pieces, fought for three days before surrendering. Brigade 2506--named after the dog tag number of a recruit killed in a training accident--was crushed. Of its 1,500 men, 80 of them died fighting, 37 drowned, 48 escaped, and the rest surrendered, later to be ransomed for cash, medical supplies, and farm tractors. The CIA's air force suffered an equivalent disaster: 12 of the planes were shot down, with 14 killed, including 4 Alabama Air National Guard fliers who had formally "resigned" from the National Guard and were flying as civilian "volunteers".

At the CIA command post 1,200 miles away, appalled CIA officers listened to the radio messages that, like the pealing of a funeral bell, tolled disaster. Among them was David Atlee Phillips, who only a few years before had participated in the celebratory gathering at the White House after the Guatemala operation. There would be no such gathering after the Bay of Pigs.

As the radio messages came in, one of the men in the room scratched his wrists so nervously and absentmindedly that Phillips noticed that they began to bleed profusely. Another CIA man, a veteran of a tank battalion during World War II, vomited into a wastebasket. As the invasion crumbled and the radio messages began to die away, one of the last was from the brigade's military commander. Standing in the shallows, he said, "I'm throwing away my gear now. There's nothing left to fight with." He cursed the CIA. Then he cursed the United States.

AFTER THE BAY OF PIGS

"There's an old saying that victory has a hundred fathers and defeat is an orphan. I'm the responsible officer of the Government, and that is quite obvious." That was John Kennedy's public response to the Bay of Pigs. In private, Kennedy confided in his brother: how could they all have been so wrong--the CIA, the Pentagon, and his most trusted advisers? And how could he have been so utterly stupid? His instincts had warned him: he had simply failed to listen.

In the wreckage of Operation Zapata, Kennedy eased Allen Dulles into retirement. Richard Bissell followed shortly after, in February 1962. A quarter of a century later, Bissell recalled Kennedy's anger as rather mild, given the magnitude of the failure: "There was no Pettiness in the reaction. Privately he spoke about cutting the agency down to size, but in the end really nothing was done."

The White House bitterness over the failure of the Bay of Pigs, however, would run deep for a long time to come. There was already, as one White House staffer noted, a mood of revenge in the air. Richard Bissell, in his last few months at the CIA, was called in on the White House carpet, remembered one agency official, and "chewed out in the Cabinet Room of the White House by both the President and the Attorney General, for, as he put it, sitting on his ass and not doing anything about getting rid of Castro and the Castro regime."

Getting rid of Castro, Bobby Kennedy announced, was "the top priority in the U.S. government--all else is secondary. No time, money, effort, or manpower is to be spared." As Defense Secretary Robert McNamara later put it, "We were hysterical about Castro at the time of the Bay of Pigs and thereafter." Just what the alternative, the possible "third force" to replace Castro, might be, no one seemed to know, or care. [H:If you have been paying attention--YOU KNOW! The effort now had little to do with geopolitical issues; Castro, the man, was the target.

OPERATION MONGOOSE

The response to the White House pressure was a major CIA covert program, Operation Mongoose, managed by a new set of players. President Kennedy considered installing his brother Bobby as CIA Director following the Bay of Pigs, but political expediency led to the choice of an outsider, John McCone, a wealthy Republican industrialist. McCone was named director, but Bobby was given free rein to oversee Mongoose out of the Attorney General's office. Despite their differences in politics and age, the two men came to be close allies. "Mongoose was a program of infiltrations of annoying, but not strategic matters," was McCone's assessment. "It was really operated under Bobby Kennedy. We had no problems whatsoever."

McCone may have had no problems, but not so his new Deputy Director of Plans, Richard Helms, who had been in the spying trade since the OSS days of World War II. He had been Bissell's deputy director of co vert operations, and had now moved up to replace him as the chief of covert operations. Helms had carefully kept his distance from Zapata; as other CIA officers were to note admiringly, there was not a single piece of paper in connection with the operation that contained Helms' name. Now he was charged with winning back Cuba and the agency's reputation. As Helms later put it, "We wanted to earn our spurs with the President."

The CIA had not yet earned its spurs, but Bobby Kennedy was goading Helms with constant demands to do something about Castro. "Bobby Kennedy," Helms later recalled, "was very hands on in this period. He was the one who had the whip in hand."

General Edward Lansdale, a veteran of counterinsurgency operations in the Philippines and Vietnam, was brought in to coordinate the interdepartmental effort of State, Defense, and CIA, a task which, as Lansdale described it, was to "put the American genius to work, quickly and effectively". Like Bissell before him, Lansdale’s original plan called for building up internal Cuban resistance to Castro, but just as Bissell experienced, White house pressure and impatience, combined with the slow process of building a viable underground network (plus the CIA's inherent preference for boom and bang operations), soon turned the operation, once again, into a paramilitary campaign.

Operation Mongoose became a full-court press of covert action designed to destabilize, then destroy, the Castro regime. Mongoose included no outright invasion, but just about everything short of that: hit-and-run raids by Cuban exiles against Cuban economic targets, propaganda broadcasts, and infiltration of small teams of guerrillas, Soon Miami was the largest CIA station in the world. The unit, called Task Force W, was supported by at least two hundred CIA officers and two thousand Cuban exiles.

CUBAN MISSILE CRISIS

Mongoose came to an abrupt, if temporary, halt in October 1962 with the Cuban missile crisis. The analytic branch of the CIA had previously all but discounted the possibility of Soviet nuclear missiles based in Cuba, believing that Khrushchev could not be so foolishly. But the Soviet hopes for success rested on just such a surprise; the missiles would have to be operational before being discovered, when the United States would have no option but to live with them. But Bissell's favorite project, the high-flying U-2 spy plane, grounded for over a year from flights over the Soviet Union following the shooting down of Francis Gary Powers, was over San Cristobal near Havana on October 14, 1962, and brought back photographic evidence of construction of missile sites. The CIA intelligence-gathering and analysis provided to Kennedy and his advisers over the next two weeks proved critical to a peaceful resolution of the nuclear crisis. Nearly twenty years after the sneak assault on Pearl Harbor, the intelligence apparatus set up to give forewarning of any similar surprise attack accomplished its mission. It was the CIA's finest hour.

The crisis was resolved when Khrushchev agreed to remove the missiles, while Kennedy privately guaranteed to dismantle aging Jupiter missiles in Turkey. Kennedy also promised there would be no invasion of Cuba, but the highly secret CIA assassination efforts, put on hold prior to the Cuban invasion, had already been reactivated. In April 1962 the CIA was back in touch with their old acquaintances, Roselli and Giancana. But the new plot dissolved in opera bouffe, caused mostly by a little problem of the heart.

In October 1960 MounoU Giancana was a busy but jealous man. On the CIA payroll while still running the Chicago Mafia, he heard rumors that his Las Vegas girlfriend, singer Phyllis McGuire, was having an affair with comedian Dan Rowan. Giancana, in a fit of jealousy, demanded of Maheu that something be done. Maheu, once again the CIA's contact man with the Mafia, conspired Giancana by agreeing to find proof of the infidelity. Maheu hired a private detective to bug the trysting site. But the job was botched; the technician was arrested and the FBI notified. The private detective was not about to take the rap alone, and revealed to F-B-I agents that he had been hired by Maheu. In turn, Maheu admitted the Giancana connection and urged the CIA to quash any prosecution for fear that the Castro assassination plot would be revealed.

With that move, J. Edgar Hoover was provided with everything he needed to know. He could scarcely believe all that had suddenly fallen into his lap: the CIA, which he still considered a hated rival, was back in business with the Mafia, and was again trying to assassinate Fidel Castro. But there was more. His agents, in surveilling Giancana, discovered that among his other mistresses was one Judith Campbell—who also happened to be involved in a relationship with President Kennedy, as the agents found out by trailing her to the White House. A check into White House telephone records showed that Kennedy called her often.

HOOVER BLACKMAILS JFK

A man who recognized opportunity and knew what to do with it, Hoover had a quiet, private luncheon with Kennedy, during which he outlined the Giancana-CIA-Campbell-Kennedy connection. No record exists of what was said, but Hoover’s modus operandi would have been to inform the President of the delicate matter and vow his “discretion”. In other words, Hoover was now privy to the kind of information that would make him politically inviolable so long as Kennedy was in office; any rumors of the Kennedy’s seeking a new FBI chief would end immediately.

White House telephone logs show that the last of some seventy phone conversations between Kennedy and Judith Campbell occurred just a few hours after the meeting with Hoover.

But the assassination plots went on. Giancana, hoping his role in the attempts to kill Castro would win him Justice Department forgiveness on racketeering charges, told the CIA that the Mafia knew a cook at one of Castro’s favorite Havana restaurants. The cook, Giancana claimed, would be willing to slip some form of liquid poison into Castro’s soup. The CIA prepared a liquid toxin, but then Giancana stalled further, claiming that the cook was getting cold feet.

Meanwhile, the CIA’s Technical Services Division was pursuing a second track. Having struck out with the toxins, the spy lab began tinkering with new ideas. One scheme called for arming a seashell with a powerful bomb, which would explode when Castro was underwater at his favorite scuba-diving site. The lethal seashell was never built. A second plan called for using attorney James Donovan as an unwitting assassin. The former OSS agent had recently negotiated the exchange of convicted KGB agent Rudolf Abel and U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, and was negotiating with Castro for the release of the more than eleven hundred Cuban exiles captured at the Bay of Pigs. The CIA plan called for Donovan to unknowingly deliver a contaminated diving suit to Castro as a present. Loaded with fungus and pathogenic tubercle bacillus, the suit would have given the Cuban leader a nasty skin disorder and a fatal lung disease.

[H: Let's see now, that was in or around 1960 and this is 1992—over thirty years ago—do you think the ideas are not more sophisticated now? The head “Evil Mind” is your King assisted and instructed by the Evil King of the Global Elite—and he was birthed and trained in Skull and Bones and CIA.] The little fungus plot failed only because Donovan, in his ignorance, bought his own, uncontaminated diving suit as a genuine gift to offer Castro.

The most important CIA asset in the assassination plots was a high-ranking Cuban official, Rolando Cubela, code-named AM/Lash. He was particularly anxious to get his hands on grenades and a high-powered rifle with telescopic sights. Cubela was later offered a ballpoint pen rigged with a hypodermic needle so small “that the victim would not notice its insertion.” On November 22, 1963, the CIA handed the poison pen over to AM/Lash. That same day, John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas.

Richard Bissell by now had lost his enthusiasm for assassination in the quarter century since he had first become involved in such games: “I think I, for one, placed too much reliance on the ability to keep things like that permanently secret after the event, but even aside from that pragmatic consideration, I think it was a mistake. I just think assassination is a weapon to be employed by a government entity only in very, very few situations, if any.” Richard Helms, when he took over Bissell’s job, dismissed the assassination plots hatched in his department as “crazy schemes”. As for the CIA’s connections with the Mafia, Helms continued to keep his distance, knowing that much of the truth was buried when Giancana was killed. Giancana, by the way, was shot seven times in the throat while preparing breakfast in his Chicago kitchen in June 1975. Roselli was hacked to pieces, stuffed inside an oil drum, and dropped into the sea near Miami in July 1976. Both men had been too friendly with the government for the mob’s liking [H: or just the opposite. For the thugs are now running your United States Govern-

The Arián (French) rockets just launched yesterday carried American (U.N. paid for by Americans) "stuff" and are the most important launches this century. When I tell you things (U.N.--paid for by Americans) "stuff" launched yesterday carried American money, you should realize that this is the most important thing that has happened in the last century.

Has the CIA ever assassinated, directly, a foreign leader? Well, of course, but the most notorious leader assassinated by the CIA remains J. F. Kennedy. The American plots against him were openly recognized to be a "damned Murder, Inc. in the Caribbean". But by then, the Kennedy name was changed to protect the guilty.

I must tell you readers that Dharma is about to end her emotional rope and what is happening is far more important to the American people than any other court rulings in this nation in a long, long time.

These friends were just Railroaded through court again and if $215,000 is not available (in cash) by May 5--it's over. There is hope of overriding the Judge but there is no way to count on it. The Judge deliberately overrode all law and openly played ball hand in hand with the Resolution Trust Corporation and stated flatly in court that any rip-off of people by fraudulent property exchanges was not going to be even "heard". He, further, wanted to "make law" in this case (as he is retiring as of May 1st) and wants to leave an impact on the law books. He has made law of a "doctrine" which, if allowed to stand in the court, will impact and take property from hundreds of thousands of Americans who will enter the court system as unemployement climbs and those already in any kind of foreclosure litigation.

I am hereby telling Dharma that if this ruling of yesterday cannot be stayed, she will be stopping writing, for at least May, to give her a chance to move and regain some balance. This has gone on for over four hard tightwire walking years and I shall not ask more of her for the case itself will go right on to the Supreme Court. As of today--it is back "prior" to the original unlawful detainer with $215,000 tender and judgment against these ones. Every asset at this time has been poured forth into projects and publishing.

I do have one offer--the property, with this tender arrangement, will become solely owned by them and turned over to the Phoenix Institute or placed into another ownership position for security, by me. Therefore, if you wish to take this property as collateral, it can be considered as a last minute stalling procedure.

Our attorneys must go through every step of this procedure because the Constitutional Law Center must have this capability and this "law" must be overturned or it becomes the law of the land for it is already being deliberately utilized by the RTC in thousands of cases. It is called the Doench Duhmè Doctrine and denies any property "owner" any recourse within the courts and honors ANY KIND OF SALE, PRETENDED OR OTHERWISE, BY THE S&Ls, BANKS, FORECLOSURE, ETC. Being aghast in the courtroom and saying "I simply can't believe this is happening" no longer cuts it, chelas--there is NO justice in the system--NONE! Everything is now geared to glean (take by confiscation) every asset you think you own. They will do it to you through unpaid taxes (they will raise them until you cannot pay them) and illegal means. This actually gives all mortgage holders the oppurnity to file the deed and take title, go through eviction and then the courts will refuse to hear circumstances. IF YOU AREN'T SCARED--THEN YOU ARE DEAD. This factor will slop over onto and into EVERY TYPE OF PROPERTY DISPUTE TO COME, FROM AUTOMOBILES TO CREDIT CARD PURCHASES BEFORE THEY ARE DONE WITH IT. YOU HAVE NO CONSTITUTIONAL LAW--ALL OF THESE LAWS ARE BEING MADE THROUGH FIXED COURT RULINGS AND TO FIGHT NOW REQUIRES THOUSANDS AND THOUSANDS MORE DOLLARS TO ASK FOR AN APPEAL.

Dharma and Oberli will continue as long as they can but they cannot with this incredible load of everything else involved and I shall not ask them to do so.

We shall write as much as we can in the next week and evaluate the situation while seeing what can be legal recourse but I must inform you readers of possibilities for if I cannot write the paper--THERE WILL BE NO PAPER. This is not for fill-in and fill-up by other writers and will never be treated as such. IF "I" AM STOPPED AT THIS POINT OVER THINGS OF THIS TYPE, THEN ALL IS SHUT DOWN BECAUSE IT INDICATES THAT OUR WORK IS NOT OF ADEQUATE VALUE TO YOU ONES AND I MUST KNOW IF THAT BE TRUE.

OURS IS TO GET THE WORD OUT AND WE HAVE DONE IT TO THIS POINT--AND THE VERY BEST LIES AHEAD, BUT MAN MUST MAKE SOME DECISIONS ALSO AS TO WHERE WE GO FROM HERE.

Indexes?

4/16/92 #1 HATONN

I MUST have some sort of index system. Every day now, the inquiries and frantic doubts and requests for input are showing up. I WILL NOT TAKE TIME TO CAUSE DHARMA TO REPEAT THE LESSONS. I NEED INFORMATION ON NATIVE AMERICANS, I NEED INFORMATION ON "I AM" AND I REALLY NEED INFORMATION ON VARIOUS TOPICS OF RELIGIONS. I CANNOT just announce that "you must go back and read three years of papers and 56 Journals. I am not, further, going to keep up with them nor do the index for you.

Political Status

4/16 92 #1 HATONN

What do I, Hatonn, REALLY think about elections, etc.? I am asked this over and over and over again--"But, what do you REALLY think?" I have told you what I "really" think--I do not like your politics and have no business in them. What I really think will not make you happy. Certain ones are being groomed and made public for your attention--so that there will be ones to lead you back into a stable government AFTER THE COLLAPSE.
PERU: An Excellent Example

You are not getting the story of Peru unless you are watching something other than the nightly news. What is under way in Peru is not what they tell you.

The CIA has been stirring and churning until Peru is in total collapse. The President did exactly what must be done with your Nation by a Man strong enough to stand--change through Executive Order and Power. You see, you don't longer operate under the Constitution, anyway--you operate totally under the Newstates U.N. Constitution

You are told that the President of Peru took military control of the Government and tabled the constitution. Yes, he did--by Executive Order because the Constitution of Peru had been corrupted and cast aside by the corrupt politicians and drug traders (the largest receiver being the United States of America through fixed and protected trade). Peru is the largest producer of coca.

The President took control, fired the Congress and corrupted officials and is bringing the banks into order. The nation is in the billions of dollars in default to the Elite bankers and the nation bankrupt and devastated.

The PEOPLE OF PERU are all behind the actions but still the United Nations through the Organization of American States is demanding that the United States initiate embargoes, sanctions and generally get into a war to "restore the rotten rapers in their unholly alliance--right through and including the drug trade."

This is what your CIA does these days for entertainment--destroy nations and you-the-people!

You have now seen it in action against Libya and, one after another, the nations will rapidly come into compliance or be wiped out. The runners of the International Monetary Fund are now coming forth to present their fluff and pillage plans for restructuring the world--I suggest you watch that Cable Network and listen with the information we have given you and you will need no "inside informers" to fill out the blanks. In fact, I weary of "inside informers" who have no more information, and not as valid, as my own crew even if I do not speak of the matters in point. I am also weary of being "set-up" by egotistical people putting traps in my path and the thrust to discount for political means is most annoying, indeed. I suggest if the shoes fit--wear them.

I do not want you to be so enthralled with "new" and "hidden" news so you can be "first to know" that you act in foolishness. There were great rumors that "the airports were put under control to travel" yesterday. YOUR AIRPORTS HAVE BEEN UNDER TOTAL CONTROL FOR MONTHS! Stop this James Bonding because you have enough clues to keep you busy. The stock market is on its rise and remember what we have told you the plans were at about 3500 to 3600 points. The entire world teeters on disaster and being held to keep control as this is the big year of beginning to bring total control on the global community. And moreover--YOU ARE ALREADY AT WAR IN YOUR CONSIDERED "SPACE". THIS IS NOT WITH SPACE COMMAND--THAT IS BEING SAVED TO FINALLY UNITE YOU ALL INTO A STUPID CONFRONTATION WHICH WILL START ALL-OUT-WAR--ON YOUR PLACE--NOT OURS!

I remind you of what I told you: If you are not of God's lighted intentions--you have hostile aliens. If you are of God, you have nothing to fear. At either point--the ones to fear are NOT ALIENS BUT THE DARK FORCES PINNED TO YOUR PLANET AND NOW PLAYING POLITICS WITH YOUR VERY EXISTENCE. I CAN ONLY THANK THESE NIT-WITS FOR MANUFACTURING US AN ARMY, FOR GOD CAN GET ANY ALIEN FORCE ON HIS SIDE IN THE MERE BLINKING OF AN EYELID. IF YOU ARE OF EVIL INTENT AND STILL THINK

PACKAGED IN A WHOLE BUNDLE OF PAPERS AND 56 JOURNALS. IF YOU HAVE ONLY READ SOME 3 TO 20 YOU SIMPLY DO NOT HAVE IT ALL AND, IN EVERY INSTANCE THUS FAR, THE INQUIRIES ARE ALL ANSWERED WITHIN THOSE PAGES. I'M SORRY, PRECIOUS FRIENDS, I KNOW NOT WHAT ELSE TO OFFER. IF I REPEAT AND REPEAT--WE ARE BADGERED AND DENOUNCED BY THE ONES HAVING ALL THE INFORMATION--MINE IS TO BRING THE WORD AND I CAN DO NO MORE WITH THAT WORD EXCEPT OFFER INSIGHT AS YOU ASK FOR IT WHILE PARTAKING OF THE INFORMATION.

We do not write the JOURNALS nor the paper to suit the editorial needs of Man or Man's ego. We do not jump hoops to please the grammatical engineers nor sell anything. We are bringing you openly--and as quickly as possible--Truth so that you can know, change and have instructions as you ask for input. Those who pound on us would but stop you from having access to the abundance as promised by God through the Hosts come to bring you home. If the Intelligence community desires information--I suggest you go get it through your own channels for I am weary of you copying ours and calling it "undercover information". It is not "undercover" for, as with all things of God, it is open for all and not personal gain. I welcome all utilization of the information for it is presented FOR ALL. If your work be worthy of inclusion we shall do so, but you will never threaten nor coerce us to utilize one word through those manners except to make a negative point.

Let us take respite and get on with pertinent information. We shall effort to get to correspondence this afternoon since the court dangles. We must utilize all possible space and time to allow printing for as long as possible through this barrage of legal entanglements. Thank you.

More On Peru

hundreds of others--but, you still insist so here goes:

The Fujimori government in Peru ushered in March with a killer tax package intended to raise government revenues for foreign debt repayment. The "tax shock", as it was dubbed by Peruvians, was ordered by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and designed to put the heaviest burden on the poor, already ravaged by unemployment, malnutrition, and diseases like cholera. Prices of basic foods like rice, eggs, and beef shot up by 20-30% in one day, as did telephone, electricity, and water costs. Peru's "critically poor" were spending up to 67% of their budget on food; that has now increased by an average of 12-15%!

Nearly every sector of the population reacted with irate fury. The business daily Gestion reported March 3 that, "as a result of the latest tax measures, the trade unions and businesses are recovering the unity they had lost, preparing themselves for a greater opposition role." The national associations of industries, textiles, mining, and exports all took out newspaper ads to demand the taxes be rescinded with exporters' association head Eduardo McBride charging "The government has made a bad deal with the IMF in accepting their demand for new tax measures". A spokesman for the national merchants association compared the measures to "squeezing the last vital juices from the dying".

Think it can't happen in America? It has happened all over your world! Where DO YOU THINK YOU GET MONEY FOR ALL THE AID, ETC.? Your taxes do not even pay the full interest on all the money borrowed from this "World Bank" with all its fingers, namely the most notorious in the U.S., the Federal Reserve (a private operation of the Committee of 300 in Switzerland). The Peruvian government continued the cover lies outright in claiming the new revenue would go to social needs: "for this year, investment in health, etc."

The IMF handed President Alberto Fujimori and Finance Minister Carlos Bolognina a list of demands which "made it quite clear that IMF director Michel Camdessus' demand for raising the tax pressure to 18% of GNP was not mere advice, but an order that the Peruvian government has now begun to implement. But the facts shook out that, even with following of the demands no dent could be made in the debt and immediately the corruption became even more evident. Then the U.S. got into the issue as talk was made regarding clamping down on the drug trade to help cover some of the costs implicated.

A few days into the plan the Congress in all its corruption began to demand suspension of many of the measures. So, then came the pledge to make up the losses in tax revenue by selling off must of Peru's state companies and using that money to pay the IMF and the bankers. Next came the threat for the "hopeful" that former President Alan Garcia, who had denounced the tax shock, would lead them against the IMF. Ah, but if you look, President Carlos Andres Perez in Venezuela is also in the bash bucket and he was known as Garcia's best buddy.

There simply came to be no alternative than to take the action taken this past week in Peru. And, you are headed there as on greased skids, precious ones.

Legal Abortions

4/16/92 #2 HATONN

What do I think of abortion? How is it still ask such a question? "Thou shall not kill!" But, as important for you is what the "World Bank" now demands. As of the end of January, 1992, the World Bank informed all Third World countries it will demand that abortion be legalized and made a top priority in health programs in their countries--because health and hospital costs for births are killing the budgets.

Bank officials expressed horror at the number of babies being birthed in Central America, as a for instance, as African nations already have rules for AID packages, and demanded the numbers be cut drastically and/or stopped completely. The alternative for the nations in point? NO ASSISTANCE NO LOANS AND NO AID PACKAGES. TAKE YOUR CHOICE!

Banco Nazionale de Lavoro

Some of you have objected to my mentioning Kissinger's involvement with everything, even to the Banco Nazionale de Lavoro, along with Bush and other brush. I'm sorry, "facts is facts and pigs is pigs".

Remember Larry Eagleburger, your Deputy Secretary of State? Well, Lar is also a "Kissinger Associates" associate. He was instrumental in a $1 BILLION program for Iraq in 1989 and, while Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs in 1983, had written to Export-Import Bank Chairman William Draper III urging him to open its program to Iraq. Gonzales of Texas has related all of this right to how then-Vice President Bush had pressured Draper to finance an Iraqi oil pipeline.

WE WARNED YOU--FEW LISTENED AND NO ONE STOPPED IT!

The United Nations has long had contingency plans for an invasion of South Africa for the purpose of overthrowing the standing Government. Now, the lies in the formula for power-sharing with the Blacks include plans for disarming the military (old story repeated again and again and ready to take shape in preparation for the downfall. In January came the formation of a steering committee to work on the composition of South Africa's new government. The committee was formed during the UN Meeting of Consultation with Anti-Apartheid Movements and Non-governmental Organizations, which was held in Geneva on November 4-5, 1991.

It is heavily dominated by ANC-South African Communist Party (SACP) adherents, and the draft agreement would destroy the power base of President F.W. de Klerk's National Party (NP) government and neutralize any White resistance.

South Africa is to be disarmed and, under the UN agreement, the nation's potent military forces will be confined to barracks under UN supervision, and police will be disarmed completely. UN peacekeeping forces will be put in place, but likely will be able to do little more than monitor rampaging gangs sent out by the ANC to attack Inkatha strongholds.

Inkatha is the main Black political opponent of the ANC and tends to consist of Zulus, whereas the ANC tends to consist of Xhosas. The Zulus and Xhosas are ancient enemy tribes and it is quite suitable that they kill off as many of each other as possible for world show-and-tell. As the rules are enforced it also gives ample reason for total disarming of the populace.

Now we are getting to the point, however, of the operation: the transitional South African authority also will demand access to the national treasury.

The transitional authority will have jurisdiction over all security forces and matters. This means the South African military must be confined to barracks and that the police must be disarmed with law and order maintained by the unarmed police force, the cooperating civic associations and the participation of the international community.

THE POINT, OF COURSE, IS FOR THE ELITE BRITISH BANKERS AND NEW WORLD ORDER UNDER THE BRITISH TO GAIN FULL AND TOTAL CONTROL OF ALL AFRICAN WEALTH, MINERALS AND ASSETS, THE MOST ABUNDANT ACQUISITION IN POINT BEING "GOLD"--remember--"gain control of the gold and you gain control of the world!" (Protocols of Zion).

You can find the entire plan laid forth in the long-secret study entitled Apartheid and United Nations Collective Measures: An Analysis, leaked publicly as far back as 1985. The outcry was simply drafting the military of various countries to topple South Africa's sovereign government. This document was mandated by the Committee of 300 and presented and is widely known in the internationalist circles that make up the Council on Foreign Relations, the Bilderbergs and their sundry allies, and even detailed the type of casualties that could be expected during a UN seizure of power in Johannesburg.

Although it appears there is recent rejection by the NP government of some aspects of the UN-approved transitional plan there is no doubt regarding the outcome of the Communist-dominated ANC plan.

This will undoubtedly erupt into open war in some instances and in others a total collapse of the system--AFTER A RISE IN GOLD PRICES AND THE APPEARANCE OF RECOVERY. This action is simply the reality of the long-planned-for UN takeover of that country as envisioned by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Bush and Right-To-Life

Sorry, you misled lambs. When Bush claims to be anti abortion it is simply more nonsense. Bush is one of the major projectors of getting rid of all persons not selected to be in the 550 MILLION people by year 2000 and certainly not later than 2012. Bush has always pushed control of population as if in total obsession; in fact, because of Bush's obsession with world birth control (WHY EVEN MENTION IT?) Bush got dubbed in Congress with a nickname of "Rubbers".

Don't worry about contraceptives, people, they now have more miserable means of enforcing population control and the total "lower order" as referenced are to be annihilated--simply and surely through the New World Order at the hands of the controlled United Nations troops under the direction of the Communist anti Christ who call themselves "atheists".

Behind all of this you also have the National Security Adviser and Mormon representative to the Elite 300, Brent Scowcroft, and the Deputy Secretary of State, Eagleburger, all of whom came from Henry Kissinger's stable (known as Kissinger Associates) which, incidentally, has had more influence with foreign potentates and ambassadors...than even the State Department. Kissinger is, titlewise, silent, but lurks in every detail of power. Not liking what I say will not change an iota of the truth of it.

Superpower Evil-Empire

Soviet Union? No--nice little partner of Bush, Red China.

While the focus is on the so-called "evil empire" called the Soviet Union, once described by Reagan as "an evil empire", most of you don't note the emergence of the "true evil empire" of the 1990's, the so-called People's Republic of China. And, furthermore, this IS the China as projected by the Prophets and prophecies.

Red China, which maintains the largest military force on Earth, is rapidly bringing the technology of its armed forces completely up to date and into being out in the game. While you are sold a bill of goods and the lie that the U.S. is the only remaining "superpower", YOU ARE GOING TO BE HACKED TO THE BARE BONES.

In the United States, while Kissinger Associates and Bush interests get full attention in China and in the United States and the buildup of the Red Chinese military gets scant attention, President George Bush maintains an active love affair with the Red Chinese. You must be aware that Bush family has extensive and great investments in that nation.

Nevertheless, the fact is that Red China replaces the accepted place of the Soviet Union and here, you see, only the names are changed to protect the guilty. Remember that the Khazars are Mongol (Chinese), Russian (Rus) and Nordic by lineage so it is only a greater home-coming and reuniting.

Meanwhile, China is becoming powerful with all sorts of wondrous weapons and technology being handed over from the United States and other highly industrialized nations of the West. There is no problem in labor for there is a tremendously large slave labor force already in place.

The Bush Administration with allowance by Congress, HAS EXTENDED MOST FAVORED NATION (MFN) trading status to the Red Chinese.

STRANGE NEW RULES IN SECRET

Under the law (Jackson-Vanik Act) MFN status can only be extended to nations allowing the free emigration of their people. Red China has no such policy of free emigration, holding its people virtual prisoners behind the Bamboo Curtain.

The Bush administration is also turning its back on the Red Chinese use of slave labor to produce goods for export, which has resulted in a current $13 BILLION trade imbalance for the American nation, not to mention the loss of thousands of jobs by U.S. workers. It is a violation, in addition, of U.S. law to allow the importation of such goods as produced by this slave labor.

Lie of Saudi-Israeli Back-Turning

Publicly, Saudi Arabia turns its back on Israel and claims it to be an "illegal entity" with a shameful record. But in secret in and under the dark covers of deceit, secret agents, middlemen and money movers from the two nations have been working together for decades on clandestine arms deals, political payoffs and bank scams that cost U.S. taxpayers billions of dollars. "No way," you say? Read on.

A Federal Grand Jury in March issued joint indictments against Saudi billionaire Gaith Pharaon and Miami banker David Paul. Paul has been known for years as the unofficial financier of Florida-based operations run by the Mossad, Israel's secret service. Pharaon has long been regarded as a front man and fixer for the Saudi ruling family.

Billion-Dollar Bank Scam

The billion-dollar bank fraud allegedly set up by the Arab power broker and the pro-Israeli thrift banker was built around phony securities deals masterminded by Milken, the 35-page Miami indictment charges (but Milken is in line for release of charges in May or June). Worse, though totally and completely immoral as his actions were and are—HE DID NOT BREAK ANY LAWS OF THE STATE—Milken's involvement has turned the Miami indictment into a time bomb for the Bush Administration but I'm sure they will find some good judges to overrule any LAW which might point a finger at any of them.

By the way, E.J., get a thorough and detailed "title" check on the property in question in your war. You see, the RTC is the ONLY way the bastard criminals could overrun the system of checks and balances because Santa Barbara Savings did not have right to title under ANY circumstances and that is why the auctioneers COULDN'T HOLD the sale with you ones there present to bid on it. The investment had been sold to third parties, one of which is Home Federal and another, Salomon Brothers. There is no Savings and Loan Association left unscathed by the termites and vipers.

Milken, the erstwhile Wall Street wizard is serving "time" in a federal Club-Fed for a different set of stock swindles but you can't keep "a good man down"! A campaign driven by some of the Eastern Establishment's top figures, including lawyer Arthur Liman, media mogul Sten Ross and Sen Alfonse D- Amato, is under way to "settle" the Milken affair and get him released.

The amount demanded for that release is around $900 million but would leave the Milken household among the richest families in the U.S., with assets not held in secret accounts of between $500 million and $1 billion. This is piddling because this represents only a tiny fraction of actual holding.

When the Miami indictment was unsealed in early March, the deal hit a bit of a snag to get release because, within days, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp, (FDIC) had accused Milken and Drexel Burnham of looting $12 billion from the nation's troubled S&L's. As happens to all

Please see SCAM, next page
But could Milken’s powerful allies deal with the threats raised by such an indictment? Could they cover up this explosive new scandal? Of course.

The Establishment media, led by the Washington Post, the New York Times and the wire services, simply refused to acknowledge the information and/or the bombshell and all stories were ordered “buried”. Meanwhile the network of “big boys” went to Air Force aircraft whose existence has been kept a closely guarded secret, although there has been much speculation about them since March 1991, with several reports of “black” aircraft being spotted in daylight hours. But these have been largely discounted by my sources, who believe that, thus far, “black” aircraft are operating strictly at night and always in the company of other aircraft.

Intelligence reports just received say that a “black” aircraft was “seen” flying with F-117 Stealth fighters and KC-135Q midair refueling tankers close to Beale Air Force Base near Sacramento, California, giving rise to speculation that the plane (or planes) could possibly be stationed there. The KC-135Qs are thought to fly with “black” aircraft to muffle the plane’s distinctive deep, low rumbling engine sound.

Similar activity has also been observed near Tonopah, Nevada, home of the F-117. The paint patterns on the F-117’s appear to match those on aircraft such as T-38’s stationed at Beale, giving rise to speculation that “black” aircraft may also be stationed at Tonopah, but this has not yet been confirmed by any “sightings”.

What alerted observers at Beale to the presence of a “black” aircraft was the light patterns it displayed. The first sightings were made on February 21st and on February 28th, 1992. Intelligence sources of mine first mentioned “black” aircraft as actually flying in March 1991, but now, for the very first time, this observer saw what he believed was a “black” aircraft in the early evening of February 25th, 1992, and the aircraft was again observed through its distinctive navigation lights pattern on the following evening. This occurred near Edwards Air Force Base over Mojave.

The several sightings near Beale AFB reported by my sources came as three KC-135Q air refueling tankers took off from Beale at night, and were joined by an aircraft bearing a diamond-shaped lighting pattern. In flight the strange aircraft would extinguish all of its lights, then switch them on, join the tankers in a close formation pattern, after which its lights would again be extinguished.

The interesting thing about the “black” aircraft’s navigation lights were that, while they appeared to be a good deal brighter than normal aircraft navigation lights, they did not illuminate the body of the plane, which was totally invisible. On February 26 at around 9:30pm PST, observers reported seeing two T-38 Talon aircraft flying near Beale AFB with full landing lights on. They appeared to be escorting a third plane in between them and, although the middle aircraft bore no lights, its presence was detected through its distinctive engine noise, not totally masked by the T-38’s.

At approximately 3 miles from Beale AFB, the unknown plane with its very distinctive, unmistakable low rumble, turned on its bright navigation lights, displaying a diamond-shaped pattern, which did not, however, illuminate its bodywork. Thus the aircraft could not be observed in the landing pattern, as it stayed out of the landing lights of its T-38 escorts.

The significance of the T-38’s seen with the unknown plane is that they are the favorites of former SR-71 (Blackbird) pilots, who use it extensively to keep their flying skills and proficiency sharp. When the SR-71’s were stationed at Beale AFB, there was a great deal of activity involving T-38’s but since the majority of SR-71’s were phased out there hasn’t been nearly as much T-38 activity as there used to be. However, observers report that there is now much more T-38 activity, since late February 1992, than there was for the prior 9 months.

By flying with its lights out and in formation with KC-135 tankers, the aircraft would not have been seen by untrained observers, its low rumble blocked out by the loud roar of the tankers flying with it. There appears to be no doubt that “black” planes are now stationed at Beale AFB.

There are many “black” technologies in use, but most of them remain highly classified and, as Defense Secretary Cheney said on February 17th, “The need to maintain a qualitative edge over potential adversaries always takes precedence over economic issues.” However, this secrecy may cost the United States dearly in the commercial field as it is well known that both Japan and Germany are scrambling to bring “black” technology to commercial use, and if these countries are successful, then the U.S. will take third place in world markets.

Common sense should prevail and “black” technology that can be released for commercial applications without hurting our national security ought to be released forthwith to provide a much needed shot in the arm for our failing economy. But with election politics in full swing, it would appear doubtful the spooks will be able to hold things back for much longer, especially if the Japanese just happen to announce one of their near-success experiments utilizing “black” technology before we do. What an embarrassment that would be for President Bush.
How Bush Conducts “The War On Drugs”

4/16/92 Dr. John Coleman

Events in Peru came to a swift climax on April 5th with President Alberto Fujimori’s declaration suspending the country’s constitution and his announcement that he will step up the ongoing REAL WAR against the Peruvian cocaine barons. President Fujimori’s actions reverberated through the Committee of 300 halls of power and President Bush was ordered by the Royal Institute for International Affairs (RIIA) to take immediate action against Fujimori.

Never one to be dilatory when it comes to carrying out Committee of 300 orders, without losing a beat, President Bush ordered all U.S. foreign aid and military aid to Peru suspended, for what the State Department called “Fujimori’s suspension of democracy”.

What is the truth about events in Peru that have so shocked the cocaine barons and the Committee of 300 and caused them to so rapidly rally to the aid of the cocaine barons?

We have to go back to the statement made by Citihank Chairman John Reed in July of 1990: “If you look at a map of the world economy, you will see that there are countries that have disappeared. Peru and Bolivia could also disappear.” Reed made his statement because of the declared intention of the Peruvian government to fight the cocaine baron-billionaires.

IMF IMPOSES ITS POLICIES

Apart from the booming cocaine economy, most of Peru’s economy exists marginally on the informal economy, single family units of tiny production, just enough to keep the population from starvation. Coupled with savage austerity programs designed by the International Monetary Fund—which has caused inflation to run at around 2,500 percent—has not endeared President Fujimori to the population. The IMF has taken advantage of the somewhat inexperienced President, who has a degree in agriculture, by persuading him that IMF policies are right for Peru.

IMF policies have left millions of Peruvians without jobs and the economy of the country functioning solely to pay off Peru’s international debts. Diseases of all kinds are rampant, more particularly cholera in a new and virulent form, which has thus far infected close to one million people. Tuberculosis is sweeping the country, and according to one source, “There isn’t enough money for even basic medical care for our people.”

Clearly, by not listening to the Peruvian people’s complaints, Fujimori will lose his popular support.

It is a strange and difficult-to-understand mix of a President fighting to oust the drug barons, alienating the poor by allowing the IMF to take over the country’s economy, and yet fighting a ferocious battle against Sendero Luminoso (Shining Pathway) guerrillas, whose leader, Aheal Guzman, runs his death squads along the lines of Pol Pot, whom he greatly admires. While battling the cocaine barons, Guzman, and the distorted population, President Fujimori has also inexplicably created an enemy in Alan Garcia, former president of Peru, who spent his entire political career opposing the drug trade.

The hand of “Chairman Gonzalo”, as he is known to his 15,000 strong Sendero Luminoso terrorist organization, is very definitely seen in the present unrest. Guzman is called “Chairman Gonzalo” because of his fanatical dedication to Maoist doctrines. Guzman was indoctrinated in China, which he secretly visited in order to study Maoist and guerrilla tactics used to oust Chiang Kai-shek.

RUSSELL TO MAO TO GUZMAN

Guzman practices savagery unrivaled anywhere in the world today, using “selective liquidation” to wipe out those who oppose his gross militancy that has resulted in the deaths of 25,000 Peruvians thus far. As is normal with men like Guzman, he has been falsely described as “a genius” whereas, in reality, he is incapable of original thought and is absolutely mediocre when it comes to academic achievements. Mao was also described by an adoring Western jackal press as a genius, while conveniently forgetting to tell the world that the author of Mao’s thoughts was in fact Lord Bertrand Russell.

Guzman’s success lies in his utter dedication to Communism and willingness to commit atrocious murders while telling his fanatical followers that such killings are for the good of Shining Pathway. Guzman spares neither left nor right opponents. In February, Guzman’s assassins murdered Maria Elana Moyana, a popular leftist leader, as she addressed a community meeting. The guerrillas simply walked up to her, shot her in the head in front of the gathering, cleared the room and then dynamited her body. Guzman refuses to form an alliance with any other leftwing organization, which has not endeared him to other political groups, and his violent rhetoric backed up by violent action has led to his being feared and despised by the majority of ordinary citizens.

There is a firm body of opinion in Lima that believes Guzman is insane. They point to the forced suicide of his wife Augusta La Torre, whose Sendero Luminoso name was “Norah”. Guzman forced “Norah” to commit suicide because she dared to challenge him in front of his council members in a policy dispute. A captured videotape shows Guzman at the wake touching his dead wife’s face, saying, “Norah gave her life rather than raise a hand against the party.” Police and military say that 75% of all violent deaths in Peru occur at the hands of Sendero Luminoso.

While Guzman knows that he cannot win an outright battle with government security forces, his strategy is to so destabilize Peru that, eventually, it will become ungovernable. This appears to be what has forced President Fujimori to suspend the constitution, which is exactly what Guzman was hoping would happen. A group of Lima businessmen has posted a reward of $1 million for his capture but so far this has not brought the desired result.

While U.S. military advisors tell the Peruvian Army to search the Ayocucho district in Huamanga Valley high in the Andes, intelligence sources say that Guzman is not there because he suffers from asthma and psoriasis, neither of which can stand the climate in the high Andes. My sources told me, “Guzman is definitely in Lima. We don’t know why U.S. advisors say he is up in the mountains.”

What apparently brought the crisis to a head was the unwillingness of lawyers, judges, prosecutors and politicians to grasp the Guzman nettle and pull it up by the roots. Nowhere is this truth more readily evident than in the high security prison in Canton Grande on the outskirts of Lima. The judiciary and the prison governor are so afraid of Guzman that they allowed two blocks in the prison to be set aside for the sole use of Sendero Luminoso prisoners.

U.S. MEDIA INTRUDES

The prisoners were allowed to parade with red flags shouting Maoist-Communist slogans, like “learn from President Gonzalo” and “incarnate Gonzalo thought” which they also painted on the prison courtyard walls. Just lately, the jackals of the U.S. television media went down to Peru and glorified such antics in shows like “60 Minutes” and other popular TV “documentaries.” It was the actions of the U.S. media and the glorification of the 520 Sendero Luminoso murderers and criminals held at Canton Grande that finally broke Fujimori’s reserve and precipitated the present constitutional crisis.

In a sense it could be said that Guzman and the U.S. news media contributed largely to the nearness. President Fujimori ordered the Peruvian Army to Canton Grande and reports reaching me state that the 520 Sendero Luminoso prisoners “were dragged out by soldiers and bundled into waiting husses. Nobody knows where they are now.”

The reaction to the confusion in Lima by the Bush government was predictable—and in strange contrast to what happened in Venezuela a short few weeks ago. For all that, the opponents of Fujimori allege that he is NOT devoted to eradicating the drug trade but rather accommodating it, and that all of his decisions are made for him by Hernando de Soto, who is very much favored by the Swiss black nobility. Hernando de Soto says that coca bush cultivation “cannot be eradicated overnight, rather substitute crops must first be phased in before that happens. An all out war on drugs is not acceptable because it would alienate coca producers.”

Our February analysis of the situation through which the Congress will be kept informed of these developments overthrown of Congress by the Autonomous Authority for Alternative Development (AAAD), the vehicle down through the Institute for Liberty and Democracy (ILD). De Soto is a hard-sell Liberation Theology supporter and friend of Gustavo Gutierrez, the founder of Liberation Theology in Peru, who is the godfather of De Soto’s son.

There is a strong feeling in Lima that De Soto will push Fujimori to disband national institutions and replace them with dictatorial edicts, in the way that Yeltsin rules Russia. In our February analysis of the situation we stated that for the past 6 months the Constitution has been de facto suspended and De Soto is mainly responsible for this. We see the ultimate goal of De Soto and Fujimori being the overthrow of Congress by the Autonomous Authority for Alternative Development (AAAD), the vehicle through which the Congress will be overthrown. President Bush is being kept informed of these developments by Assistant Secretary of State, Bernard Aronson.

This being the case, why has the State Department suspended aid to Peru and ordered Aronsen and his assistants to leave? According to the latest information just received, President Fujimori felt that he was losing the battle against the Left, the Tupac Amaru Revolutinary Movement (MRTA), Sendero Luminoso and legislators and corrupt judges, whom he says refuse to help him in his drug war against the cocaine barons. “He may even be waking up to the fact that he has hitherto been just a pawn in the game, to be manipulated by the Washington establishment.

“The United States regards the actions undertaken during the night of April 5th in Peru, including the detention of opposition politicians and legislators and the seizure of the news media, to be an unjustified action against democracy,” said State Department spokesman Richard Boucher. President Fujimori said in a broadcast Sunday night, April 5th, that he wants to “reform a corrupt judiciary and an impotent legislature”. Certainly his action is getting rid of the highly publicized, highly visible Sendero Luminoso group of prisoners at Canton Grande makes it seem as if Fujimori has woken up to how he has been manipulated by Washington.

President Fujimori complained bitterly that the legislators and corrupt politicians, afraid of Sendero Luminoso, “won’t let us govern,” and he asked other Latin American countries for understanding of his problems. His foreign minister, Augusto Guzman is relied upon by the drug barons who control thousands upon thousands of acres of coca plantations. Has Fujimori broken out of the pattern set for him by Washington? It certainly seems so, otherwise why would the Bush Administration turn against the Constitution of Peru and ordered Aronsen and his assistants to leave?

Clearly, in spite of De Soto, Sendero Luminoso, since March, Fujimori has been waging a brutal war against the cocaine barons who control thousands upon thousands of acres of coca plantations. This has resulted in ferocious clashes with the guerrillas of Sendero Luminoso, which has cost Sendero Luminoso dearly. The private army of Guzman is relied upon by the drug barons to keep them safe from the army, for which Guzman is well rewarded. Military actions since March have posed a serious threat to this arrangement.

Apparently, Fujimori is determined to embark on his own course in the war on drugs, a REAL WAR, not the “just say no” variety of the Reagan and Bush Administrations. My intelligence source told me today that Fujimori decided to act when he saw that the military coup in Venezuela against the corrupt drug trade controlled government had almost succeeded. “The leader of the Venezuelan attempted coup, Lt. Hugo Chavez, told a Fujimori representative that the people wanted to have their needs met before paying anything to the IMF.

“Like Venezuelans, Peruvians want a just government not controlled by the drug trade.” Fujimori knew that he could not get the backing of the legal establishment and the legislature for a swift crackdown on the drug trade; that is why he took steps to bypass them by suspending the Constitution. The fact that Fujimori sent the military straight to Canton Grande to break up the open affront posed by the Sendero Luminoso prisoners to his government, speaks volumes, and must be giving President Bush nightmares, my source told me.

Has Fujimori broken out of the pattern set for him by Washington? It certainly seems so, otherwise why would the Bush Administration turn on him so viciously when only a scant two months ago President Bush was holding Fujimori up as a model for all Latin American leaders. The coming days will decide whether the hold of the IMF has been broken and whether suspending the Constitution means a
Paradoxical Dilemma: Constitution vs. Secrecy

A curious paradox, and it is one created by that very document. The Constitution guarantees individual liberties, the right of the minority to dissent, and privacy. But it also gives the President of the United States broad powers in the conduct of foreign policy—and, implicitly, intelligence operations—thus creating a dilemma for American democracy. The problem centers on the questions of secrecy: the conduct of foreign policy and intelligence operations is largely secret, and secrecy is anathema to democracy. The Constitution specifically states that ALL will be done openly and evil always hides behind secret intent and ritual. You be the judge.

What you Americans have allowed is the moving of your enemy against the Constitution, within your very being, nurtured it and in every way demanded and now the "Piper" must be paid for he will not simply go away nor will he give up his toys.

You are going to have to make your choices of direction and get up and DO SOMETHING. I do not, for instance, accept "I can't" for never will God give you that which "CAN'T BE DONE." So, DO IT—get off your "buts"; you know, those "but if I do, what might - - - " and "but they might do - - - " and "but if - - - " It rests with YOU—not your neighbor or your buddy or your government—YOU!

CIA: INTELLIGENCE AND POLICY, CONT'D

While Allen Dulles professed to believe that U.S. foreign policy should be based on intelligence estimates developed by an agency with "no axes to grind and...itself...not wedded to any particular policy," his actions were not always true to these words. Consequently, he made possible the Bay of Pigs—the classic case of what can happen when intelligence is misused in the carrying out of a clandestine operation.

The problem started on the eve of Fidel Castro's triumphant march into Havana in January 1959 while CIA analysts were preparing a report for the White House stating that the rebels' success was due largely to the corruption of the Batista regime and the resulting popular disgust among the Cuban people. Allen Dulles personally intervened in the intelligence process and rewrote this report to suit his own political biases. In Dulles' view, Castro's victory was not a natural development that could have been expected in light of the faults of Batista. Dulles' Calvinistic mind may well have seen the hand of the Devil at work, and he predicted that there would be a slaughter in Havana which would put the French Revolution to shame. "Blood will flow in the streets," he wrote passionately in the CIA report to the White House.

For the most part, however, the agency's analysts took a more moderate tone in the months that followed. They stressed that Castro's Cuba, while something of an annoyance, was in no way a direct threat to the security of the United States. The Intelligence Directorate also tried to explain that Castro, despite his socialist leanings, was fiercely independent and a devout nationalist, much like Indonesia's Sukarno, Egypt's Nasser, and Ghana's Nkrumah—all opponents of Western domination of the Third World but certainly not agents of any international communist conspiracy. Most important for future events, the analysts wrote that, regardless of the emotional reports flowing from Cuban refugees concerning political unrest on the island, Castro appeared to have general support of the populace.

Dulles did not accept this finding of his intelligence analysts, nor did he promote their point of view at the White House. Instead, he seized upon the reporting of the Clandestine Services as more truly reflective of events in Cuba. Dulles had always believed that the field operator was a more reliable judge of events than the intelligence analyst back at headquarters. Prior to Castro's takeover, there had not even been a full-time CIA analyst of Cuban problems in the Intelligence Directorate, and the two that were added after January 1959 never really won Dulles' trust. He preferred to read the assessments of the Clandestine Services' officers, who did their own evaluation of the clandestine reports received from secret agents.

CIA FLAWS LED TO BAY OF PIGS

Sometime during late 1959 Dulles decided that the best solution for the Cuban problem would be to invade Cuba with an army of Cuban refugees and to overthrow Castro. He was unquestionably influenced by the reports of the Clandestine Services, which, unlike those of the Intelligence Directorate, stressed the unpopularity of the Castro regime, its internal friction, and its economic troubles. In March 1960, President Eisenhower, at Dulles' urging and with Dulles' facts at hand, gave his approval for the CIA to start recruiting and training the ill-fated invasion force. Robert Amory, the Deputy Director of Intelligence, was never officially told the invasion was in the works so that his experts could analyze the chances of success. Dulles was convinced that Cuba was ripe for an invasion, and as he was the President's chief intelligence advisor, that was that.

When the CIA's military force failed to topple Castro in the spring of 1961, the agency's Intelligence Directorate temporarily gained equal footing with the Clandestine Services. This did not occur because there was any new found appreciation of the analysts' work but rather because the operators were in a general state of disgrace after the Bay of Pigs. John McCone took over as Director in November 1961, and after rising above his initial distrust of the entire organization, he ultimately saw the need for and the value of high-quality national intelligence.

7 LINES DELETED... Castro, whose secret agents had penetrated the CIA's operations long before the Bay of Pigs, knew perfectly well what the CIA was doing, and the ongoing American attacks against his rule may well have been an important factor in his decision in the spring of 1962 to allow the Soviet Union to install offensive nuclear weapons in his country. Assassination of Castro seemed to have been a recurrent idea in the CIA during these years. E. Howard Hunt claims to have recommended it before the Bay of Pigs, only to be turned down. In November of 1961, President Kennedy mentioned the idea in a private chat with Tad Szule, then of the New York Times. Kennedy asked the newsmen, "How would you feel if the United States assassinated Castro?" When Szule said he thought it was a very poor idea, Kennedy said, "I'm glad you feel that way because suggestions to that effect keep coming to me and I believe very strongly the United States should not be a party to political assassination." Lyndon Johnson told his former aide, Leo Janos, as recounted in a July 1973 Atlantic article, "We had been operating a damned Murder, Inc., in the Caribbean." Janos elaborated, "A year or so before Kennedy's death a CIA-backed assassination team had been picked up in Havana. Johnson speculated that Dallas had been a retaliation for this thwarted attempt, although he couldn't prove it."

CUBA/RUSS MISSILE CRISIS

The Cuban missile crisis that developed as a result produced one of the finest hours for the CIA and the intelligence community, although the last National Intelligence Estimate, prepared by the CIA a little over a month before President Kennedy went...

on nationwide television to announce the Cuban "quarantine", declared that it was unlikely that the Soviets would install nuclear-tipped missiles on the island. The fact remains, however, that the CIA and the other intelligence agencies did discover the Soviet missiles in time for the President to take action, and they presented the facts to Kennedy with no policy recommendations or slanting which could have limited his options. This was how the intelligence process was supposed to work.

The affair started in the late spring of 1962 when CIA analysts noted that the Soviets were sending an increased amount of military assistance to Cuba. These shipments were not viewed with particular alarm in the agency, since there was still much to be done in the Soviet re-equipping of the Cuban army forces, which was then under way. Furthermore, the CIA had ways of keeping track of what arms flowed into Cuba.

Since January 1961, when the Eisenhower Administration had broken diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, there had been no agency operators working out of an American Embassy in Havana, but the Additionally, a steady flow of refugees was arriving in Miami and being debriefed by agency officers permanently assigned there. As was true before the Bay of Pigs, the stories told by many of these refugees were hysterical but occasionally some valuable nugget of information would be gleaned from their tales.

Based on President Kennedy's request, the USIB had set Cuba as a Priority National Intelligence Objective (PNIO), and the various military intelligence agencies had been assigned extensive collection requirements by the USIB. New requirements were almost continually levied in response to the specific needs of the analysts. The Air Force and the Navy carefully watched the shipping lanes and photographed Soviet ships destined for Cuba. Surveillance was provided by the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, by the Atlantic fleet (which even had a listening post at Guantanamo Bay inside Cuba), and by the Air Force. U.S. intelligence photographed ship movements and listened in electronically on Cuban communications. The National Security Agency tuned its huge antennae in on Soviet shipping and Cuban communications. ITT operated much of the Cuban communications system before Castro's nationalizations, and the company worked closely with the CIA and NSA to intercept messages. Much of the old equipment was still in use, and the NSA was collecting large amounts of information. Finally, the CIA was flying two U-2 missions each month over Cuba, and the photographs taken by these spy planes were quickly turned over to the analysts.

SOVIET BUILDUP SWELLS

So while Soviet military (and economic) assistance to Castro was on the upswing in the late spring of 1962, there seemed little cause for alarm in the CIA or elsewhere in the U.S. government. Moscow had recently eased tensions in Berlin, much to the relief of Washington policy-makers whose strong stand in that divided city appeared to have paid off. But still there were a few ominous signs. The CIA learned that Soviet military personnel were being secretly used in combat roles as submarine crews in Indonesia and as bomber crews in Yemen, a drastic departure from previous Soviet practice. Then, by July the analysts noted further increases in the arms being shipped to Cuba, along with the arrival of a large number of young men from the Soviet Union--whom Moscow claimed were technical advisors to assist in economic development programs. The CIA doubted this, for, among other reasons, all the "civilians" were young, seemed to have a military bearing, and wore only two kinds of sport shirt. It was becoming clear that the Soviets were supplying too much military equipment for the Cuban armed forces to absorb. A small group of CIA analysts, expert in deciphering the ways Moscow and its allies conducted their foreign aid programs, became convinced that an unprecedented military buildup was occurring in Cuba. Their efforts during August to alert top U.S. officials to this threat were hampered, surprisingly, by military intelligence agencies, namely the DIA and the NSA, which viewed the intensified Soviet activity on the island as mostly economic assistance. Perhaps it was because the CIA had performed so poorly with its inaccurate reporting on Cuba as a prelude to the Bay of Pigs that even the hawkish U.S. military establishment was now leery of the agency's ability to assess the Cuban situation. In any event, both the DIA and the NSA saw fit to counter the CIA intelligence reports with rebuttals in late August 1962.

The basic reason that the CIA analysts were able to monitor the Soviet arms build-up more closely than the other intelligence agencies, which had essentially the same information available, was the more refined technique that the CIA had developed, including a special analytical tool known as "crateology"--a unique method of determining the contents of the large crates carried on the decks of the Soviet ships delivering arms. With a high degree of accuracy, the specialists could look at photographs of these boxes, factor in information about the ship's embarkation point and Soviet military production schedules, and deduce whether the crates contained transport aircraft or jet fighters. While the system was viewed with caution by many in the intelligence community, CIA Director John McCone accepted its findings, and his confidence in the technique proved to be justified.

MISSILES BELOW DECK

Nevertheless, the CIA's analysts did not spot the first shipments of Soviet offensive missiles, which arrived in Cuba during the early part of September. The Soviets escaped the scrutiny of the "crateologists" by sending the weapons in the holds of huge freighters, not in crates carried on deck as had been their usual practice when delivering bulky military equipment. On September 19, the USIB approved the National Intelligence Estimates which, while noting the disturbing Soviet arms build-up, declared it unlikely that the Russians would bring in nuclear-tipped missiles. During this period McCone personally suspected the worst of the Soviets, but, to his credit, he did not put his private views forward as the CIA position since, as he later said, it was based on "intuition", not "hard intelligence". Nevertheless, he did urge the White House to approve an increased schedule of U-2 flights. The President agreed in early October, but, at Defense Secretary McNamara's urging, responsibility for the reconnaissance missions was turned over from the CIA to the Air Force because of the danger that Soviet SAMs (surface-to-air missiles) posed to more frequent flights.

Just as the new wave of U-2's was starting surveillance of Cuba, on October 9, 1962, the mainland Chinese used a SAM to bring down a CIA U-2 flown by a Nationalist Chinese pilot. A SAM of the same model had knocked Francis Gary Powers out of the air over the Soviet Union two years earlier and would down an Air Force plane over Cuba late in October at the height of the missile crisis.

On October 14 an Air Force U-2 brought back photographs of six medium-range ballistic-missile sites which were nearing operational readiness and four intermediate range sites in the early stage of construction. CIA analysts were able to verify these pictures indisputably with the help of information previously provided by satellite surveillance of similar installations in the U.S.S.R. and from documents supplied by Penkovsky, and also by comparing the

RUSS BOMBERS IN CUBA

By the end of October, Nikita Khrushchev had been outmaneuvered by Kennedy and he promised to withdraw his country's offensive weapons from Cuba, in return for an American pledge not to invade the island. (This was a pledge that the CIA, with White House approval, seems to have violated systematically by continuing its guerrilla raids on Cuba until the late 1960's.) The CIA and several military intelligence agencies maintained their surveillance despite persistent rumors in the press that the Soviets had hidden some of the missiles in caves. The CIA even noted that a group of IL-28 jet bombers had been removed from a hiding place which the agency had (unknown to the Soviets) previously discovered.

President Kennedy chose later to view the missile crisis as a nearly disastrous intelligence failure, since the CIA had been unable to give early warning of the Soviet offensive build-up and had predicted in its last estimate the unlikelihood of Soviet missiles being placed on the island. He was not willing to concede that the agency's warning of heavily increased Soviet military activity on the island during the summer months (when military intelligence was claiming otherwise) compensated for the CIA's inability to predict that nuclear-missile sites would be constructed—even though it was as a direct result of the agency's warning that surveillance of the island was intensified and ultimately led to the discovery of the missiles. To what extent the President still mistrusted the CIA for its Bay of Pigs blunder is unclear, but Kennedy obviously expected better information.

The Cuban missile crisis illustrated the inherent limitations of intelligence, among the most important of which is that certain events simply cannot be predicted with accuracy or confidence. Khrushchev's decision to install nuclear missiles in Cuba was not knowable until the Soviets had actually embarked on that course of action. Careful psychological studies of Khrushchev's character could provide suppositions that he might act in an unpredictable way, but to have known exactly what he would do would have required divine analytical wisdom or spies in the inner reaches of the Kremlin—neither of which the CIA possessed. As for those people in the intelligence community whose visceral feelings led them to expect the worst of Khrushchev and Castro before either had contemplated the missile gamble—to have accepted their speculations as intelligence would have been the height of irresponsibility. Allen Dulles and his Clandestine Services lieutenants had had their own gut reactions to events in Cuba nearly two years earlier, and when their "feelings" were presented to the nation's leaders as intelligence, the outcome was the Bay of Pigs. John McCone proved himself a much more responsible intelligence officer than his predecessor when, unlike Dulles, he refused to impose his own suspicions upon the President. Hindsight may indicate that the Dulles technique, employed by McCone, would have had more favorable results— but hindsight is too easy.

The CIA and the rest of the intelligence community conducted extensive post-mortems of the missile crisis. They found that enough bits and pieces of information and other tenuous evidence had been available to have warranted an earlier judgment that the Soviets were installing their missiles. Bureaucratic entanglements and frictions, coupled with some degree of human imperfection, however, prevented even the most astute intelligence officers from determining the true purpose of Khrushchev's actions. Yet intelligence seems to have done the best it could in the existing circumstances; the one or two accurate agent reports picked up during September were buried among thousands of useless, inaccurate, or misleading ones. The collection of huge amounts of secret information from a multitude of sources and the availability of analytical staffs even larger than those available at the time are by themselves no guarantee that the CIA and the intelligence community will produce correct predictions. Intelligence is in essence a guessing game, albeit one that is grounded in fact, logic, and experience. It can be a useful tool to the policy-makers, but it is not, even in its purest form, a magic art.

HATONN: THINGS ARE STAGED TO DISTRACT YOU

As I speak on the various encounters and major actions set forth through the CIA I am continually amazed that even with our in-depth writing about the various situations, you are not informed as a citizenry. Things are staged so as to distract you from every important circumstance. As massive changes come upon you so, then, do the distractions increase until, as today, you have turmoil and uprising, chaos and terrorism in every part of the globe. Since these Clandestine Operations are kept secret, you don't know about them until after the fact and by then the trail is hidden in confusion and wonderment as to what happened, why (even to the lies they tell you) and certainly no one can figure out just what resulted. This is most especially true with a neighbor less than ninety miles from Florida.

I have told you exactly what happened and how your politicians were totally involved and still are, in an attempt to gain control and business interests in Cuba. The Bush family interests were uppermost at the time of the Cuban Bay of Pigs and still are. I do, however, realize as we write that most of you still don't know what the whole thing was about even as the government presented it to you. Therefore, Dharma, I see no alternative than to speak a bit about the subject.

The CLAIM was that Cuba was "going communist" and you couldn't have Commies on an island so close to you. The facts were that business interests were being taken back for Cuba by Fidel Castro's government. There was a great "civil" war going on and passions ran very deep in that Cuban civil war, and the American intelligence community was perplexed by events on the island overflowing with turbulence. This, of course, goes back to the 1950's when Fidel Castro was in his very early thirties. He wanted great things for Cuba and was optimistic that he would have his way.

The war went on for some time and Castro and his rebels quelled which gave cause for Batista to believe the confrontation was over. Government troops eventually even gave up hunting for the rebels, and announced, in a time of wishful thinking, that Castro and over half of his landing party had been slain. Far from dead, Castro, with his two companions, crawled out of the sugarcane field one day and fled into the Sierra Maestra to form a new guerrilla army. Just over two years later, on New Year's Day 1959, Castro led a triumphant procession of that army into Havana. A few hours before, dictator Fulgencio Batista had fled into exile, carrying nearly $300 million in cash with him, the proceeds of bribes paid by the owners of Havana's Mafia-run gamaces in the July 26th Movement coalition that he would NOT RESTORE THE CUBAN CONSTITUTION AND CIVIL LIBERTIES—AS HE HAD PROMISED IN ORDER TO WIN THEIR SUPPORT DURING THE WAR AGAINST BATISTA. SOUNc Familiar?? “Read my Lips!!” Less than two weeks after taking power, Castro re-legalized the Cuban Communist Party; in March, promised national elections were postponed. Amid arrests and executions, upper- and middle-class Cubans began fleeing the island to Miami; by 1960, over one hundred thousand Cubans had left. Finally, the nationalization of American businesses on the island, worth millions of dollars, caused a distinct frost on already chilly U.S.-Cuban relations.

We shall continue this at the next writing so that you can begin to look at segments as a part integrated into the whole. You, as a remnant, be it possible—must see the whole and relate to the timing of sequences which have brought you to this day in your counting.

It is hard to associate things which are only vaguely dim memories in your minds or are absent altogether and if present, are related only as lies instead of truthful facts.

PLANET EARTH: YEAR 2000

It is, however, A.I., a part of the bits and pieces being played out by the Adversary to have control of A.I. by year 2000. It is aptly called the Plan 2000. I have given you the following writing prior to this and I honor the writer who put it first to print, David Lewis:

In the grim years ahead, the time is 2000. The place: Earth, now a desolate planet slowly dying by its own accumulated errors and follies. Its dying is the end result of man’s wasteful years, his growth of technologies in the wrong direction, his fear of being conquered and his inability to cope with the reality that people are a human entity of God and not to be used or misused as a tool of whimsical temperament to deprive, starve or destroy at will.

By man’s own choice, the earth in Global 2000 lies barren of its forests while sand dunes rapidly spread over the fertile farm lands that once served so well. Nearly two million species of plant life has withered on the burned stalks; birds, insects and animals have vanished from sight; the once spar-all the American public that ‘inter-upt’ simply means the passing of a missile and an anti-missile missile going in different directions? And that the Patriots served their purpose!” Officer: “Yes sir, they kept Israel from entering the war which would have resulted in a lot of bloodshed.” Then, somehow in the incident wherein all of your men were killed in the barracks—“Well, neither battery worked because one was down and the other had ‘software failure’ from overuse!”

I warn you ones again—I told you the wool was tightly bound over your receptors and that the Patriots were worthless junk AT THE TIME—what kind of confirmation do you need before you will give God a chance to be heard???? So be it for these are only little tid-bits of entertaining pro- ductions with the lies totally visible and little attention even given to them.

The Japanese economy cannot sustain in this immediate plunge—the banks must fail. I remind you—if you are in one of those “other banks”—get out. Get your T-Bills and everything you have in them—out. If you must continue banking then get into Bank of America for it is one of the ones intended to sustain a bit longer. How long is a bit longer? Not very.

You still have a bit of time, but very little, to make some shifts with your funds, the price of gold is down also but has to rise according to the Elite themselves in prediction. And you still have some time to “incorporate in Nevada” if you work fast to “begin” coverage of self and assets and still come under protection of some kind of a “Grandfather” clause for these immediate and prior corp-orations. I ask that contact information be made available herein for ones to get information—it is all I can do for you—we do not do it FOR you. THERE IS NOTHING TO BACK THE ECONOMY IN JAPAN WHICH WAS, AS YOURS, BASED ON INSIDER RIP-OFF IN REAL ESTATE—GO BACK AND READ ABOUT IT A MONTH OR SO AGO IN THE LIBERATOR FOR I HAVE NO TIME TO ATTEND IT FURTHER. IT IS WAKE-UP-CALL, AMERICA, FOR YOU HAVE SLEPT PAST THE ALARM CLOCK.

Back to the CIA, Dharma, for we need to rip right through this information so we can move on in updating and other urgent topical sub-jects. I will postpone the “Cuba” outlay until after I finish this topic of Intelligence and Policy so that the outlay makes more sense to you so let us just move right along, please.

CIA: INTELLIGENCE AND POLICY
ABUSING THE PRODUCT

Unfortunately, intelligence reports are often sent to the nation’s leaders in a far from pure form, especially when the subject is Soviet military capabilities. Yet, estimating the quantity and quality of Soviet weapons is probably the intelligence community’s most important task, since the Soviet Union, on a strategic basis, is the only country in the world that offers a real threat to the security of the United States. [H: That is, other than the United States herself!] (The Chinese strategic threat is more potential than real.) [REMEM- BER: This was written and published in 1974! The danger is now immediate and very real indeed.] Every President since World War II has wanted to know about any dan- gerous imbalances between American and Soviet forces, and presidential decisions on whether or not to go ahead with the development of new and expensive weapons systems have been based, to a great extent, on intelligence estimates of how strong the Russians are (although domestic political considerations and the views of America’s allies also play a large role).

The Pentagon knows all too well that to justify its constant de-mands for new weapons and larger forces, intelligence must show that the Soviets are moving into a position of strength. Senator Stuart Symington has pointed out that scare stories about Soviet military strength appear at congressional budget time in springtime Washington as regularly as the cherry blossoms. To support a request for additional ships, the Navy will often magnify an increased threat from the Soviet fleet. The Air Force can much more easily obtain funds for a new bomber if it can show that the Soviets are developing one. Similar justifica-tions can be—and have been—made for missiles, tanks, and even the continuance of American programs for chemi-cal and biological warfare. Military analysts have tended to take a “worst-case” view of the Soviets, from which they predict the most dire possible consequences from Soviet action. Major General Daniel Graham, former chief of estimates at the DIA, described the process in an April 1973 article in Army Magazine: “To put it bluntly, there is a considerable body of opinion among decision-makers, in and out of DOD (Department of De-fense), which regards threat estimates prepared by the military as being self-serving, budget-oriented, and generally inflated.” While Graham con- cluded that the lack of confidence in military estimates is “fully under- standable”, stemming “from a series of bad overestimates, later dubbed ‘bomber gap’, ‘missile gap’, and ‘megaton gap’”, he asserted that mili-tary intelligence has now vastly improved and is capable of making object-ive estimates. While most observers of the intelligence community would agree with his assessment of the military’s bad record in estimates, few outside the Pentagon would accept his assertion that objectivity has returned to the Pentagon’s appraisals of the Soviets, although these appraisals are unquestionably closer to reality than they were ten years ago.

Graham illustrated another basic point that “is beginning to be understood in military planner circles”. He stated:

Estimates of future enemy forces and hardware are by nature of intent—not just capability. The old arguments about “capability versus intent” are heard less now in DOD. It remains true that intelligence should emphasize capability in descriptions of current and near-future enemy forces. But the minute you tackle the usual problem of estimating enemy forces (or hardware) a year or so into the future, you have entered the realm of intent. For example, since World War II the Soviets have never to our knowledge deployed forces of fielded hard-ware as fast as their total capability permitted. To estimate that they would do so with regard to some weapon system or type of force in the future would make little sense. . . . It is remarkable how long it has taken some of our military users to wise up to it.

[H: It appears to me they have waxed up very well. Perhaps you-the people just didn’t understand that the capability and the “intent” of the Patriot system were different than your expectations. The intent couldn’t be known for that would be top secret under “national security” regulations. The fact is, America and World, you HAVE BEEN “HAD”!!]

DEFENSE ESTIMATE CONFLICTS

As a result of the military’s propensity to overestimate, the CIA (usually supported by the State Department) is almost always suspicious of Pentagon positions. Thus, the agency tends to resist and counter military judgments, which in turn has led to CIA underestimation. In the national-security bureaucracy, the agency’s tendency to be wrong on the low side, while occurring far less frequently than the Pentagon’s errors, is considered more serious, since if estimates of Soviet capabilities run too high, that provides a margin for safety to the military planners, who may well spend billions of dollars reacting to a non-existent threat but who at least do not endanger the country by develop- ing too few weapons.

This continuing conflict between the military agencies and the civilians in the intelligence community was most evident in the prepara-tion of the National Intelligence Esti-mates (NIE’s) which, until 1973, were considered the highest form of national intelligence.

In the internal CIA reshuffling begun by James Schlesinger during his short stay at the agency and continued by Director Colby, the twelve-to-fifteen-man Board of National Esti-mates and its staff of forty to fifty specialists have been largely phased out—along with the production of thoroughly researched and well-thought-out community-wide NIEs. These documents, long the epitome of fin-ished intelligence production, were found to be inadequate for the more immediate foreign-policy purposes of Henry Kissinger and the Nixon Administration. Thus, the BNE has been replaced by a group of eight senior officers known as National Intel- ligence Officers who on short notice produce brief (no more than ten or twelve-page) assessments of what- ever international situation is of im-mEDIATE concern to Kissinger’s NSC staff.

The net result of this change has been that long-term estimates on broad subjects (e.g., the Outlook on Latin America Over the Next Decade, Soviet Strategic Strike Capabilities for the Next Five Years, etc.) have given way to short-term predictions which are little more than extensions

Value Of Incorporation--Especially In Nevada

What the “little people” do not realize is that you can function in security and safety the same as the “big corporate giant”, only more effectively.

"INCORPORATING IN A STATE LIKE NEVADA HAS MANY ADVANTAGES. NEVADA IS THE ONE STATE THAT DOES NOT HAVE AN AUTOMATIC EXCHANGE OF TAX FORMS WITH THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND, IT IS NOT EXPENSIVE TO INCORPORATE THERE." THAT MESSAGE CAME FROM ONE OF THE LEADING BUSINESS NEWSLETTER PUBLISHERS.

One reason you will likely be audited if you are just in business as "yourself" is that the IRS believes that many self-employed individuals do most of their business "off the books". The "home office" deduction taken by many self-employed individuals is a particularly high profile "red flag". So you will want to take steps to "auditproof" your tax return.

YOUR CORPORATION TAKES THE HEAT OFF YOU JUST AS LONG AS YOU KEEP GOOD, CLEAN, AND CLEAR RECORDS THAT SHOW ACTIVITY WHICH CAN BE EQUATED TO CORPORATE BUSINESS--NO LAW SAYS YOU CANNOT MAKE FOOLISH DECISIONS OR CAN THEY INSTRUCT YOU "MAKE MONEY" IN THAT CORPORATION--FURTHER, IF THEY DO NOT KNOW WHO OWNS A CORPORATION (NEVADA IS THE LAST PLACE AVAILABLE TO YOU FOR THAT MEASURE)--WHO CAN THEY PICK ON? KEEP YOUR RECORDS SO IMPECCABLE THAT ANYONE CAN AUDIT YOUR RECORDS OR ACCOUNTS. STAY SMALL, KEEP THE LAWS GIVEN YOU TO YOUR ADVANTAGE--WHY SHOULD THE "BAD" GUYS ALWAYS FINISH FIRST? GET IN THERE AND TAKE SOME ACTION WHILE THERE IS ANYTHING LEFT TO ACT "WITH".

EXCELLENT RECORDS AND YOU HAVE A SAFE HAVEN!

Nevada is not interested in knowing to much about your corporation. Nevada law only asks corporations to disclose the position of three of its officers, the President, Treasurer and Secretary. So, if you are the owner of a corporation and wish to remain hidden you have the perfect arrangement. With a little creativity and help from others, you could set up your corporation to keep yourself hidden and behind the scenes. Remember, the control of a corporation falls in the hands of its stock holders/owners.

No, this will not be utopia for ever--but it will be as long or longer than any other alternative. You see, where you have the major "big boys" hiding their faces you can better hide yours. Nevada is not apt to change very quickly for this is the major industry other than gaming. Further, if the Feds crack down on Nevada, they are going to be putting their best workers and comrades out of business. USE THE LAWS GIVEN YOU TO YOUR BEST ADVANTAGE--WHY SHOULD THE "BAD" GUYS ALWAYS FINISH FIRST? GET IN THERE AND TAKE SOME ACTION WHILE THERE IS ANYTHING LEFT TO ACT "WITH".

NEWS LEAKS FOR FUNDING

These intelligence wars are not just fought out in the privacy of the intelligence community. All the members have occasion selectively disclosed secret data to the press and to members of Congress in support of their budgetary requests. But as columnist Joseph Kraft has written, "...far, far more than the civilians in the government, the uniformed military are in the habit of leaking information to serve their own interests." The sanctity of classified information seems to fall apart when fights for additional funds are under way in Congress. Former Assistant CIA Director for Research Herbert Scoville, Jr., was absolutely correct when he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on March 28, 1972, that "The history of the past twenty years is dotted with example after example of intelligence being misused to promote within the Congress the programs of individual organizations or even of the administration as a whole."

Newsmen friendly to the Pentagon, such as Joseph Alsop (who helped promote the Pentagon's mythical bomber, missile, megaton, and ABM gaps, and is currently pushing the military's latest fright gimmick, the "technological gap"), and William Beecher, have long received leaks of material marked 'HIGHER THAN TOP SECRET' to buttress the military's case in a particular dispute. Included have been numerous reports based on satellite photography and communications intercepts—collection methods so sensitive that the overwhelming majority of government employees with security clearances are not authorized access to the information received.

Beecher, for many years the New York Times' Pentagon correspondent, left the paper in early 1973 to become a Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs. Ironically, his 1969 story about the secret American bombing of Cambodia and his 1971 piece on the classified American bargaining position at the S.A.L.T. talks were credited by the Nixon Administration as being among the principal reasons, along with the more important leak of the Pentagon Papers, for the formation in June 1971 of the so-called White House plumbers to stop unauthorized disclosures in the press.

When Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird and other Defense officials publicly quoted and leaked such one-sided intelligence during the 1969 congressional debate over the ABM that someone—probably in the CIA or the State Department—countered by providing the New York Times with the draft of a USIB estimate that refuted most of the Pentagon arguments about the danger posed by the Soviet ABM. In 1971 the Defense Department passed satellite-photo-based material concerning alleged Soviet construction of a new and larger type of missile to military-spending champion Senator Henry Jackson. Calling the development "ominous indeed", Jackson warned the country on March 7 about what the Soviets were supposedly doing, at the same time that Congress was considering the military budget. Melvin Laird corroborated Jackson's disclosure three days later in a television interview, and on April 22 cited fresh intelligence "confirming the sobering fact that the Soviet Union is involved in a new—and apparently extensive—ICBM construction program."

Additionally, the threat described by Jackson and Laird was made even more vivid by a spate of unattributed supporting leaks.

Finally, an anonymous CIA employee struck back at the Pentagon. He knew that the agency had concluded that the Soviets were only "hardening" their missile sites rather than deploying a huge new missile system, and that over two-thirds of the excavations mentioned by Jackson and Laird were intended for an older and relatively small ICBM. So this CIA man publicly disclosed the agency's secret finding, according to the New York Times of May 26, 1971, through "non-government arms control experts" and "Senate Republican sources". Even though the CIA prarial turned out to be much closer to the truth than the Pentagon's gloomy version, at least for another year, no one in the U.S. intelligence community knew for sure what the Soviet missile builders were really doing. In the meantime, the military scare stories—offset to some extent by the CIA's counter-leaks—undoubtedly had a psychological effect on the Congress which, in 1971, as usual, approved almost the whole Pentagon budget request.
